Welcome to the 21th edition of The Court Report. This newsletter is published monthly in an effort to keep the public better informed about court activities.

In the Judicial section, updates from the Pre-Trial Chamber, the Trial Chamber, the Office of the Co-Investigating Judges, the Office of the Co-Prosecutors, and the Victim's Unit are included.

In the Public Information & Outreach section, information is provided regarding the PAS's outreach efforts to victims and Civil Parties, in addition to the response of foreign visitors to the court.

The NGO page includes a description of the Center for Justice and Reconciliation (CJR) that details their work with victims and partnership with the court.

As usual, we have included calendars with upcoming Court and Outreach Information.

Spokesmen, including Chief of Public Affairs Reach Sambath, held a press conference to announce that the Co-Investigating Judges consider the investigation into Case 002 finished

Judicial Investigation in Case 002 Concludes

On 14 January, the Public Affairs Section held a press conference to announce the conclusion of the judicial investigation in Case 002. The Co-Investigating Judges have notified all involved parties and their lawyers of the decision. In Case 002, charges have been laid out against Ieng Sary, Ieng Thirith, Nuon Chea, Khieu Samphan and Kaing Guek Eav.

During the two and a half years of judicial investigation to crimes allegedly committed by them between 17 April 1975 and 6 January 1979, OCIJ gathered tens of thousands of pages of documentary evidence and 800 statements from all parties. Over the course of the inquiry, more than 200 decisions have been rendered and over 2,000 civil party applications were received. In accordance with the tribunal's Internal Rules, the Co-Investigating Judges have investigated only allegations of crimes set out in the Introductory and Supplementary Submissions from the Co-Prosecutors.

At the press conference, PAS explained the judicial process from the conclusion of the investigation and informed the press that the Co-Investigating Judges wish to issue a Closing Order to indict or dismiss the case by September 2010.

With the conclusion of the investigation, all parties are now have 30 days to request further investigation into the case. People who wish to become a Civil Party are required to file an application by 29 January.

For more information on the conclusion of the court-initiated judicial investigation and the deadline for Civil Party application, please see http://www.eccc.gov.kh/english/news.view.aspx?doc_id=330, and http://www.eccc.gov.kh/english/news.view.aspx?doc_id=331.

Four Leaders in Detention Additionally Charged with Genocide

Charges against four former Khmer Rouge senior leaders, currently detained for Case 002, have been extended to include genocide against Cham Muslims and Vietnamese.

Before concluding their investigation, the Co-Investigating Judges in late December notified Nuon Chea, Khieu Samphan, Ieng Sary and Ieng Thirith that they were now additionally charged with genocide under international law and three additional crimes under the 1956 Penal Code of homicide, torture and religious persecution. Ieng Thirith was initially charged only with crime against humanity while other three with crime against humanity and war crimes.

The 1948 Convention on Genocide defines genocide as "acts committed with the intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group." The extension of the charges marks the first time the ECCC has brought the genocide charge. However, is yet to be determined, whether any of the charged persons will be indicted for genocide.

ECCC Wins Law Technology Award

The Extraordinary Chambers in the Court of Cambodia (ECCC) has been awarded the prize for “Most Innovative Use of Technology During a Trial” in the annual Law Technology News Awards.

The Law Technology News is an American-based monthly publication that reports on the latest technologies, products and services available for the legal marketplace. It has selected the ECCC for the award “for its success in installing and using technology despite extraordinary difficulties, constraints and a limited budget” for its first trial case against a former security prison chief.

The ECCC successfully concluded the trial against Kaing Guek Eav alias Duch in late November last year. During the trial, the Trial Chamber heard testimonies of 55 witnesses including surviving victims, former prison guards and interrogators. At the 77-day public hearing stretched from 30 March to 27 November, nearly 28,000 visitors, mostly rural Cambodian villagers, closely watched the proceedings from the public gallery. A verdict for the case is expected in coming months.

Behind the scenes of the successful trial were continuous efforts on the technical component of the ECCC to ensure the trial proceeded smoothly. Staff ensured simultaneous interpretation of the three official languages Khmer, English and French, video links for testimonies from overseas and live streaming for TV broadcasting, among other things. The award comes as a testimony to the hard work and dedication of staff.

The ECCC is among the 10 winners of “Law Firm and Legal Department Awards” in the magazine’s seventh annual awards programme.

ECCC Requests Donors to Approve Budget for 2010-2011

The Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia (ECCC) has presented its budget requirements for 2010 and 2011, a total of $93.3 million, to donors in New York. The proposal is currently under review by the donors.

Representatives of the ECCC, headed by Acting Director Tony Kranh and Deputy Director Knut Rosandhaug, in mid-December presented the proposal to the Steering Committee of the UN Assistance to the Khmer Rouge Trials (UNAKRT) and the Group of Interested States to the ECCC (GIS).

For 2010, the ECCC seeks approval for the proposed budget of $46.0 million: $34.5 million for the international component and $11.5 million for the national component, inclusive of contingency. For 2011, the tribunal requests $47.3 million: $35.6 million for the UN and $11.8 million for Cambodia. The budget for 2009 was $36.4 million: $29.4 for the UN and $7.0 for Cambodia.

The budgetary hike is mainly due to an anticipated increase in the level of judicial activity. The Pre-Trial Chamber will be shifted from part-time to full-time in early 2010 and the Supreme Court Chamber might sit full time from mid-2010. The proposed budget also reflects an increase in defense costs for legal representation related to potential additional cases.

The ECCC is financed almost entirely by donors’ voluntary contributions. The court’s representatives have reported that the proposal was well received by the donors at the meetings. The ECCC is expecting to hear their response in coming weeks.

Pre-Trial Chamber

In December 2009, the Pre-Trial Chamber rendered decisions in relation to five appeals or applications.

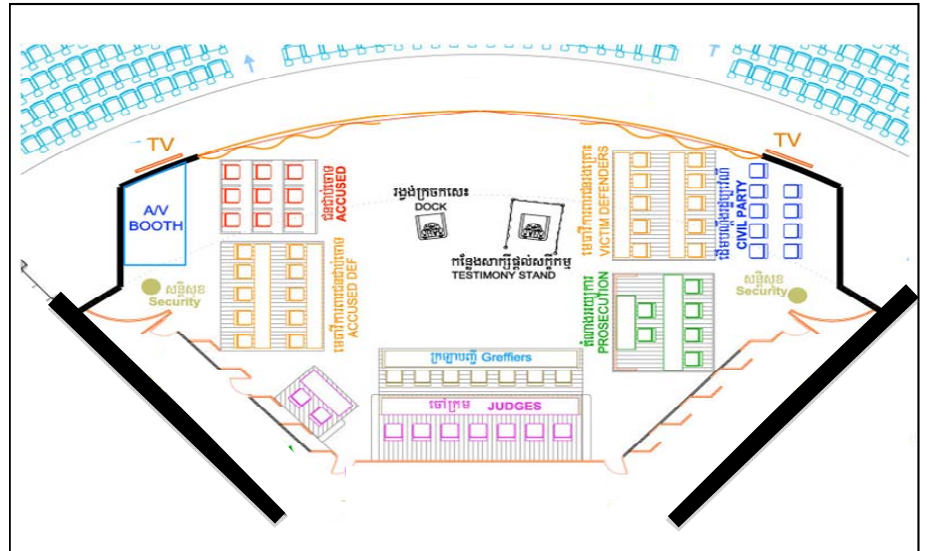

On 9 December 2009, the Pre-Trial Chamber rendered its decision on Ieng Sary's Application to Disqualify Co-Investigating Judge Marcel Lemonde. This Application, brought on the basis of statements allegedly made by the international Co-Investigating Judge, was dismissed. Taken together, the context and language in which the words were allegedly spoken, their uncorroborated character, format and content of the statement upon which the Application was based, and the present stage of the judicial investigation ensured that the Application did not rebut the heavy presumption of impartiality enjoyed by all ECCC judges.

On 14 December 2009, the Chamber rendered its Decision on Ieng Sary's parallel application to disqualify Judge Lemonde, which the Chamber also declared inadmissible.

On 15 December 2009, the Chamber rendered its Decision on Ieng Sary's Appeal against the Co-Investigating Judges' Order rejecting their request for an additional demographic expert. This decision, rendered publically but redacted in part, declared the appeal inadmissible and accordingly did not evaluate its substance.

On 18 December 2009, the Chamber rendered its Decision on the admissibility of Ieng Thirith's appeal against the Co-Investigating Judges' Order concerning the use of statements which were or may have been obtained by torture. The Defence requested the Co-Investigating Judges to exclude all such evidence, except to show that a statement under torture was made, and only against the alleged torturer. The Chamber declared this appeal inadmissible, on grounds that it did not pertain to a "request for investigative action" within the ambit of Rule 74(3)(b). It further found that the fair trial rights of Accused persons are adequately safeguarded by the opportunity afforded to them under the Rules to challenge the admissibility of evidence on this basis instead before the

Main courtroom of the ECCC

On 22 December 2009, the Chamber rendered its Decision on Ieng Sary's Appeal Against the Co-Investigating Judges' Constructive Denial of Ieng Sary's Third Request for Investigative Action. It declared the appeal inadmissible and accordingly did not evaluate its merits.

At the conclusion of the reporting period, the Pre-Trial Chamber remained seised of six appeals, with four additional appeals being notified during December 2009, as well as five applications.

All matters pertain to Case 002.

Trial Chamber

Following the conclusion of the hearing of evidence and closing arguments in the case against Kaing Guek Eav (alias Duch) on 27 November 2009, the Chamber is currently engaged in judgment drafting. The verdict is expected in the first half of 2010.

Supreme Court Chamber

On 28 December 2009, the Supreme Court Chamber rendered its decision in relation to an appeal by two Civil Party groups against the Trial Chamber's oral decision of 27 August 2009, in which the Trial Chamber, by a majority, barred Civil Parties from making submissions relevant to sentence and posing questions to witnesses and the Accused regarding the character of the Accused.

The Supreme Court Chamber held that these appeals fell outside the scope of Internal Rule 104 (4), which limits the category of immediate appeals admissible before the ECCC. The decisions in question may therefore only be appealed at the same time as an appeal against the judgment on the merits. This decision was the first to be rendered by the Supreme Court Chamber.

Judicial Committees

Between 3-9 December 2009, the Rules and Procedure Committee convened in Phnom Penh to consider proposed amendments to the Internal Rules giving effect to the directions of the September 2009 Plenary Session pertaining to consolidating and streamlining of the Civil Party system. These amendments, which had been prepared by a Sub-Committee created by the Plenary, have since been forwarded, with modification, for consideration at the next ECCC Plenary Session, which will take place between 2-9 February 2010.

Office of the Co-Investigating Judges

With the investigation in Case File 002 drawing to a close, December was a particularly intense phase for the OCIJ, involving a growing number of field missions and hearings.

OCIJ investigators under rogatory letters conducted 16 field missions in December in different provinces of Cambodia and interviewed 43 witnesses and 11 civil parties.

The Co-Investigating Judges received 20 additional legal and investigative requests from the parties, and issued 10 responses to such requests, eight of which have been made available to the public on the ECCC website (http://www.eccc.gov.kh/english/court_documents_list.aspx?courtDocCat=ocij_docs). Those responses include:

3 December 2009, Response to IENG Thirith lawyer's request for uniform spelling of witness names and locations mentioned throughout the Case File in which the Co-Investigating Judges address the Defense' request for uniform spelling of witness names and locations mentioned throughout the case file.

8 December 2009, Order on the Application at the ECCC of the Form of Liability Known as Joint Criminal Enterprise (This order has been appealed)

11 December 2009, Response to IENG Sary lawyer's "Request for Investigative Action", concerning, Inter Alia, the Strategy of the Co-Investigating Judges.

14 December 2009, Response to IENG Thirith's Lawyers Request For Translation of Certain Documents Before The Close of Investigations.

22 December 2009, Order on Civil Party Request for investigative actions concerning enforced disappearance.

22 December 2009, Order on Request for investigative action concerning Forced Marriages and Forced Sexual Relation.

Co-Investigating Judges, Mr. You Bun Leng and Mr. Marcel Lemonde

28 December 2009, Order on Request for Investigative Action on the Applicability of the Crime of Genocide at the ECCC.

Civil Parties

As of 31 December 2009, 246 Civil Parties have already been admitted to Case 002. Currently only 92 of the admitted civil parties have legal representation. In December, the Victims Unit filed a further 411 civil party applications. Consequently another 1,631 civil party applications are presently being processed by OCIJ.

Outreach

On 11 December 2009, OCIJ participated in a Conference on Victims' Participation organized by the Center for Justice & Reconciliation at the Pannasastra University of Cambodia in Phnom Penh.

On 17-18 December, OCIJ participated in a Civil Party forum organized by the Victims Unit in the public gallery of the ECCC courtroom.

Office of the Co-Prosecutors

Legal Work

In December 2009, the OCP continued its participation in the judicial investigation and the appellate proceedings in Case 002, in which charged persons Kaing Guek Eav alias Duch, Khieu Samphan, Ieng Sary, Ieng Thirith and Nuon Chea are being investigated for crimes enumerated in the Introductory Submission of 18 July 2007. In particular, the OCP filed its responses to the Pre-Trial Chamber to Ieng Sary, Ieng Thirith and Khieu Samphan's appeals against extension of their provisional detention by the Co-Investigating Judges. The OCP also filed its response to the Defence request for the disqualification of the International Co-Investigating Judge and for his alleged interference in the administration of justice. The OCP participated in the interviews of charged person Duch conducted by the Co-Investigating Judges on 2-3 December.

Trial Proceedings

After filing its Final Trial Brief and concluding its final oral submissions, the OCP now awaits the judgment of the Trial Chamber in Case 001 that dealt with the Khmer Rouge's S-21 Security Centre in Phnom Penh.

Analysis

Amongst many other activities, the OCP maintained and updated its case management database (CaseMap), analyzed open source and in-house documents and continued its microfilm digitization project.

It continued to analyze the Case File and prepared Trial Readiness Assessment Reports (TRARs) to assess the requirements of making further investigative requests to the Co-

Investigating Judges. The OCP has so far filed 17 such requests. The OCP also filed applications before the Co-Investigating Judges to place relevant Khmer Rouge era documentation on the Case 002.

To date, the OCP has also forwarded 1,947 criminal complaints to the Co-Investigating Judges for inclusion in Case 002. More than 150 other criminal complaints are currently under review. These were received from individual complainants through the Victims Unit.

Civil Party Applications

The processing team of the Victims Unit received a total of 676 new Victim Information Forms in December 2009. This brings the total of VIFs received by the unit to 7,195 (3,598 Complaints, 3,533 Civil Party applications, and 64 unclear, withdrawn, duplicates or deceased).

Outreach

National Civil Party Forum

On 17-18 December, the Victims Unit organized a national Civil Party Forum in the ECCC courthouse to inform Civil Parties and applicants to Case 002 of the role of Civil Parties and Complainants within the tribunal's legal process. During the two-day forum, the 300 participants also met with their lawyers in small groups to address their personal concerns. The forum was funded by the German government, and a number of NGOs such as TPO, ADHOC and DC-Cam also participated. (See related story on page 8)

Field Trips to Kampong Thom and Kampong Cham

In December, two teams conducted outreach activities in Kampong Thom Province and Kampong Cham Province. The Kampong Cham team delivered a total of 72 notifications from the Office of the Co-Prosecutors to the complainants, and Kampong Thom Team a total of 69. The latter team learned that one of the complainants had passed away. During the trip, the outreach teams collected a total of 18 new Victim Information Forms in Krovien Thum Village, Memot District, Kampong Cham Province.

Television and Radio Spots

The Victims Unit created a TV and radio spot to inform the public about the deadline for Civil Party applications, and on 29 December began to air the announcement on four TV channels and 10 radio stations across Cambodia. This was part of an effort to reach out as many victims as possible before an anticipated announcement of the conclusion of judicial investigation in Case 002. Victims now have only 15 days to submit the application after the conclusion of investigation.

In December, the unit received 54 calls from victims and interested persons to its helpline. During the first week after the TV and radio spot, a total of 105 calls reached

Voices of Foreign Visitors

Eckerd College students attend a briefing by Public Affairs Officer

On 15 January, 14 American students from Eckerd College visited the ECCC. This is the second consecutive year that Professor Nancy Janus has brought a student group to the courthouse. This year the undergraduate Human Trafficking Field Study: Thailand and Cambodia students visited Tuol Sleng, the Killing Fields of Choeung Ek and the ECCC all in the same day.

Professor Nancy G. Janus

- "Without understanding the history of a country, the students cannot understand Cambodia today."

Jessica Wright

- "I love the people here [in Cambodia]; they made me come back. It is just an amazing country."

Caroline Keesee

- "I hope the trial works out for the best. I just hope for justice."

Hisashi Sato

- "I'm glad to that it's happening...it's actually happening."

ECCC Officials Reach out to Victims, Civil Parties

Recognizing the importance of victims' participation in the process, representatives from the Extraordinary Chambers in the Court of Cambodia participated in two public forums in December to reach out to victims and civil parties.

On 11 December, five officials of the ECCC joined an open dialogue with victims at the National Conference on Khmer Rouge Victims' Participation, organized by the Center for Justice and Reconciliation at Pannasastra University in Phnom Penh.

Nearly 100 victims and those who wished to be a Civil Party were present at the venue along with 100 students and addressed their concerns and questions. Representatives from the Offices of Co-Prosecutors, Co-Investigating Judges, the Victim's Unit, the Witness and Experts Support Unit, and the Public Affairs Section were invited to meet with them.

During the two-hour open dialogue, court officials endeavoured to make the participants understand the workings of the court.

For example, responding to a question about the seemingly lengthy process of judicial investigation, Judge Marcel Lemonde said that the court must comply with due process to ensure a fair trial while acknowledging the urgency of delivering justice. "We try to do our best to bring justice to Cambodians," he said. Anees Ahmed, senior assistant prosecutor, explained that the tribunal would not prosecute the deceased, since a fair trial requires the court ensure the accused present to defend themselves.

Meanwhile, on 17-18 December the ECCC's Victims Unit organized a Civil Party forum for applicants at the ECCC. More than 300 people from 15 provinces participated.

During the two-day forum, representatives of the court explained to the participants the role of a Civil Party in the legal process and how the court works.

Craig Etcheson, investigator of the Office of Co-Prosecutors, explained the concept of "presumption of innocence" and the role of prosecutors in the court to initiate prosecution by setting the scope of investigation on particular crimes. "Civil Parties play a key role to find out what were committed and who were responsible for those crimes," he said. "You play a crucial role in the judicial process, and we cannot do it without you."

Participants raised many important issues during the forum. Some participants sought answers to the magnitude and brutality of the Khmer Rouge atrocities, while others wanted to know why crimes committed in a certain district or prison were not included in the scope of the investigation.

The Civil Party Forum was the third one the Victims Unit organized to facilitate the participation of victims in the judicial process for the Case 002. During the forum, participants expressed that they participate in the process in order to seek justice, discover truth, combat impunity, teach the younger generation about the Khmer Rouge atrocities and help reform the judicial system.

Dr. Helen Jarvis, head of the Victims Unit, stressed the significance of victims' participation. "The main purpose of the ECCC is to seek justice for the victims," she said.

At the 11 December event, audience members were asked to raise their hands if they lost a family member during the Khmer Rouge's reign

CJR: A New Resource for Victims and a Partner with the Court

CJR members working with the Court Monitoring Program

The Center for Justice and Reconciliation (CJR), a new civil society organization partnering with the ECCC, advocates for Khmer Rouge survivors. Since it opened its doors in August 2009, CJR submitted over 130 civil party applications to the ECCC, organized a national conference on victims' participation, and facilitated the organization, registration and capacity building of the first nationally-based Association of Khmer Rouge Victims of Cambodia (AKRVC).

A non-profit non-governmental organization with a broad mandate, CJR seeks to promote justice and democratic values; empower Cambodians through trainings, seminars, research and publications, broadcastings and other media outlets; build partnerships with like-minded institutions; and improve the quality of life of the Cambodian people. Currently, CJR houses a Victims Participation Program, Psycho-social Support Program, Cambodian Courts Monitoring Program, and the Voice of Justice and Reconciliation (VJR) Radio.

Since September, the Victims Participation Program reached out to survivors in 12 provinces, helped victims with application filing, and followed up with applicants about the court's progress.

CJR's Psychosocial Support team provides victims with tools to participate in the ECCC process without being re-traumatized when they exhume painful memories. CJR's trauma specialists assist at outreach activities and attend CJR's public forums to provide counseling and brief on the effects of post-traumatic stress disorder, the intergenerational passage of trauma and more. CJR staff have also produced, with DED funding, the handbook, Understanding Trauma in Cambodia, which is now incorporated into the psychology curriculum at the Royal University of Phnom Penh.

CJR engages Cambodians nationwide in forums on rule of law, good governance, human rights, memory, legacy, peace-building, reconciliation and other issues. For example, its national conference on victims' participation featured many ECCC officials as panelists along with other experts and survivors. Over 300 attendants including victims and students were engaged with the panelists in discussion about how victims can meaningfully participate in the ECCC and beyond.

VJR Radio, in turn, multiplies the impact and deepens the dialogue through call-in talk shows. The "Golden Voice of Cambodia" programme reaches 15 provinces Monday and Tuesday at 11 AM on 93.5 FM and at 1 PM on 104 FM.

With investigation for Case 002 underway, CJR will continue to support Khmer Rouge victims through its various programmes, and provide AKRVC members with capacity building and training to enable them to participate in the tribunal more meaningfully.

CJR advocates for Khmer Rouge victims and runs various activities through:
Victims Participation Program;
Psycho-social Support Program;
Cambodian Courts Monitoring Program;
Voice of Justice and Reconciliation (VJR) Radio.
