Les documents 6 à 26 :Répétitifs*Insusceptibles de prouver ce qu'ils entendent établir

Ces documents rapportent bien souvent les paroles de personnes qui soit ne sont pas disponibles pour témoigner (cf Jean Dyrac) ou n'ont pas été cités à comparaître par la Chambre (cf Sapper, Picquart...). Ils sont donc à manier avec une grande précaution et ne devraient être admis que s'ils sont la seule source d'information disponible et qu'il n'y ait pas d'impact important sur l'équité de la procédure (E43/4). Or, force est de constater que tel n'est pas le cas. Tout d'abord, beaucoup de ces documents traitent des conditions de vie à l'Ambassade de France et sont donc dénués de pertinence dans le cadre du procès.

Aussi, ces documents rapportent des propos de personnes qui ne sont pas citées à comparaître. Le contenu ne peut donc pas être vérifié. Il est important de noter que confronté à un télégramme de l'Ambassade Américaine de Bangkok (D291/6.2.31), le témoin TCW-565 Rockoff AI, a nié s'être entretenu avec un chargé de l'Ambassade comme le rapporte le télégramme : « Je n'ai pas dit à l'ambassade américaine quoi que ce soit (...) Je n'ai sûrement pas utilisé le terme « faction ». (...) Je n'ai jamais accompagné des Khmers Romdas dans la ville. Donc, je ne sais pas qui est la source de ce document, mais peut-être devrait-il être rééduqué pour les inexactitudes qui figurent dans ce télégramme. » (Projet de transcription d'audience du 29 janvier 2013, pages 54 et 55). Bien que le document dont ce témoin a nié la validité ne soit pas proposé en tant qu'élément de preuve, il vient jeter de sérieux doutes quant à la fiabilité des documents entrant dans cette catégorie.

De la même manière, un autre document listé par les co-Procureurs rapportant le témoignage d'une personne se trouvant à l'Ambassade de France se retrouve contredit par au moins 3 autres documents au dossier (documents qui eux n'ont pas été listés par les co-Procureurs.) Il s'agit du document D365/1.1.19. Ce document est un article du Los Angeles Time daté du 9 mai 1975 rapportant que "Bernard Piquart, chirurgien chef de l'hôpital Calmette de Phnom Penh, a également affirmé avoir vu 300 corps égorgés au marché central de la capitale." Selon d'autres documents disponibles au dossier, M. Piquart est soit revenu sur ses déclarations, soit a déclaré n'avoir jamais tenu de tels propos (D22/289.25 et D365/5.1.25 et E190.1.307). Cette information n'est d'ailleurs pas corroborée par les autres éléments de preuve au dossier.

Dernièrement, ces documents sont largement répétitifs. La Chambre a cité à comparaître 4 personnes se trouvant dans l'Ambassade de France ce jour-là (TCW-565, TCW-624, TCW-701, TCW-536) et de nombreux documents écrits par ces personnes racontant en détail les événements figurent au dossier (E3/51). Ces personnes sont parfois les mêmes que celles dont les propos sont rapportés dans les documents de cette catégorie ou sont en mesure de témoigner sur les mêmes faits. La preuve testimoniale orale constitue un meilleur mode de preuve. Il est important de réduire l'admissibilité de ces documents afin que la Chambre et les parties puissent

Insusceptible de prouver ce qu'il entend établir L'auteur de l'article n'est pas mentionné. L'article date du 9 juillet 1975 et contredit celui du 13 juin 1975 sur certains points. Ces deux articles ont pourtant tous deux été publiés dans le NY Times, portent tous deux sur l'évacuation de Phnom Penh et se basent tous deux sur le récit des réfugiés ayant fui en Thaïlande. Dans l'article précédent, il appert que l'"on avait mis en réserve suffisamment de denrées alimentaires, notamment du riz, à différents points de la ligne de marche pour nourrir les millions de personnes qui avaient emprunté les routes principales" et que "les réfugiés qui ont été interrogés ont déclaré qu'ils avaient bien été traités et qu'ils n'avaient jamais manqué de denrées de base, du riz essentiellement. Ils ont en outre indiqué n'avoir jamais observé de signes de brutalité de la part des agents communistes." (D365/1.1.34) Le récit du second article D365/1.1.38, sobrement intitulé "Le crime du Cambodge" dresse un tableau plus pessimiste. Il se base sur le récit de 7000 réfugiés ayant fui en Thaïlande bien qu'il reconnaît que "seule une infirme partie d'entre eux a pris part à la marche de la mort quittant les villes ou a suffisamment traversé le pays." L'auteur qualifie le récit de ces réfugiés de "compte-rendus confus et contradictoires de ces victimes" mais s'appuie dessus pour "avoir une petite idée des atrocités perpétrées." Il affirme que les "communistes" ont déplacé un tiers de la population du pays pour quitter les villes "sous la menace d'un fusil, par des températures tropicales et malgré des pluies de mousson sans leur fournir de nourriture, d'eau, d'abris, sans garantir leur sécurité physique ou sans leur apporter de soins médicaux." Le but affiché de cet article est "de rompre" avec le silence du congrès américain et de l'ONU et les éléments sur lesquels ils s'appuient sont sujets à caution.

De telles erreurs ne pourront être remarquées pour les traductions de retranscriptions de radio puisque l'audio n'est pas disponible au dossier et que la version khmère du discours est en fait une traduction de la traduction anglaise du discours (voir commentaire au sujet du document D108/31.28).

Insusceptible de prouver ce qu'il entend établir ; Impossible à obtenir dans un délai raisonnable Il s'agit d'une photographie, qui proviendrait de la collection personnelle de Nhem Em, photographe officiel à S-21. Elle aurait été achetée au photographe par le Phnom Penh Post et aurait été donnée aux co-Procureurs par Steve Heder au stade de l'enquête préliminaire (D313). Le cliché ne représente pas S-21. Rien dans la photographie permet d'indiquer que les combattants sont des soldats khmers rouges, ni les raisons pour lesquelles ils se trouvent à l'endroit où ils sont. Nous ne disposons pas non plus d'information quant à la date de la photographie. Les co-Procureurs affirment qu'il s'agirait de combattants Khmers Rouges au Stade Olympique le 17 avril 1975 mais n'indiquent pas ce qui leur permet de faire une telle affirmation. Il est important de noter que lors de la déposition du photographe Rockoff AI, une de ses photographies lui a été présentée. Le cliché se trouvait au DC Cam. Cette organisation datait la photographie du 17 avril 1975. Cependant, le témoin a clairement indiqué en audience qu'il s'agissait d'une erreur et que la photographie a été prise 1 à 2 mois avant la chute de Phnom Penh. (« Oui j'aurais bien aimé que Youk Chhang entre en contact avec moi. Il a reçu plusieurs imprimés de la collection de Peter McGuire et il y a beaucoup de mes photos dans cette collection. En effet, la légende est erronée. Ce n'était pas le 17 avril. C'est une erreur avec laquelle je n'ai rien à voir. J'ai bien-sûr l'intention de collaborer avec le Centre de documentation et d'ajouter d'autres photos à cette collection, mais je regrette que la vignette soit erronée. » Projet de transcription d'audience du 29 janvier 2013, pages 46 et 47). En l'absence de témoignage oral de l'auteur de la photographie précisant les conditions dans lesquelles ce cliché a été pris, le document est insusceptible de prouver ce qu'il entend établir.
