I. Introduction

A. Note on the Closing Order

1. As can be seen below, after the Pre-Trial Chamber (PTC) issued a decision, the National Co-Investigating Judge (NCIJ) opened an investigation into the documents on the case file in addition to the documents transferred from Cases 001 and 002. After reviewing the documents, the NCIJ was not satisfied that AO An was a senior leader or one of those who were most responsible; accordingly, he declined to charge AO An.
2. This Closing Order centres on whether AO An falls under the personal jurisdiction of the ECCC. The specificity of the ECCC Agreement and Law highlights selective jurisdiction. Facts forwarded by the International Co-Prosecutor (ICP) are indeed objective; however, this Closing Order should be based on evidence derived from a legitimate investigation by the Office of the Co-Investigating Judges (OCIJ) on all facts. In particular, the NCIJ considers the participation and other criteria by the Charged Person in relation to those facts as a critical factor in determining whether the “Charged Person” was a senior leader or among those who were most responsible. Accordingly, the Closing Order will neither characterise the crimes nor classify the modes of liability.
3. The documents used in this Closing Order consist of the materials on Case 004/2 gathered through the judicial investigation and also transferred from other cases including Cases 001, 002, and 003. The documents produced under International Reserve Co-Investigating Judge Laurent Kasper-Ansermet were excluded. However, after the departure of Judge Laurent Kasper-Ansermet, a number of those documents were incorporated as part of Rogatory Letters issued by him. Therefore, the NCIJ considers that the present Closing Order may ultimately have used a number of documents erroneously.
4. This Closing Order refers to 1,301 (one thousand three hundred and one) documents divided into 21 (twenty-one) categories including minutes of meetings of the Standing Committee of the Central Committee of the CPK under the Democratic Kampuchea (DK) regime, telegrams, S-21 confessions, DC-Cam documents, and 566 (five hundred and sixty-six) written records of interview of witnesses, which constitute the vast majority of the documents

- (Annex B). In the last category, there are 183 (one hundred and eighty-three) statements of insider witnesses such as DK regime cadres and written records of interview of witnesses which were made under the framework of Case 004/2.
5. We want to show that, in theory, the persons named in the Co-Prosecutors' Introductory Submission are already considered the "charged persons". We registered our disagreement regarding the charges and did not submit them to the PTC. Therefore, it would not be erroneous to use documents obtained after the charges or to refer to a charged person in this Closing Order. The status of a charged person is considered from the time the Co-Prosecutors issued their Introductory Submission and charges are only a procedure whereby the charged person is entitled to legal representation to defend himself/herself against the facts alleged by the Co-Prosecutors and notified by the Co-Investigating Judges.
  6. On 16 December 2016, the Co-Investigating Judges announced the conclusion of the investigation in order to expedite the proceedings and on the same day they decided to sever AO An from the case and placed him in a new "Case 004/2". Due to the complexity of the case, the Co-Investigating Judges further extended the time to file requests for investigative actions for another 45 (forty-five) days until the second announcement of the conclusion of the investigation on 29 March 2017. On 19 May 2017, the Co-Investigating Judges forwarded the case file to the Co-Prosecutors for consideration so they could issue a final submission within 3 (three) months from the date they received the case file from the Co-Investigating Judges. The National and International Co-Prosecutors separately submitted their Final Submissions on 18 August 2017 and 21 August 2017, respectively. To ensure equality of arms, due to the complexity of the case file and translation time, the Co-Investigating Judges allowed suitable time for AO An to respond to the Co-Prosecutors' Final Submissions and subsequently on 24 October 2017 AO An submitted his response.
  7. The time period between the conclusion of the investigation and the issuance of the Closing Order is longer than that in Cases 001, 002 and 004/1. However, it is inappropriate to consider that AO An's right to a fair trial has been violated solely based on this time period. The National Co-Investigating

Judge has only one staff member in charge of AO An's case while in Case 001 against KAINING Guek Eav alias Duch almost the entire office staff worked on the case. Compared to Case 004/1, Case 004/2 is a big case in which numerous crime sites were alleged. In addition, during the course of the proceedings, the parties filed many submissions and motions before the Pre-Trial Chamber which makes its decisions in compliance with the deadlines imposed upon parties to submit their responses and to ensure equality and transparency of the proceedings. The deadlines provided for in the Internal Rules and the time it takes to receive responses from relevant Sections including the Interpretation and Translation Unit have an impact on the ensuing step or procedure taken by the Office of the Co-Investigating Judges. In response, the Co-Investigating Judges motu proprio continued their work without waiting for responses and would review and amend their documents at a later stage. For example, while awaiting the Pre-Trial Chamber's decision on the request for annulment of torture-tainted evidence, the Co-Investigating Judges proceeded with the drafting of the Closing Orders.<sup>17</sup>

8. The Co-Investigating Judges will not respond to criticisms of the delay in the proceedings; however, any assessment of the delay must be objective, i.e. it should be made professionally, impartially and honestly having regard to all aspects of the proceedings starting with the initial phase of the work of the Office of the Co-Prosecutors, the lawyers, the administration and the Pre-Trial Chamber.
9. As shown in Section V, the National Co-Investigating Judge considers that there is no error in the description of the type and probative value of the evidence in this Closing Order. Article 321 (evidence evaluation by court) of the 2007 Cambodian Code of Criminal Procedure and the principle of free admission of evidence in the common law system does not provide such prohibition. In practice and in a sensible way, there is a distinction between types of evidence (direct and indirect), namely between the hearsay evidence and the direct evidence. What is important is to consider the actual evidence guided by the rules governing the relevancy, legitimacy and objectivity of the evidence.
10. With respect to evidence alleged to have been obtained through torture, the National Co-Investigating Judge has the discretion to assess the probative value of the evidence gathered by taking into account its characteristics, relevancy, legitimacy and objectivity and by considering the jurisprudence of the Trial Chamber<sup>18</sup> and the Supreme Court Chamber<sup>19</sup> so that the process could be expedited without having to seize the Pre-Trial Chamber. Despite such an effort, the Pre-Trial Chamber is of the opinion that the Co-Investigating Judges are not fast enough.

B. The Establishment of the ECCC

11. Following the Royal Government of Cambodia's official request for assistance on 21 June 1997,<sup>20</sup> an agreement was signed on 6 June 2003 between the United Nations and the Royal Government of Cambodia to bring to trial senior leaders and those who were most responsible for the crimes and serious violations of Cambodian and international laws, that were committed during the period of Democratic Kampuchea from 17 April 1975 to 6 January 1979 ("ECCC Agreement").<sup>21</sup>
12. The ECCC was officially established within the Cambodian legal system on 3 July 2006 following the promulgation of the Law on the Establishment of the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia for the Prosecution of Crimes Committed during the Period of Democratic Kampuchea.<sup>22</sup>

C. Irregularity of the Preliminary Investigation

13. Although the disagreement between the Co-Prosecutors was resolved by the PTC, rendering the Introductory Submission valid, the National CIJ considers that it is necessary to summarise its background.
14. The ICP unilaterally opened the preliminary investigation while the principle of "Co-" in the judicial context of the ECCC has become legally binding even at the prosecutorial stage where the Co-Prosecutors are required to act jointly. This principle requires compliance with, among others, the provisions of the applicable laws as required by the ECCC Agreement and Law. On the contrary, the ICP opened the preliminary investigation alone, collecting documents and conducting interviews without the participation of the NCP and failing to follow the procedures applicable in case of disagreement. Written records of interview that were not signed by the Co-Prosecutor and the interviewees have not been taken into account in these reasons.

15. On 20 November 2008, the ICP unilaterally filed the Introductory Submission in the present case alleging that AO An is responsible for crimes under the jurisdiction of the ECCC. The Introductory Submission did not prompt any immediate action from the CIJs as the NCP registered a disagreement to be brought before the PTC. The PTC failed to reach a decision by the required majority. As a result, in compliance with the ECCC legal framework, the Introductory Submission stood. The Acting ICP then forwarded the Introductory Submission to the CIJs, requesting a judicial investigation into the facts in Case 004. Subsequently, the case was severed into Cases 004/1 and 004/2.
16. On 27 March 2015, the International CIJ conducted the initial appearance, charging AO An. The National CIJ disagreed with the proceedings pursuant to Internal Rule 72(1).<sup>23</sup>
17. The National CIJ does not agree to charge AO An as he is still of the view that, based on the investigation, it is still doubtful whether AO An falls within the personal jurisdiction of the ECCC. The issue of personal jurisdiction over AO An is a threshold issue that must be dealt with before other matters within the legal context of the ECCC's selective jurisdiction.

D. Procedural History

18. On 20 November 2008, the Acting ICP filed the Third Introductory Submission.<sup>24</sup>
19. On 3 December 2008, the Co-Prosecutors recorded a disagreement over the Third Introductory Submission. The disagreement was brought before the PTC.
20. On 18 August 2009, the PTC declared that it had failed to reach a decision by the required majority in which case the action of the ICP shall be executed.<sup>25</sup>
21. On 7 September 2009, the Acting ICP issued a Notice of Filing of the Third Introductory Submission and requested the CIJs to open a judicial investigation.<sup>26</sup>
22. On 9 June 2010, the CIJs registered a disagreement over the manner and approach of the judicial investigation. The National CIJ argued that it was unnecessary to conduct the investigation and focused on the review of the documents already available on the case file.<sup>27</sup>

23. On 9 June 2010, International CIJ Marcel Lemonde issued a rogatory letter.<sup>28</sup>
24. On 1 November 2010, Judge Marcel LEMONDE resigned from his position for personal reasons.

31. On 28 June 2011, the CIJs issued the Decision on the Supplementary Submission regarding Sector 1 Crime Sites and Persecution of Khmer Krom, rejecting the Supplementary Submission as invalid.<sup>35</sup>
32. On 18 July 2011, the ICP filed a Supplementary Submission regarding Sector 1 Crime Sites and Persecution of Khmer Krom, stating that a record of the disagreement had been placed in the register kept by the Greffier of the Co-Prosecutors on 15 July 2011.<sup>36</sup>
33. On 8 August 2011, the CIJs issued a press release regarding civil parties, stating that no public notice had been made in relation to the crime sites in Case 004 on the grounds that there were serious doubts whether the Suspect in this case was "most responsible".<sup>37</sup>

34. On 9 October 2011, International CIJ Siegfried BLUNK resigned from his position.<sup>38</sup>
35. On 9 October 2011, following Judge Siegfried BLUNK's resignation, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet who had not been officially appointed as the International CIJ commenced his job remotely.
36. On 30 November 2011, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet arrived at the ECCC and carried out a number of acts alone, including investigative actions and witness interviews.
37. On 6 December 2011, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet issued a press release stating that he would conduct the judicial investigation and take necessary steps to manage his office and endeavor to keep the public sufficiently informed about major developments in Case File 004.<sup>39</sup>
38. On the same day 6 December 2011, the National CIJ issued a press release, stating that the International Reserve CIJ had not been officially appointed. Therefore, the National CIJ did not recognise the legality of all the acts carried out by International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet.<sup>40</sup>
39. On 24 February 2012, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet issued Notification of Suspect's Rights regarding AOM An alias Ta An.<sup>41</sup>
40. On 29 February 2012, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet directly notified Suspect AO An that he was a suspect under investigation and granted AO An access to the case file, but in fact the Suspect was not granted access to the case file.
41. On 19 March 2012, the ECCC issued a press release, announcing that International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet had resigned with effect from 4 May 2012.<sup>42</sup>
42. On 4 May 2012, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet officially resigned from the ECCC.<sup>43</sup>
43. On 20 June 2012, the Supreme Council of Magistracy of the Kingdom of Cambodia appointed Judge Mark B. HARMON as the International CIJ.<sup>44</sup>
44. On 26 October 2012, Judge Mark B. HARMON commenced his job.
45. On 3 December 2012, the CIJs disagreed over a rogatory letter and response to the Co-Prosecutors' investigative requests.

46. On 19 December 2012, Judge Mark B. HARMON issued a press release regarding additional crime sites in Case 004.
47. On 5 April 2013, the CIJs disagreed over the numbering of documents placed on the case file. The National CIJ stated that the documents placed on the case file by the International CIJ shall be numbered sequentially from the last documents placed before the resignation of Judge Siegfried BLUNK, but stressed that the document numbering did not have any legal effect, while the International CIJ argued that the documents should be numbered sequentially from those placed on the case file by International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet.
48. On 24 April 2014, the ICP filed Supplementary Submission regarding Forced Marriage and Sexual or Gender-Based Violence.<sup>45</sup>
49. On 1 December 2014, the CIJs disagreed over the conduct of witness confrontations. The National CIJ considered that the investigation to determine personal jurisdiction and the proceedings at this stage did not require the conduct of confrontations among witnesses and/or civil parties.
50. On 22 January 2015, the CIJs disagreed over the notification of charges to AO An. The National CIJ considered that the investigation to determine personal jurisdiction and its follow up raises reasonable doubts as to whether or not AO An falls under the personal jurisdiction of the ECCC.
51. On 24 March 2015, International CIJ Mark B. HARMON summonsed AO An to an initial appearance.
52. On 27 March 2015 following the CIJs' disagreement over the notification of charges, Judge B. HARMON conducted the initial appearance hearing and notified AO An that he had been charged by the International CIJ.

E. Irregularity of Acts by the International Reserve Co-Investigating Judge

67. Following the official resignation of Judge Siegfried BLUNK, International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet had not arrived at the ECCC, but started to act online from his former workplace. Upon his arrival at the ECCC, he started to carry out a number of activities without consulting the National CIJ. This was in breach of the ECCC Agreement, which governs cooperation between the CIJs. The National CIJ requested that the International Reserve CIJ temporarily delay the commencement of his activities until his appointment by the Supreme Council of Magistracy of the Kingdom of Cambodia as a full-rights International CIJ.<sup>59</sup>
68. Nevertheless, the International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet continued to conduct a number of investigative actions including the notification of charges to the suspect, charging the suspect and other acts.
69. In principle, every International Reserve CIJ, before commencing the job, shall be appointed as a full-rights International CIJ first. The National CIJ issued a press release, rejecting the activities carried out by the International Reserve CIJ and declaring those activities legally invalid because they were carried out during the period when the International Reserve CIJ did not become a full-rights investigating judge. Therefore, the National CIJ, both verbally and in writing in the disagreement registered in the case file, did not accept the placement of the documents generated by the International Reserve CIJ on the case file and the documents placed on Case 004 shall be numbered sequentially from the last documents placed before the resignation of Judge Siegfried BLUNK. This Closing Order does not consider the documents generated by International Reserve CIJ Laurent Kasper-Ansermet to be legally valid.

F. Charging Procedure

70. Pursuant to the Internal Rules, a judicial investigation shall be conducted only into the facts alleged in an Introductory Submission or Supplementary Submission. However, a decision to open a judicial investigation is made at the CIJs' discretion. Internal Rule 55(4) provides in relevant part, "The Co-Investigating Judges have the power to charge any Suspects named in the Introductory Submission. They may also charge any other persons against whom there is clear and consistent evidence indicating that such person may be criminally responsible for the commission of a crime referred to in an Introductory Submission or a Supplementary Submission."<sup>60</sup>
71. Upon receipt of the Introductory Submission, the Co-Investigating Judges may initiate an investigation without having to charge someone immediately. A charged person may be summonsed to appear before the Co-Investigating Judges. During this stage, the Co-Investigating Judges may issue a dismissal order. In principle, the Co-Investigating Judges will not issue an indictment without having to charge a person first since the charged person has not been notified of the charges so that he/she shall have time and means for the defence against those charges. If such an indictment is issued, it will violate the right to a fair trial.
72. While Internal Rule 55 requires standard of proof "clear and consistent evidence" to charge any persons who are not named in the Introductory Submission or the Supplementary Submission, the Co-Investigating Judges used this standard of proof to charge the charged persons named in the Introductory Submission or the Supplementary Submission. This standard of proof is not as high as the one used to ascertain guilt (beyond a reasonable doubt) by the Co-Prosecutors.<sup>61</sup> However, it is not low either as it requires a lot of clear and corroborative evidence to prove that the charged person bears responsibility through commission as well as a very high likelihood that the responsible person will be sent to trial in the future.<sup>62</sup>
73. The ECCC was established under the Agreement between the Royal Government of Cambodia and the United Nations. The ECCC is a special court whose jurisdiction is limited to two categories of persons only. For this reason, unlike national courts, the CIJs must first consider whether or not the person named in the Introductory Submission falls under the ECCC jurisdiction before charging him/her. The CIJs must undertake a thorough and complete analysis before charging any person. As such, as stated earlier, the CIJs have the discretion to decide independently<sup>63</sup> and do not have to decide charges hurriedly. Any decision must be based on the standard of proof as set forth in Internal Rule 55 and must have regard to the rights, freedoms and interests of victims and civil parities.

74. The Co-Investigating Judges cannot indict a person and send him/her to trial before having charged him/her first. In respect of jurisprudence, France's Cour de Cassation has held that, "The Investigating Judge, before issuing a closing order that dismisses the case against a person, does not need to charge or interview that person if he finds that the person's guilt cannot be established."<sup>64</sup>
75. It is not always compulsory for the CIJs to charge a charged person. On the principles of independence and impartiality, particularly the presumption of innocence in protecting the rights and interest of a suspect in accordance with the principle of fair trial rights,<sup>65</sup> the CIJs, despite having charged a person, may drop the charges against him/her unless the criteria for an indictment are met. All facts of charges may be dismissed against a charged person. In addition, charging a person does not require the judge to detain him/her if the detention is not justified by necessity.
76. A charged person has a number of fundamental rights in criminal proceedings such as the right to legal representation as set forth in the Universal Declaration and other covenants and conventions.<sup>66</sup> Failing to charge a person and eventually indicting and sending him/her to trial may violate these rights since the charged person has not been afforded an opportunity to exercise these rights and this would therefore result in an unfair trial. The decision to charge a charged person would move the criminal proceedings forward and the court would require time and resources to comply with legal procedures as required. In the end, if the person were to be acquitted because the court could not establish his/her responsibility, the court would have spent time and resources unnecessarily. This would not be in the interest of efficiency and judicial economy.

II. Factual Findings

A. General Policies of the Democratic Kampuchea Regime

77. The Democratic Kampuchea regime led the country from 17 April 1975<sup>67</sup> to 06 January 1979 with the aim of building the country following real world socialist path.<sup>68</sup> To achieve that, the policy to evacuate the population from cities and towns to countryside<sup>69</sup> was made so that they could join in mass agriculture<sup>70</sup> which was the most important sector for developing the maximum economy under the Party<sup>71</sup> leadership and instructions, based on the stance of “Independence, Mastery, Self-Reliance”.<sup>72</sup> In addition, low social class which was the poor peasant working class was made to control the local bases from the village level.<sup>73</sup>
78. A book entitled “Geography of Democratic Kampuchea” which was published by the DK Ministry of Education in 1977 states that Cambodia had a total population of 7,700,000 (seven million, seven hundred thousand) – 80% (eighty per cent) of which were cooperative peasants and 20% (twenty per cent) were workers, unionists, male and female combatants of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Army.<sup>74</sup>
79. The above reasons led to constant social class angst<sup>75</sup> against the feudalist<sup>76</sup> and capitalist classes which used to hold oppressive power for over 2,000 (two thousand) years and which were accused of shamefully having sold the country to foreign imperialists successively for the sake of their own interest and henchmen.<sup>77</sup> This made the low class become a crucial part in steering the entire Cambodia.<sup>78</sup>
80. The DK administrative structure from the upper level to the lower level and the base level was clearly defined based on work assignments and management in the form of “collectives”<sup>79</sup> on the grounds that the country could be built rapidly if it were done collectively.<sup>80</sup> In addition, policies were widely disseminated through meetings at zone, sector, district, commune, village and cooperative levels and they were transmitted from the upper to the lower levels through the hierarchy.<sup>81</sup>
81. The DK communist-based leadership vested its supreme power in the Party via the most influential institution known as “The Central Committee of the CPK”. The committee consisted of approximately 30 (thirty) members who made major decisions concerning the fate of the country.<sup>82</sup> While the CPK Standing Committee had 7 (seven) members including POL Pot, NUON Chea, SAO Phim, Ta Mok, IENG Sary, VORN Vet, and SON Sen.<sup>83</sup> As a matter of fact, [who had] the authority over decision-making was the Standing Committee,<sup>84</sup> despite the fact that KHIEU Samphan, the former President of the State Presidium,<sup>85</sup> said that in principle the most important organ was the “Central Committee”.<sup>86</sup>

82. Prior to 1975 the Party required people to live in cooperatives in the liberated zones where they lived communally, farmed communally, harvested communally, ate in communal dining hall, and worked communally while the Party controlled and collected the produce.<sup>87</sup> Furthermore, the Party controlled every work activity, living arrangements, clothing, how people communicated, property, time, belief, food, and movement.<sup>88</sup>
83. Mr MAT Ly stated that cooperatives were initially established on 20 March 1973 and people really liked them.<sup>89</sup> However, the Party made an official decision to establish peasant cooperatives on 20 May 1973.<sup>90</sup> For such arrangements, peasants who did not own a plot of land were entirely satisfied while those who owned land did not seem happy and fed up with the so-called collective.<sup>91</sup>
84. Right after the liberation, at some bases, some villages were incorporated into “cooperatives”<sup>92</sup> with communal eating<sup>93</sup> and living arrangements on the pretext that a collective was a humanitarian concept that everyone should have had an equal amount of food for consumption.<sup>94</sup> Cooperatives were considered backbones of the revolution throughout the country.<sup>95</sup> Under such leadership, people were provided 2 (two) meals per day, one was gruel and the other was cooked rice.<sup>96</sup>
85. Furthermore, the Party set out a target for rice production<sup>97</sup> as the Party, the upper echelon, forced people to produce 3 tons of rice per hectare<sup>98</sup> over the 1.5 million hectares of farmland. Angkar expected that the rice produce would be 4,500,000 tons, which was the core task to undertake in 1976.<sup>99</sup> A witness who was a typist claimed that, “Several documents say about producing three tons of rice per hectare.”<sup>100</sup> Most rice produce had to be absolutely delivered to the Party for overseas export.<sup>101</sup> Some cooperative chiefs at the bases inflated the figures of rice produce so that the Party viewed them as striving for and being loyal to the Party since they delivered a large quantity of rice produce to the upper echelon while in fact people at their bases did not have enough rice to eat.<sup>102</sup>

86. In addition, some cooperative chiefs lied in their report to the upper echelon in order to retain some rice for people at the bases. As a result, the Party arrested and killed any cadres if they were found having lied. Lack of rice caused people starvation. Due to such challenge, people were mistreated as slaves under other inhumane acts.<sup>103</sup> This issue led to several consequences including death of many people due to starvation and infectious disease, etc.
87. The form of the DK leadership is distinct from other countries in the world.<sup>104</sup> Even IENG Sary, the former deputy Prime Minister in charge of Foreign Affairs, stated that, “The Khmer revolution does not follow any previous model. What we are trying to achieve has never been done before in history.”<sup>105</sup> DK had an absolute stance.<sup>106</sup> People were forced to work at worksites under the most difficult condition<sup>107</sup> and with no adequate break time. Worst still, people were deprived of right of liberty,<sup>108</sup> right to receive information,<sup>109</sup> and freedom of movement.<sup>110</sup> There were no markets,<sup>111</sup> no private ownership,<sup>112</sup> no hospitals or healthcare centres, and insufficient medicine for treatment.<sup>113</sup>
88. The entire national economy went into a nosedive since this country was led by Angkar where there was no money circulation at all<sup>114</sup> under the pretext that money circulation led to oppression and corruption, etc., which was the most critical issue that could lead this regime to instability in the administration and country leadership.<sup>115</sup> Economists consider currency the only and fundamental basis for the functioning of a country’s economy.
89. With regard to religious belief, DK forced monks to disrobe<sup>116</sup> and they were killed if they refused.<sup>117</sup> Pagodas were forcibly<sup>118</sup> destroyed.<sup>119</sup> In practice, POL Pot implemented an absolute Marxist doctrine against all religions in Cambodia.<sup>120</sup> Several witnesses said that all religions were prohibited while pagodas were transformed into dining halls or used for raising animals.<sup>121</sup> One witness said that “At that time all religions were abolished and the CPK was the only one to be respected. The CPK hated monks... the most.”<sup>122</sup>

90. Democratic Kampuchea divided people according to their age, gender and they had to work in groups. They were required to live and work in different locations.<sup>123</sup> A small number of the elderly were not allowed by Angkar to be idle and they had to take care of small children whose parents were working at worksites.<sup>124</sup> Adults were required to participate in agricultural activities in cooperatives, namely working in rice fields,<sup>125</sup> plantations, or growing vegetables<sup>126</sup> while some others were made to dig canals<sup>127</sup> or build dams and so on.<sup>128</sup> In particular, in relation to reservoirs, the CPK stated that, “As we have seen, the development within these last two years has been very fast. Compare this to the last one hundred years; one hundred years ago there were no such reservoirs.”<sup>129</sup> Children were forced to tender cattle<sup>130</sup> and collect cow dung for fertilizer.<sup>131</sup>
91. In general, people did not have freedom of movement, visiting their relatives or travelling without Angkar's permission.<sup>132</sup> Absence from home or worksite meant violating Angkar's disciplines. Thus, each family member had very little time to be together<sup>133</sup> in the family or at worksite. Freedom of speech was strictly limited by Angkar. People were constantly in fear as what they said might lead them to being sent for re-education, arrests, or taken away and killed when they criticised or/and complained about hardship or insufficient food.<sup>134</sup> Witness PRAK Yut, Kampong Siem district former secretary, said that, “People could not refuse the order to build dams in the Southwest. If they did, they were sent for re-education.”<sup>135</sup>
92. In order to achieve the goal of the regime, which was to build the country actively and to lead the country prosperously and rapidly, based on socialism under the slogan “great leap forward,”<sup>136</sup> DK implemented some major policies including the evacuation of people, treatment of specific groups, forced labour at worksites, forced marriage and purges of internal and external enemies. The term “enemies” referred to anyone who was accused of breaking a plough,<sup>137</sup> a hoe, a spoon, a plate or a cooking pot,<sup>138</sup> who transplanted wrong rice seedlings,<sup>139</sup> who stole sugar lumps,<sup>140</sup> anyone who grew corn, bananas or potatoes by themselves,<sup>141</sup> who tried to brake a car, but the car wouldn't stop,<sup>142</sup> who were late for work,<sup>143</sup> who zealously implemented orders from the upper echelon,<sup>144</sup> criticised Angkar,<sup>145</sup> or attempted to destroy the CPK.<sup>146</sup>

93. Prior to 1975, the Party evacuated people from their controlled areas.<sup>147</sup> In February 1975, the Central Committee of the CPK convened a meeting and decided upon a plan to evacuate people in anticipation of the victory.<sup>148</sup> At that time, senior leaders including POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, and KHIEU Samphan attended the meeting<sup>149</sup> and decided to evacuate people in 3 (three) phases.<sup>150</sup> One witness testified that senior cadre Ta Mok said that, “All people had to be evacuated to the countryside so that they could build economy there. ... The evacuation from cities had to be conducted nationwide and it had to be done in 2 (two) days.”<sup>151</sup> The CPK made an official assessment of the number of the evacuees at 2,000,000 (two million).<sup>152</sup>
94. The movement of the people, Phase One, occurred after the liberation on 17 April 1975<sup>153</sup> and military units were tasked to execute the plan by forcing people to leave their homes and travel through all national roads to the west, the east, the north and the south of Phnom Penh as well as from provincial and district towns to the countryside.<sup>154</sup> With the aim of developing the economy, paving a socialist path for the regime, irrigation had to be built collectively at the countryside<sup>155</sup> - building creeks,<sup>156</sup> dams,<sup>157</sup> canals<sup>158</sup> and reservoirs consistent with the saying “Where there is water, there is fish. Where there is fish, there is everything.”<sup>159</sup>
95. Furthermore, people were compelled to work in rice fields and to engage in rice production at cooperatives.<sup>160</sup> This became an important part of strengthening the DK security as it could help identify enemies including former soldiers,<sup>161</sup> former civil servants of the previous regime,<sup>162</sup> CIA<sup>163</sup> or KGB<sup>164</sup> [agents] and Yuon enemies burrowing from within<sup>165</sup> and defend the country against possible confrontation with Vietnam, etc.<sup>166</sup>
96. The movement of the people, Phase Two, started from September 1975 through 1977. People and cadres from the Southwest Zone (Kandal and Takeo provinces) were evacuated to the Northwest Zone (Battambang and Pursat provinces).<sup>167</sup> The plan was implemented after a visit of the Standing Committee to the Northwest Zone in August-September 1975 as it learned that there was a need of additional 500,000 (five hundred thousand) people in addition to the existing population in the zone<sup>168</sup> in order to promote the socialist economy via production cooperatives thanks to the fertile soil in the zone and as it also could accommodate additional population.<sup>169</sup> Thus, thousands of people were transferred by different means such as trains and vehicles, departing Phnom Penh and heading to various locations in Pursat and Battambang.<sup>170</sup> By 1977, the CPK estimated that the total number of the evacuees reached 4,000,000 (four million).<sup>171</sup>

97. The movement of the population, Phase Three – the last phase, occurred in late 1977-1978.<sup>172</sup> People living in Prey Veng and Svay Rieng provinces in the East Zone were forced by Angkar to go to the Northwest Zone.<sup>173</sup> Beside ordinary people, there were enemies and perceived enemies including those associated with the previous regime and Vietnamese networks, the 17 April people, monks, Cham people, half-breed Chinese and half-breed Vietnamese, etc.<sup>174</sup> Those who arrived at this time were made to write their biographies. Some were sent to various cooperatives and worksites and some were sent to security centres first, while some others were taken away and killed immediately.<sup>175</sup>
98. Furthermore, under the pretext of evacuation, the Party leadership withdrew civilians and troops from the battlefield with Vietnam when they suspected that there were traitors or SAO Phim's network.<sup>176</sup> Ta Mok (Northwest Zone Committee) in the presence of Sarun (Sector 105 Committee) and Rim (District Committee) chaired a meeting in Pursat province. They organized those who arrived in the Northwest Zone, asking them to watch out for East Zone people because, when arriving in Phnom Penh, some of them were found concealing weapons and some others were the Vietnamese network.<sup>177</sup>
99. DK classified people according to their biographies<sup>178</sup> between those living in the liberated zone and after 1975. Right after 17 April 1975 Angkar divided people according to their living status: the rich, the poor or the learned persons. Those who held positions or their relatives worked as civil servants in the LON Nol regime or Sangkum Reast Niyum were considered having a no good tendency.<sup>179</sup> Angkar called those who were evacuated to new locations new people<sup>180</sup> or 17 April people.<sup>181</sup> Those who remained where they were called old people<sup>182</sup> or 18 April people,<sup>183</sup> which generally speaking referred to base people.<sup>184</sup> New people were given a status as “depositees” and they were not allowed to hold any positions of any levels.<sup>185</sup> On the contrary, old people or base people enjoyed the status as full-rights people or candidate people if their relatives were associated with enemies.<sup>186</sup>

100. In general, people were forced to wear black clothes by Angkar and they were given two sets of clothes per year.<sup>187</sup> Each family no longer had private property. This was based on the policy which had been implemented prior to the liberation on 17 April 1975.<sup>188</sup> DK viewed that private property<sup>189</sup> belonged to the capitalist regime that led to corruption<sup>190</sup> or exploitation of the people by the rich.<sup>191</sup>
101. The 20 May 1975 meeting was held at Olympic Stadium to abolish markets and national currency.<sup>192</sup> Obviously, one witness who was a former cadre that attended the meeting concerning Party policies where POL Pot and NUON Chea made opening remarks claimed that “Both of them talked about political matters, cooperative organization, currency prohibition, market and monastery closings and stated that they would be reopened in the future.”<sup>193</sup> In late 1978, there was a decision to introduce currency and markets; however, it was not implemented due to the collapse of the regime.<sup>194</sup>
102. The DK regime imposed forced marriage in order to achieve and defend the socialist revolution through which Angkar, the upper echelon, were the custodians in lieu of parents.<sup>195</sup> Witnesses said in reference to the political message from cadres that, “They planned to raise new forces, to increase the population to 15 (fifteen) or 20 (twenty) million in the next 15 (fifteen) or 20 (twenty) years.”<sup>196</sup> This was also beneficial to policy management of individuals and economy, leaving parents working at cooperatives or worksites.<sup>197</sup>
103. As for marriage, Angkar collected people of the same political status, encouraging soldiers [to get married]<sup>198</sup> in line with the announcements made by POL Pot in conferences, official publications, telegrams coupled with intimidation of violence or death.<sup>199</sup> Numerous witnesses testified that people who were forced to get married did not dare to protest.<sup>200</sup>
104. The purge policy inside and outside the Party was formulated prior to 1975 with the aim of destroying hierarchy of previous regimes, feudalists, capitalists, religions, race, etc.<sup>201</sup> Article 10 of the DK Constitution states that, “Dangerous activities and systematic destruction in opposition to the people’s State must be condemned to the highest degree. Other cases are subject to constructive re-education in the framework of the State’s or people’s organizations.”<sup>202</sup>

105. After 1975, situations became complicated at all levels, and general policies which seemed to be radical left following the lines of independence, mastery, and self-reliance were too strictly implemented.<sup>203</sup> The purge policy was carried out following the 1976 Party Standing Committee decision regarding the right to smash inside and outside the Party ranks as it clearly states that “If within the base framework, the decision shall be taken by the Zone Standing Committee. Surrounding the Centre Office, the decision shall be taken by the Central Office Committee. In independent Sectors, the decision shall be taken by the Standing Committee. For the Centre Military, the decision shall be taken by the Staff.”<sup>204</sup>
106. Former Chief of S-21 Security Centre KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch interpreted the 1976 decision as follows: “The Zone Standing Committee was not the only body with the authority at the base... Zone secretaries had the power to decide if a person was to let live or to die, therefore the real authority was vested with zone secretaries.”<sup>205</sup> Likewise, zone secretaries controlled the military and militia within the zone.<sup>206</sup>
107. Under the CPK leadership, the regime established numerous security centres for detention and execution, making a total of approximately 196 (one hundred and ninety-six) security centres throughout the country. They were used to detain, temper, re-educate, re-fashion, and torture people in order to identify traitorous networks or to kill entire families.<sup>207</sup> Cadres at all levels had to implement the Party lines through dissemination of Party policies and facilitation of arrests and transfers by order of the upper echelon, commonly known as “Angkar.”<sup>208</sup> A commonly used saying at the time was “Don’t do anything to disrupt Angkar or disrupt a historical wheel.”<sup>209</sup>
108. All orders came from the “upper echelon”<sup>210</sup> while the lower level did not understand the plans or political agenda.<sup>211</sup> However, if they did not implement the policies of the upper echelon, they were considered “enemies”<sup>212</sup> and taken away and killed.<sup>213</sup> In the DK context, an order from the upper echelon had to be absolutely respected and if anyone dared to refuse, he/she was arrested and killed.<sup>214</sup> Thus, cadres who dared to criticise the Party lines were considered by Angkar to be “traitors”.<sup>215</sup>
109. In the regime, there were “self-criticism meetings” which required wrongdoers to speak about their mistakes so that meeting participants could provide feedback and the same mistakes would not be repeated.<sup>216</sup> The CPK designated regular Party lifestyle meetings, saying that, “*if meetings are regular, there is progress, fast or slow progress, but progress nonetheless.”<sup>217</sup> Following those meetings, Angkar spread propaganda, encouraging people to work hard and not to betray Angkar or they would be “condemned by history.”<sup>218</sup>

110. Those who could not be re-educated or re-fashioned by Angkar would be taken away and killed as Angkar said that, “No gain in keeping, no loss in weeding out.”<sup>219</sup> In 1976, HOU Nim was killed as he suggested [a possibility of] printing the currency and market opening, which was contrary to the decision made earlier by POL Pot, NUON Chea and Ta Mok.<sup>220</sup>
111. The implementation of the above CPK policies showed that people faced countless difficulties, especially malnutrition and diseases.<sup>221</sup> When they were sick, there were no healthcare centres, hospitals, and insufficient medicines for treatment. Sometimes patients fell severely ill and most of them just died.<sup>222</sup>
112. Furthermore, people died due to the implementation of the purge policy. Cadres and those who were considered enemies or failed to follow the Angkar's orders were also killed.<sup>223</sup> At that time, disciplinary measures were very strict; whoever, including cadres at any levels such as HOU Yun,<sup>224</sup> HOU Nim,<sup>225</sup> VORN Vet,<sup>226</sup> KOY Thuon,<sup>227</sup> RUOS Nhim<sup>228</sup> and SAO Phim,<sup>229</sup> etc., who failed to comply with the policies were subject to being smashed.
113. During the period of 3 (three) years, 8 (eight) months, and 20 (twenty) days, the regime arrested and executed at least 60 (sixty) senior DK cadres at S-21 Security Centre,<sup>230</sup> and approximately more than 1,700,000 (one million, seven hundred thousand) people<sup>231</sup> were killed and died from starvation,<sup>232</sup> diseases<sup>233</sup> and overwork.<sup>234</sup>
114. Policies set out by the CPK as aforementioned show that the monitoring systems of all forms and at all time were established nationwide. Therefore, there was a saying that “Angkar has many eyes of the pineapple” which was used in reference to all forms of restriction imposed on people and cadres.<sup>235</sup> In addition, if anyone failed to follow CPK policies, they would become enemies of Angkar and would sometimes be considered revolutionary enemies. What was strange was the elimination of private property. Growers could not even eat vegetables they grew around their houses as vegetables belonged exclusively to cooperatives.<sup>236</sup> This is the root of the problem that led to the birth of the slogan “Good things come in small packages.”

115. These facts are objective, publicly known, i.e. those who are over 50 (fifty) years old (by 2018) lived through the regime, heard, and witnessed all without evidence to be suggested.
116. The context of the commission and administrative mode in the DK regime is distinct from what happened in Yugoslavia, Rwanda and Sierra Leone, which led to establishment of the International Criminal Court similar to the ECCC. The DK regime had a particular tendency of state leadership reflected in the national persecution policy which was implemented, throughout the country, in the collective leadership structure that the cadres at all levels had to respect and follow the orders.
117. Obviously, the term “enemies” or “revolutionary enemies” has a broad scope and extends to just its own innocent people. This is distinct from the racial conflict between Tutsi and Hutu, which led to genocide in Rwanda.<sup>237</sup> What happened during the DK regime was also different from the genocide of the Croats and the Bosnians<sup>238</sup> committed by the Serbian nationalists led by former-President Slobodan Milosevic.

B. Administrative Structure of the Party Centre

1. CPK Central Committee

118. The CPK was established prior to the DK regime coming to power from 1975 to 1979.<sup>239</sup> The DK regime was a communist-led regime in which the Party led the state.<sup>240</sup> CPK policies aimed to sweep clean feudal class and intellectuals among others who were considered enemies and they were accused of exploiting and oppressing people.<sup>241</sup> Thus, the CPK laid out policies, taking revenge against those people.<sup>242</sup>
119. The Central Committee of the CPK was the supreme level of the CPK.<sup>243</sup> The term “Party” was referred to as the CPK Central Committee leadership.<sup>244</sup> The Committee had around 30 (thirty) members<sup>245</sup> and regularly held a meeting every 6 (six) months.<sup>246</sup> The Committee always invited the zone and sector leaders to the meetings in Phnom Penh, especially when CPK policies were disseminated and implemented.<sup>247</sup>

120. Arrests at a zone or sector level had to be decided by the Central Committee of the CPK.<sup>248</sup> Witness SÈM Hoern stated that “Sector-chairman level prisoners were major figures. Therefore, the district level could not arrest them. So, the orders had to be from the Centre level, the highest level.”<sup>249</sup> In principle, the zone level sometimes did not have the authority to decide on arrests at the sector level; only the Central Committee of the CPK had such authority.<sup>250</sup> Witness SUON Kanil stated that “If there was no arrest document, he (KE Pauk) dared not make arrest. He had to follow orders from the upper echelon.”<sup>251</sup>
121. AO An is alleged, “in his capacity as the Zone Deputy Secretary, to have been a member of the CPK Central Committee at the 5th Party Congress, which consisted of sector secretaries and deputy secretaries, zone secretaries and deputy secretaries.”<sup>252</sup> The CPK Central Committee had around 30 (thirty) members including full and candidate members, mostly tambon secretaries, secretary of Regions, deputy secretary of Regions, member of Regions and sector secretary. However, despite their positions, they did not automatically become members of the Central Committee.<sup>253</sup> Through his communication, AO An confirmed that he was not a member of the CPK Central Committee.<sup>254</sup> He also stated that only secretaries of autonomous sectors could become members of the Central Committee of the CPK.<sup>255</sup>

2. CPK Standing Committee

122. The CPK Standing Committee played a key role in a day-to-day leadership on behalf of the Central Committee of the CPK which was the Party senior leader.<sup>256</sup> There were 7 (seven) members of the Party Standing Committee: POL Pot, NUON Chea, SAO Phim, Ta Mok, IENG Sary, VORN Vet, and SON Sen.<sup>257</sup> POL Pot was Party Secretary<sup>258</sup> and NUON Chea was Party Deputy Secretary.<sup>259</sup>
123. Among those members, there were up to 5 (five) members of the Standing Committee: POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet and SON Sen who always worked in Phnom Penh.<sup>260</sup> Former Chief of S-21 Security Centre KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch said that there were 4 (four) superior echelons of the Party: (1). the Standing Committee, (2). the ex-officio members of the Central Committee, (3). the reserve members of the Central Committee, and (4). the Assisting Committee of the Central Committee.<sup>261</sup>

124. The powers of the Permanent Committee of the Party Centre were stated in the CPK Statute – it was responsible for and monitored the implementation of CPK policies.<sup>262</sup> The Permanent Committee of the Party Centre was in charge of all of the political matters from one Congress to another.<sup>263</sup> The first Party Congress was held on 30 September 1960.<sup>264</sup> In 1977, the CPK started holding Annual National Congress of the Party.<sup>265</sup> The general Party Congress throughout the country was the highest organization of the Party.<sup>266</sup> The fifth Congress of the Party Centre was finally held on 2 November 1978 before the collapse of the regime.<sup>267</sup>
125. As a matter of fact, the duties were carried out by the Political Office of the Party Centre – it regularly held meetings on Sundays to resolve domestic and overseas issues.<sup>268</sup> It had 6 (six) members: POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, VORN Vet, SON Sen and KHIEU Samphan.<sup>269</sup> From 1975 to 1979 the Standing Committee held at least 19 (nineteen) meetings.<sup>270</sup>
126. Most of the Standing Committee meetings were held at K-1 and sometimes at K-3.<sup>271</sup> The decision to hold a meeting of the Party Standing Committee was made by the Party Secretary POL Pot.<sup>272</sup> The central office of the Standing Committee of the Central Committee of the CPK was generally known as “Office 870.”<sup>273</sup>
127. Former Chief of S-21 Security Centre KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch said that the Standing Committee was the most important organ of the Party.<sup>274</sup> In addition, it oversaw all policies of the Party and the government including internal and external security issues<sup>275</sup> as well as several important areas including agriculture, health, and social affairs. The Party Standing Committee led discussions on issues arising from worksites, interrogation, arrests, and general living conditions throughout the country<sup>276</sup> and had the powers to order immediate execution.<sup>277</sup>

3. Other Organs

128. The DK Constitution was adopted on 14 December 1975 by the third National Congress and was promulgated on 5 January 1976.<sup>278</sup> The constitution refers the judiciary as the “Judicial Committee” which was elected and appointed by the Kampuchean People’s Representative Assembly.<sup>279</sup> This Committee is the people’s court, representing people’s justice, defending people’s justice and democratic rights and freedom, and condemning any activities directed against the people's State or violating the laws of the State of workers, peasants and the Kampuchean Revolutionary Army.<sup>280</sup> In reality, the Judicial Committee did not function.<sup>281</sup>

129. Two other supreme organs were the Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly<sup>282</sup> and the Government<sup>283</sup>. The Government was the executive body responsible for executing the laws and political lines of the Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly and responsible before the Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly because the Government was elected by the People's Representative Assembly.<sup>284</sup> The Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly was composed of 250 (two hundred and fifty) members who were secretly and directly elected for a five-year term<sup>285</sup> by the Kampuchean people and the Kampuchean Revolutionary Army. 150 (one hundred and fifty) members represented peasants, 50 (fifty) members represented workers and 50 (fifty) represented the Kampuchean Revolutionary Army.<sup>286</sup>
130. The Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly is responsible for making laws, passing laws, monitoring law enforcement and defining the political policies of Democratic Kampuchea.<sup>287</sup> It consists of one Standing Committee and others such as the Economics Committee, the Defence Committee, the Foreign Affairs Committee, and the Socio-Cultural and Health Committee, etc.<sup>288</sup>
131. Article 1 of Kram on the Determination of the Functioning of the People's Representative Assembly of Kampuchea states that, "Each of the Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly members must continue to stay close to his/her grassroot, sharing their difficulties and happiness, knowing people's hearts, understanding their requests, that is, remaining close with unions and factories, cooperatives, worksites, irrigation systems, his/her unit, by sharing efforts to build and defend the country with the people, workers and farmers, labourers, male and female combatants and cadres of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Army in order to balance their status as real representatives of Kampuchean people, farmers, labourers, and Revolutionary Army."<sup>289</sup>

132. The Central Committee decision dated 30 March 1976 appointed NUON Chea as Chairman of the Standing Committee of the People's Representative Assembly.<sup>290</sup> In 1976 after the adoption of the constitution, a meeting to establish the State's Assembly was held once in order to show the world that the DK leadership had a State's Assembly.<sup>291</sup> One witness stated that "As a representative of people, I did not know what my duties were. I did not even know who the Chairman of the Parliament [Assembly] was. I did not know the work of the Assembly."<sup>292</sup>
133. The Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly seemed to have no real powers since everything was under the control of the Party.<sup>293</sup> The regular duties of the Assembly were to transmit congratulatory messages to friendly countries and to receive foreign delegations visiting Kampuchea.<sup>294</sup> Witness CHAN Youran stated that, "NUON Chea received a delegate of Algerian MPs who came to visit Phnom Penh. He was the person to receive the delegate ... in 1977."<sup>295</sup>
134. The Assembly did not work on any draft law or/and hold any session to pass any laws<sup>296</sup> although the DK Constitution clearly states that the Kampuchean People's Representative Assembly is responsible for making laws,<sup>297</sup> passing laws,<sup>298</sup> monitoring law enforcement, and defining political policies of Democratic Kampuchea.<sup>299</sup> KAING Guek-Eav, former Chief of S-21 Security Centre, stated that, "Cambodia [Kampuchea] was the country that had the merely symbolic People's Representative Assembly."<sup>300</sup>
135. The International Co-Prosecutor alleged that in March 1976 Ta An was appointed under THAU An's name as the Southwest peasants' representative in the People's Representative Assembly.<sup>301</sup> The allegation is backed up by only an unofficial and unclear copy of a document which lists the names of representatives of the People's Representative Assembly.<sup>302</sup> No. 16 on the list mentions THAU An or THAU Ān. There is a presumption that THAU An is AO An, or THAU An and AO An is the same person.<sup>303</sup> There is no document to show who THAU Ān was. However, what is clear is that there is no document or/and evidence confirming THAU Ān is AO An.

C. CPK Policies towards the Cham

1. General Treatment of the Cham

136. Witness MAT Ly stated that, “In 1976, the constitution of the assembly was released and stated that we could practise belief in any religion, except the reactionary ones. But after the liberation in 1975, all religions were considered reactionary.”<sup>304</sup> Witness CHHOUK Rin testified that, “I don’t understand, because either Cham or Khmer were badly treated. All religions were banned.”<sup>305</sup> Witness MAT Ysa said that, “They (the Khmer Rouge) wanted to eliminate all religions including Islam.”<sup>306</sup> Another witness FRANÇOIS Ponchaud said that, “Those who were killed, and some were, were not killed because of their religion but because they were perceived as political enemies.”<sup>307</sup>
137. The treatment of Cham people was more robust and systematic than other religions although in the regime Cham and Khmer people wore the same black clothes.<sup>308</sup> Cham people were forbidden from wearing veils and forced to eat in communal hall.<sup>309</sup> Witness LEP Srul said that, “It was imposed upon everyone. But it was expanded to Cham people; we were asked to eat pork. If we did not eat it, we would be smashed.”<sup>310</sup>
138. Some assertions were made that Khmer people faced more hardship than Cham people.<sup>311</sup> However, it is Cham people who endured more difficulties than Khmer people because they were forbidden by Angkar from completely practising their tradition, custom and culture.<sup>312</sup> Furthermore, Cham people were separated by Angkar<sup>313</sup> from living together in the community as before and they had to live in cooperatives and mobile units and work under the same conditions as Khmer people.<sup>314</sup>
139. Cham people were regarded as 17 April people by Angkar and forced to undertake various work assignments including working in rice fields, building dams and canals, finding and transporting firewood, and fishing.<sup>315</sup> Food provision was not sufficient. Cham people were prohibited by religion from consuming pork and dog meat; however, they were forced by Angkar to consume them.<sup>316</sup>
140. Generally speaking, Cham people were forbidden by Angkar from practising their religion<sup>317</sup> and even the Koran Bible was collected and burned.<sup>318</sup> In addition, Cham people were not allowed to study or speak the Cham language.<sup>319</sup> If someone was found by Angkar speaking the Cham language, she/he would be reprimanded for the first time. The person would be arrested and placed in prison for repeated acts.<sup>320</sup>

141. Cham people were also forced to marry non-Cham people.<sup>321</sup> They were really discriminated, and this situation was increasingly tense after 17 April 1975.<sup>322</sup> In 1977, the DK regime commenced implementing the policy to actively eliminate the Cham race throughout the country.<sup>323</sup>
142. Witness SOH Kâmrei alias Haji Kamaruttin Yusof stated that, “I noticed a small 16-page book with light yellow cover, entitled “The Plan for Progressive Cooperatives ... The book clearly said Cham is the biggest enemy who must be totally smashed before 1980.”<sup>324</sup> The witness also said that, “In 1977 a security cadre from Sector 21, East Zone, told me, without knowing that I was Cham, that “the remaining Cham people would soon be killed.”<sup>325</sup> Witness PRAK Yut, Kampong Siem district former secretary testified that, “I attended a sector-level meeting during which a decision was made to arrest Cham people.”<sup>326</sup> Another witness PEOU Sarom said that, “Cham people were seriously mistreated during that time.”<sup>327</sup>
143. Witness NHIM Kol who was a Kampong Siem district resident said that, “I know that the commune chief asked the village chief to write down the names of all people in the village in two notebooks. The village chief was required to provide detailed information about them such as their race and biography ... I know that those people whose names were listed down were falsely told that they would be taken to work at the Rubber Plantation Union. But actually they were taken away and killed.”<sup>328</sup> The order to make the list was issued by the upper echelon to the base.<sup>329</sup>
144. Witness PEOU Sarom who personally participated in making the list said that, “He ordered me to make a detailed list of population in Krala Commune such as males, females, young, old, ethnic groups, “new people” or former LON Nol soldiers.”<sup>330</sup> Witness LEAV Loas recounted that, “There were Cham people in my commune. Cham people rarely survived because both those who had made mistakes and those who had not were killed. I did not see the killings, just saw the Khmer Rouge coming to call one family away at a time, and the Cham population became less and less. Later, they gathered them all. Cham people were arrested in 1978."<sup>331</sup>

145. Civil Party Applicant MUOK Sengly stated what Yeay Yuth said, "The Cham are enemy of Angkar because they plan to rebel, so Angkar has to smash them. If any Cham remain, this must be reported so they can be swept clean, because this is the plan of upper-echelon."<sup>332</sup>
146. The testimony of a direct witness SALEH Ahmat who lived in Chinik village, Kroch Chhmar district showed that in late 1978 he drove a motorcycle for the district secretary, who did not know how to ride a motorcycle, to a meeting in Sandan district of Kampong Thom. Since SALEH was not to participate in the meeting, he sat outside to wait. He said that, "While he waited he could still see some district secretaries of the East and Central Zones inside the meeting. He could also hear what was said during the meeting. At one point during the meeting, KE Pauk who was secretary of the Central Zone asked the district secretary of Kroch Chhmar: "The plan set out by the Party, what percentage has been completed?" SALEH said that KE Pauk then clarified that, "You must destroy the Cham [in the] mobile forces first; they are all traitors."<sup>333</sup>

2. Evacuation of the Cham

147. Cham people were evacuated further away from their living areas. Witness SALEH Ahmat said that, "They arrested, evacuated and took Cham people for execution. These occurred since 1976. There was no meeting that declared any policy against Cham people but they told us that Muslim religion was a superstitious belief."<sup>334</sup>
148. During that period, many people, the Cham and Khmer alike, were all suffering. But about 75 (seventy-five) percent of Cham families throughout the country were evacuated from their native villages.<sup>335</sup> Obviously, Cham people were evacuated to some districts in Kampong Thom and Kampong Cham provinces including Santuk and Chamkar Leu districts.<sup>336</sup>
149. During the evacuation, Angkar required all Cham people, men, women and children to leave and if anyone refused they were killed.<sup>337</sup> The evacuation began in 1976 and continued to late 1978.<sup>338</sup> However, witness YA Matly said that, “From 1975 to mid-1977 Khmer Islam people were not evacuated yet. The evacuation began in mid-1977 and continued to 1978.”<sup>339</sup>

150. Witness SALEH Ahmat added that, “The evacuation began in 1976 and continued to 1978 before the liberation. The purpose of the meeting was to assess how the plan to purge Cham people was achieved.”<sup>340</sup> The witness also added that, “In late 1978 there was a meeting participated by commune, district and sector levels where KE Pauk was present. A question was raised as to how much the Party’s plan was implemented.”<sup>341</sup> The rate of evacuation of Cham people is more than that of the evacuation of Khmer people from Phnom Penh and other cities throughout the country.<sup>342</sup>

D. The Purge Policy in the Central Zone

151. The CPK policy to purge, to screen<sup>343</sup> or purify<sup>344</sup> were implemented by the Party since early 1977<sup>345</sup> and even since 1975 in some parts of zones and autonomous sectors<sup>346</sup> throughout the country.<sup>347</sup> Former Chief of S-21 Security Centre KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch said that, “Based on the decision of 30 March 1976, it was the delegation of the smashing role to cadres. It was therefore an assigned document whose confidentiality was strongly preserved. It was perhaps kept for the Standing Committee only.”<sup>348</sup>
152. The waves of arrests coincided with the rise of the radical left in the Central Committee of the CPK. For example, the arrest of “VORN Vet” who at that time held a position in the DK government and was Deputy Prime Minister in charge of Economy.<sup>349</sup>
153. Former President of the State Presidium, KHIEU Samphan alias Hem, said that, “He (VORN Vet) was arrested because he [was] also one of the Vietminh bodies hidden in the Communist Party of Kampuchea. Similarly, SAO Phim was also arrested for the same reason.”<sup>350</sup> The CPK fully and ambitiously expected that the implementation of this internal purge policy would help to prevent the invasion of foreigners.<sup>351</sup>
154. In mid-1977, the purge was first launched in Siem Reap province, followed by Kampong Thom province and subsequently throughout the entire Central Zone<sup>352</sup> and rose substantially in 1978.<sup>353</sup> However, the purge was likely to have been launched in the Northwest Zone since 1976 as meetings were held in this zone to discuss the purge plans with the participation of Zone Com, the Sector Com(s), the District Com(s), unit chiefs [in the sub-districts], and the chiefs in the cooperatives.<sup>354</sup>

155. In 1977, the purge in the Northwest Zone was actively carried out and remarkably effective. Witness, POL Seun, said that, “In early 1977 Southwest cadres changed the administrative structure in the entire Northwest Zone by removing all zone, sector, district and commune committees and replaced them with those from the Southwest. I personally heard the Southwest people say that all Northwest cadres were traitors.”<sup>355</sup> Northwest Zone Secretary MOUL Sambat alias ROS Nhim was arrested and killed in late 1977.<sup>356</sup>
156. The CPK purge policy was implemented from the upper to the lower level<sup>357</sup> as Angkar said that, “Do whatever it takes to cleanse all traitors in the rank.”<sup>358</sup> Witness KHIEU En said that, “The party members and Youth League members who came through a connection and when that connection was arrested, they would also be arrested.”<sup>359</sup> Previously, former Chief of S-21 Security Centre KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch explained the term “purge” which means “remove the enemies from our ranks, the army, the population so that our ranks, the army and the population be healthy.”<sup>360</sup> Duch also added that the internal Party’s purges and the purges among the people—which is now know[n] as the Crimes against Humanity—was the task of all of us. Each of us had to inevitably fulfil it according to our roles and responsibilities.<sup>361</sup>
157. The purge policy in the Central Zone seems to have begun in late 1976 after Angkar decided to arrest North Zone former Secretary KOY Thuon alias Thuch (later on it was referred to as the Central Zone).<sup>362</sup> KOY Thuon was under house arrest since 8 April 1976<sup>363</sup>. Later, the arrests of other cadres in the Central Zone were increasingly tense from 31 January 1977 as numerous cadres at the base level, cooperatives, communes, districts, sectors and zones were subject to this CPK purge policy.<sup>364</sup> Duch stated that, “The arrests of Old North Zone cadres forcibly began on 31 January 1977 with the cooperation of KE Pauk.”<sup>365</sup> In general, when a cadre was arrested, everyone in his network and relatives would be arrested.<sup>366</sup>
158. Witness SOU Seu said that, “I also heard about the purges of CIA and KGB. They did not tell us when there were arrests.”<sup>367</sup> In the cooperatives of Chamkar Leu district, Sector 42, people continued to disappear. Mostly they were 17 April people, and some base people also disappeared.<sup>368</sup> Their disappearances from the cooperatives continued under the pretext that they “were sent to study.”<sup>369</sup>

159. Witness BAN Siek, former deputy secretary of Chamkar Leu district and secretary of Krauch Chmar district, testified that, “The zone was controlled by Secretary KE Pauk. KE Pauk served as chief of the Zone Standing Committee... To my knowledge, important decisions, for example, on a purge were made by the Standing Committee.”<sup>370</sup> The purge policy was reflected in the Decision of the Central Committee on 30 March 1976 related to the right to smash inside and outside the ranks.
160. The Decision clearly states that, for purges at the zone, if in the base framework, “to be decided by the Zone Standing Committee.”<sup>371</sup> Duch described it as “a historical document. It shows a turning point, because it reveals the beginning of internal purges.”<sup>372</sup>
161. Witness NHÈM Chèn said that, “I saw only KE Pauk chairing those particular meetings. KE Pauk also said it was the plan from the upper echelon to make efforts to arrest the entire enemy.”<sup>373</sup> As Zone Secretary, KE Pauk always chaired the meetings, providing his subordinates advice on how to arrest enemies in order to achieve the CPK plans. Witness NHÈM Chèn added that, “He (KE Pauk) said that in short, at that time, he ordered action to be taken to arrest the enemy in the districts on a continuous basis. The actions had to be taken quickly in order to meet the set plans.”<sup>374</sup>
162. Regarding the right to make arrests, witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, said that, “KE Pauk never used his power to arrest any people personally. All the arrests of the people in the Central Zone were decided by the Centre.”<sup>375</sup> This witness also added that Zone Secretary KE Pauk did not have the right to arrest anyone in his Zone, but he had the right to grant a pardon.”<sup>376</sup>
163. Witness SOU Soeun, Chamkar Leu district former secretary, said that, “Once I asked them about the disappearance of people, they told me that ‘their affairs, they know and my affairs, I know.’”<sup>377</sup> Witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, also spoke about this issue, “I did not know much about the purges because we had to comply with the four-fold slogan: “no know, no see, no hear, and no talk.”<sup>378</sup>

164. The purge policy had profound consequences. Witness CHHOUK Rin, former cadre, said that, “The break-up was resulted from POL Pot’s politics and the too-great-leap-forward policy of the Communist Party of Kampuchea.”<sup>379</sup> The purges triggered the internal break-up of the CPK as some former Khmer Rouge fled to Vietnam and others escaped to the jungle.<sup>380</sup> Facing several consequences of the purge policy, Khmer Rouge cadres laid the blame on POL Pot.<sup>381</sup>

E. Forced Marriage

165. During the DK period, some people were not forced to get married,<sup>382</sup> but the majority were<sup>383</sup> and if they refused, Angkar would re-fashion them.<sup>384</sup> If they still refused, they would be taken away and killed.<sup>385</sup> There was, however, an exception for the cadres who did not want to get married.<sup>386</sup> Forced marriage did not only take place in the Central Zone but also in most of the zones and autonomous sectors.<sup>387</sup> Witness CHHOUK Rin said that, “I did not know the reason. We had to follow them as we stayed with the Communist Party.”<sup>388</sup> During that era, no one dared to get divorced.<sup>389</sup>
166. Duch said that, “I even heard that Ta Mok would gather future spouses by the hundreds and forced them into marriage.”<sup>390</sup> Witness CHHOEUN Sèm said that, “I got married in 1975, that is, after 17 April 1975. This marriage was forced by Angkar, by telling that, ‘You, Comrade, must get married.’”<sup>391</sup> A former military cadre said that, “I also got married in that manner. I was assigned to get married without any prior information. I did not know my bride. She also did not know that I would be her husband. I was forced to get married at the same time as many other couples.”<sup>392</sup>
167. Although they did not know about the arranged marriage and while some of them also had fiancés/fiancées, no one dared to refuse the proposed marriage.<sup>393</sup> For example, Angkar forced a woman to get married but she refused because the man was handicapped.<sup>394</sup> Later the woman committed suicide. In consequence, her dead body was buried, and a chain was laid on her grave along with the statement of “she was stubborn, and had betrayed Angkar”.<sup>395</sup>

168. Wedding ceremonies were not allowed to organise according to the culture and tradition.<sup>396</sup> They could be said to have been arranged without any Khmer music and banquets.<sup>397</sup> Normally, in the context of Cambodian society, only a couple gets married at one time. In contrast, the DK regime organised wedding ceremonies from one couple<sup>398</sup> to two couples,<sup>399</sup> three couples,<sup>400</sup> four couples,<sup>401</sup> more than four couples<sup>402</sup> and sometimes more than one hundred couples.<sup>403</sup> This happened almost throughout the country.
169. In general, it was observed that wedding ceremonies were organised by a unit chief. To start with, the unit chief made an opening remark.<sup>404</sup> Those who were to get married were seated face-to-face by Angkar – men sat in one row<sup>405</sup> and women in a row opposite.<sup>406</sup> Then each couple stood up to make a [marriage] vow.<sup>407</sup> Finally, the unit chief made an announcement “Congratulations to the comrades being married, the couples”.<sup>408</sup>
170. At some bases, wedding ceremonies were organized in the open rice field where male and female couples were made to sit on empty sacks.<sup>409</sup> Couples’ clothes were black, and sometimes Angkar allowed them to wear new clothes, still black, though.<sup>410</sup> Overall, marriage arranged for cadres was better than for people at the bases.<sup>411</sup>
171. After the marriage, Angkar allowed the couples to rest – the number of days off varied from one location to another ranging from one day<sup>412</sup> to two<sup>413</sup> or three,<sup>414</sup> or up to a fortnight.<sup>415</sup> After the break, Angkar sent them back to work in the villages and generally gave them lighter work load at first<sup>416</sup> and while others were sent to different worksites right away.<sup>417</sup> Couples were separated and not allowed to stay together.<sup>418</sup> Angkar allowed them to meet only once a week,<sup>419</sup> once a month<sup>420</sup> or once every two months.<sup>421</sup>
172. In response to the investigator’s question “Were those arranged couples happy, willing to accept each other or sad to be married?”<sup>422</sup> Witness AUM Yat replied that, “I noticed that they seemed to be fine. I noticed that they were happy with each other.” However, very few couples lived together forever.<sup>423</sup> Sometimes only one spouse was killed;<sup>424</sup> sometimes both spouses were killed together.<sup>425</sup>
173. It would appear that there was no clear reason for forced marriage.<sup>426</sup> Some former cadres held a view that multi-couple marriage was organized because it seemed likely that Angkar did not want to waste resources.<sup>427</sup> Former Chief of S-21 Security Centre Duch said that, “In my opinion, collective marriages would have been decided upon by the Standing Committee, or in other words, by POL Pot. Once again, I saw no evidence that a country-wide policy was being applied in that regard.”<sup>428</sup>

174. Witness SĒK Sam At alias Yeay Rim, Bakan district former secretary, said that, “I did not have any policies to instruct for forced marriage. There were no rules or policies. However, from the beginning of the regime, I saw such practices. I saw that the weddings were not the same as before. In the old days, a proper process for marriage proposals would be followed. During the regime, many couples were wed en masse. I did not set out such policy. I was unaware of such a policy.”<sup>429</sup>
175. Witness SAO Sarun, former Sector 105 Secretary (Mondulkiri province) said that, “I went to a meeting with POL Pot (I don’t remember when), and he said to marry them in couples, two or three couples could be married, to not make it too difficult. But in actuality, a single couple could also be married. The parents or relatives that lived in different cooperatives or different sectors could attend, and the bride and the groom had to rise to make a resolution announcing their biographies and their loyalty to one another.”<sup>430</sup>
176. Duch also said that, “In 1967, I underwent secret training at a house on St. 163 and, on that occasion, I became aware of a document that originated from the party cell which I was a member. In that document, there was an explanation to the effect that marriage should be “1+1=2” and not “=0” or “=1.” I interpreted this slogan as follows: a member of the party can only love a fellow member of the same party. So therefore it was in that spirit that I prepared myself for marriage: it seemed to me impossible to marry anyone from outside the party, particularly someone from the new population. I would like to point out that my own wife was not only a member of the party but, in addition, a lower middle peasant and that she came from a base group of the revolution.”<sup>431</sup>
177. Soldiers were also forced to get married under arrangements made by their respective unit chiefs.<sup>432</sup> Witness CHHOUK Rin, a former soldier, said that, “Forced marriage happened because if we were assigned to get married, we had to do it.”<sup>433</sup> In general, women were forced by Angkar to marry soldiers, sometimes they had to marry handicapped soldiers since the latter had priority to propose first.<sup>434</sup> Those who disliked their partners did not dare to protest since they were afraid Angkar would take them away and kill them.<sup>435</sup>

178. Militiamen spied on newlyweds, eavesdropping under the house for a few days. If a couple did not consent or rowed, Angkar would take them away for re-education and sometimes they disappeared.<sup>436</sup> As such, some newlyweds forced themselves to consummate their marriage since they were afraid of losing their lives<sup>437</sup> because those who refused to consummate their married were considered enemies and they were subject to a reprimand or being arrested and killed.<sup>438</sup> When couples agreed to consummate the marriage, eavesdropping under the house no longer existed.<sup>439</sup> However, spying on newlyweds to find out whether they were sleeping together was not mentioned in any Party instructional documents.

179. Duch also mentioned this issue: “To my knowledge there were no measures to organize surveillance, but some immoral cadres spied on the married people to find out whether they were sleeping together. This was independent of the problem of forced marriage.”<sup>440</sup> Duch also added that, “Secretary of the Military Hospital 98 Committee, who asked his subordinates to spy on married people to see if they were sleeping together was punished for this: he was first made to apologise to the married couples in question and then, as there were other allegations against him, he was arrested, transferred to S-21 and executed.”<sup>441</sup>

F. Administrative Structure at the Base Level

1. Zones

180. The DK regime had 6 (six) zones:<sup>442</sup> the Southwest Zone,<sup>443</sup> the West Zone,<sup>444</sup> the Northwest Zone,<sup>445</sup> the Central Zone<sup>446</sup> (former North Zone<sup>447</sup>), the Northeast Zone,<sup>448</sup> and the East Zone.<sup>449</sup> In addition, there were some autonomous sectors:<sup>450</sup> Kampong Som,<sup>451</sup> Mondulkiri (Sector 105),<sup>452</sup> Preah Vihear (Sector 103),<sup>453</sup> and Kratie (Sector 505).<sup>454</sup> The administrative structure is a top-down hierarchy:<sup>455</sup> zones,<sup>456</sup> sectors,<sup>457</sup> districts,<sup>458</sup> communes,<sup>459</sup> villages,<sup>460</sup> cooperatives,<sup>461</sup> groups,<sup>462</sup> units,<sup>463</sup> mobile units,<sup>464</sup> and children units.<sup>465</sup>

182. Based on the administrative structure, zones oversaw sectors, districts, communes, villages and cooperatives.<sup>473</sup> Thus, a zone was divided into sectors while each sector was divided, for the administrative purpose, into districts and each district was subsequently divided into villages and cooperatives where mobile units were based.<sup>474</sup> Each district mobile unit had around 3,000 (three thousand) people.<sup>475</sup>

2. Chain of Command

183. When there was a decision of the Central Committee of the CPK or Standing Committee, the dissemination mechanisms were implemented by the zone secretaries and autonomous sector secretaries who were responsible for disseminating policies and instructions to the sector and district secretaries, so the policies of the upper echelon could be executed.<sup>476</sup>
184. Regarding reporting mechanisms, the communes had to report to the district committees who in turn transmitted such reports to the sector committees. The sector committees had to further transmit the reports to the zone committees. The CPK Statute clearly states that, "The organization which has the highest power in each zone is the zone committees."<sup>477</sup>

3. The Southwest Zone

185. The Southwest Zone was divided into four sectors: Sector 35<sup>478</sup> (Kampot province),<sup>479</sup> Sector 13<sup>480</sup> (Takeo province),<sup>481</sup> Sector 33 (Samraong Tong district and Kong Pisei district in Kampong Speu province),<sup>482</sup> and Sector 25 (part of Kandal province).<sup>483</sup> In the Southwest Zone, UNG Choeun or CHHIT Choeun alias Ta Mok was appointed as Zone Secretary from the beginning to the end of the DK regime.<sup>484</sup>

3.1. Sector 13

186. The International Co-Prosecutor alleges that AO An is a founder of Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre and Crime Site.<sup>485</sup> This location is also part of the charges described in detail in the Closing Order in Case 002.<sup>486</sup>
187. Witnesses claimed that LENG Ān was Deputy Chief of the Security Centre in 1974 and later became Security Centre Chief until 1979<sup>487</sup> when he was taken away and killed.<sup>488</sup> There is possibly a misunderstanding about Ān and An, which leads to a conclusion that AO An is a founder of this Security Centre. Many witnesses provided contrasting evidence that AO An never worked in Sector 13 of the Southwest Zone<sup>489</sup> in Tram Kak district, Takeo province where the Security Centre was located. In addition, Witness PECH Chim, Tram Kak district former secretary (District 105), clearly stated that “An was KE Pauk’s deputy. An never worked in Kraing Ta Chan Security Centre.”<sup>490</sup> In conclusion, the investigation does not show that AO An is a founder of the Security Centre.

3.2. Sector 25

188. Prior to 1975, Sector 25 was part of the special zone.<sup>491</sup> However, after 17 April 1975 the upper echelon decided to include Sector 25 as part of the Southwest Zone.<sup>492</sup> Sector 25 covering part of Kandal province had 5 (five) districts:<sup>493</sup> Kandal Steung,<sup>494</sup> Sa-ang,<sup>495</sup> Koh Thom,<sup>496</sup> Kien Svay,<sup>497</sup> and Khsach Kandal.<sup>498</sup>
189. Sector 25 Committee consisted of secretary, deputy secretary and members who were frequently replaced with no clear timeline.<sup>499</sup> Before and after 17 April 1975, Chey was Sector Secretary, SOKH But Chamroeun was Sector Deputy Secretary and HUOT Sey was Member of the Sector Committee.<sup>500</sup> Then CHAB Chiel became Sector Secretary, and Prak was Sector Deputy Secretary.<sup>501</sup> Later on, there were 4 (four) members on the Sector 25 Committee: Chea<sup>502</sup> as Secretary, Prak<sup>503</sup> as Deputy Secretary, Sean<sup>504</sup> and An<sup>505</sup> as Members.<sup>506</sup> Sector Secretary Chea was arrested in around August or September 1977.<sup>507</sup> Prak then replaced Chea as the Sector Secretary.<sup>508</sup>
190. A witness said that in the early 1970s AO An was a military commander at the sector level in charge of Kandal Steung district.<sup>509</sup> In 1972-1973, AO An was transferred to work in the southern part of Phnom Penh in Kandal Steung district.<sup>510</sup> AO An became Sa-ang District Secretary for a short period of time.<sup>511</sup> In February 1976 AO An was transferred from Sector 25 to work in Sector 35 in the Southwest Zone.<sup>512</sup>

3.3. Sector 35

191. Sector 35 was part of the Southwest Zone under the control of Southwest Zone Secretary Ta Mok.<sup>513</sup> There were 5 (five) districts in Sector 35 in the Southwest Zone: Koh Sla, Kampot, Touk Meas, Kampong Trach, and Chhouk.<sup>514</sup> Sector 35 Committee consisted of KÂNG Chab<sup>515</sup> as Secretary, An<sup>516</sup> as Deputy Secretary, SAOM Phôn,<sup>517</sup> Sean,<sup>518</sup> Ta Ty,<sup>519</sup> Yut<sup>520</sup> and Ta Mut as Members.<sup>521</sup>
192. AO An was [a member of] the Sector Committee. The upper echelon gave him responsibility for building dams and canals.<sup>522</sup> AO An also served as the Sector 35 Office Chief for a while. Witness PECH Chim, Tram Kak district (District 105) former secretary, confirmed that, "I secretly asked them and I was told that he (AO An) used to be Chief of Sector 35 Office in Kampot province."<sup>523</sup> AO An held another position, "He (AO An) was [on] the Koh Sla District Committee,"<sup>524</sup> said another witness.
193. Having worked, after his transfer to Sector 35, for about 1 (one) year, AO An was assigned by the upper echelon to work in the Central Zone.<sup>525</sup> At that time KÂNG Chab, Sector 35 Secretary of the Southwest Zone, was also transferred to the Central Zone and SÂM Bit was appointed by the upper echelon as the Sector 35 Secretary for his replacement.<sup>526</sup>

4. The Central Zone

194. After 17 April 1975, the North Zone was dissolved due to its wide coverage.<sup>527</sup> The North Zone was demarcated into 2 (two) zones:<sup>528</sup> the Central Zone<sup>529</sup> and the New North Zone.<sup>530</sup> Witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group of the Office of the Central Zone Committee, said that, "The New North Zone and the Central Zone were created in 1975, just about two or three months after 17 April 1975."<sup>531</sup> The Old North Zone<sup>532</sup> was renamed the Central Zone by the upper echelon.<sup>533</sup> The Central Zone which was the former Old North Zone was divided into 3 (three) sectors:<sup>534</sup> Sector 41,<sup>535</sup> Sector 42,<sup>536</sup> and Sector 43.<sup>537</sup>

196. Not long after he came to work in Phnom Penh, KOY Thuon alias Thuch was arrested by the upper echelon and transferred to S-21 Security Centre on 25 January 1977; he is under number 6165 on the S-21 Security Centre prisoner list.<sup>546</sup> Starting from 1 February 1977, arrests of other cadres in the Central Zone (the Old North Zone) were made one after the other as they were implicated by Angkar in KOY Thuon's network.<sup>547</sup>
197. Almost all the Central Zone cadres were arrested except for KE Pauk who was considered the cleanest person in the Zone.<sup>548</sup> As a result, after the North Zone was demarcated, the upper echelon appointed KE Pauk<sup>549</sup> as Central Zone Secretary and Sector 35 former Secretary KÂNG Chab<sup>550</sup> alias Sè<sup>551</sup> as Secretary of the New North Zone.<sup>552</sup> Witness PRUM Sou said that, "In late 1977... NUON Chea announced the creation of the New North Zone and appointed KÂNG Chab alias Sè as Secretary of the New North Zone."<sup>553</sup>
198. At the outset, the Central Zone Committee consisted of KE Pauk<sup>554</sup> as Secretary, Ang<sup>555</sup> as Deputy Secretary and Sim<sup>556</sup> (Ta Mok's nephew-in-law) as Member.<sup>557</sup> Witness TEP Poch, Baray district former secretary, said that, "As far as I know, Sim was one of KE Pauk's deputies and Chên, who was Sector 43 Secretary, was another [KE Pauk's] deputy."<sup>558</sup> Later on, the Central Zone Committee consisted of 5 (five) members: KE Pauk as Secretary, Sreng as Deputy Secretary, Tol, Chên, and Oeun as Members.<sup>559</sup>

200. Based on the testimony of witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, and the information about the Zone Deputy Secretary Sreng's arrest on the cover page of S-21 Security Centre confession, the Charged Person AO An may have replaced Sreng after 17 February 1977, but not right away. No evidence of official announcement or letter was seen concerning the position AO An held as Deputy Secretary of the Central Zone.<sup>568</sup> However, witness KUCH Ra said that, "Ta An's position as deputy secretary of the Central Zone was officially announced during a zone conference."<sup>569</sup>
201. This is consistent with the event that the Southwest group travelled to the North Zone perhaps in March 1977.<sup>570</sup> One witness said that, "I can recall that Ta An travelled together but he was in another vehicle."<sup>571</sup> One witness, a Sector 35 former staff, also said that, "Ta An went to Kampong Cham in around April or May 1977."<sup>572</sup> However, of all the statements of witnesses, only PECH Chim, Tram Kak district (District 105) former secretary, testified that, "Ta An, Ta Sim and I left for the Central Zone on the same day... on 14 February 1976 I arrived in the Central Zone."<sup>573</sup> This witness also added that Ta An arrived in the Central Zone on the same day, not in 1977.<sup>574</sup>
202. A handwritten document of the Central Zone top leader KE Pauk shows that in June 1977 the Southwest cadres arrived in the Central Zone. Obviously, it reads, "... In June 1977, the first stage of capturing was over. By that time, only me (KE Pauk) remained and the Central Zone had no cadres left. The upper brothers decided to transfer the cadres from Southwestern Zone to fill the unoccupied positions. They sent about 200 cadres from that zone."<sup>575</sup> This is consistent with numerous statements made by 34 (thirty-four) witnesses.<sup>576</sup>
203. Apparently, many witnesses provided similar statements that it was around mid-1977 when AO An was transferred to the Central Zone.<sup>577</sup> Other witnesses said that about 40 (forty) cadres from Sector 35 of the Southwest Zone including AO An were transferred out to work in other areas throughout the Central Zone.<sup>578</sup> Upon arrival of the Southwest group in the Central Zone, the Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk assigned them to various sectors and districts right away.<sup>579</sup>
204. The Central Zone had two main offices to oversee the entire work assignments: the Office of the Central Zone Committee and the Central Office

(or Office 71).<sup>580</sup> The Central Zone Office was located in the current provincial town of Kampong Cham (2018) at 7 January Hotel.<sup>581</sup> Witness KE Un alias Aok, Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk's nephew and former driver, said that, "I drove KE Pauk to Office 71 which was located in Ta Prok commune, Chamkar Leu district, Kampong Cham province."<sup>582</sup> The Central Office was an office where KE Pauk used to assign the most important tasks in the Central Zone.<sup>583</sup> The Office of the Central Zone Committee located in Kampong Cham provincial town was responsible for general and important work assignments of the Central Zone.<sup>584</sup>

205. At the zone level, 2 (two) monthly meetings were normally held.<sup>585</sup> Only Zone Secretary KE Pauk had the right to chair every internal zone meeting,<sup>586</sup> and chaired the regular monthly meeting – no one could replace him.<sup>587</sup> As usual, the sector committees, district committees and commune committees participated in the zone meetings, reporting on the accomplishments.<sup>588</sup> It was only the Zone Committee members who had the right to attend in the special meetings.<sup>589</sup>

4.1. Authority of Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk

206. Zone Secretary KE Pauk had a close relationship with the members of the CPK Standing Committee.<sup>590</sup> Former Chief of S-21 Security Centre KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch said that, "Sometimes KE Pauk was invited to attend a meeting of the Standing Committee of the CPK Central Committee."<sup>591</sup> This former Chief of S-21 Security Centre clearly said that, "One day, someone from the Central Zone said in his confession that KE Pauk had betrayed by stocking arms in Kampong Cham province at Dey Dos pagoda. I made my report to NUON Chea and he (NUON Chea) replied that KE Pauk had not betrayed, since the decision to stock the arms had been made by POL Pot."<sup>592</sup>
207. In addition, Duch said that, "In fact, by his third response (if I remember correctly) KOY Thuon began to implicate KE Pauk. With the third response, SON Sen decided to have KOY Thuon be evasive about KE Pauk temporarily. With the fourth response, KOY Thuon was authorised to give responses involving KE Pauk. When the responses were finished, SON Sen had S-21 use a BIC pen to remove only KE Pauk's name in any copy given to any location where KE Pauk was."<sup>593</sup>

208. Witness KE Un alias Aok, KE Pauk's nephew and former driver, said that, "He (KE Pauk) was the chief of Kampong Cham Zone; and his senior was POL Pot."<sup>594</sup> Witness KE Un also added that, "I never spoke with anyone while I was on that Dam because people were so afraid of KE Pauk's car; afraid of being taken away to be killed. Even if someone stole a potato, he/she would be taken away to be killed. [We] do not have to talk about chatting with me who worked closely with the big shot."<sup>595</sup>
209. Former President of the State Presidium KHIEU Samphan said that, "To his understanding, in the Khmer Rouge regime each zone, especially the zone secretary, is the lord who assigned work in the zone as he wanted. The Central Committee could not control and could only receive reports."<sup>596</sup> Former S-21 Security Centre Chief Duch also held a similar view: "As far as I know KE Pauk had the authority to decide on arrests or detentions."<sup>597</sup>
210. Based on the geographical administration, the Central Zone had 4 (four) major rubber plantations: Chamkar Andaung, Chamkar Svay Meas, Prek Kak, and Andaung Svay Rubber Plantations.<sup>598</sup> These rubber plantations were under direct control of Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk.<sup>599</sup> Witness PECH Chim, Tram Kak district (District 105) former secretary, said that, "I received the work plan from the Zone directly. I went to study and attend the meeting at the Zone directly. The meeting was held once a month and I was called by the letter to attend it. Sometimes KE Pauk came down to see my place personally."<sup>600</sup>
211. KE Pauk frequently went to many locations within the Central Zone including Kampong Siem district worksites,<sup>601</sup> Phnom Pros Security Centre,<sup>602</sup> 1st January Dam,<sup>603</sup> Anlung Chrey Dam worksite,<sup>604</sup> Andaung Rubber Plantation,<sup>605</sup> Wat Ta Meak Security Centre,<sup>606</sup> Chamkar Leu district,<sup>607</sup> Pharmaceutical Factory (in Boeung Snay),<sup>608</sup> Office 71<sup>609</sup> ... and several other locations in the Central Zone.<sup>610</sup>

five) telegrams,<sup>615</sup> 13 (thirteen)<sup>616</sup> show relationship between KE Pauk as Secretary of the Central Zone and the Central Committee. There is only one document which refers to AO An requesting opinion from the Centre through KE Pauk in relation to the arrest of 2 (two) soldiers in Sector 41.<sup>617</sup>

4.2. Purges in the Central Zone

213. With regard to the purges in the Central Zone, several witnesses made the same statements that most of the predecessors in the administrative structure in the Central Zone were removed.<sup>618</sup> However, the question is whether they had been removed before the arrival of the Southwest group to take control<sup>619</sup> or the latter had arrived and took control before they were removed.<sup>620</sup> Regarding this issue, several testimonies clearly confirm that the upper echelon had issued orders to take away former workers and had them killed before the Southwest group was transferred to the area to replace them.<sup>621</sup>
214. Witness RY Nhâ said that, “Before the Southwest Zone cadres came, all the Kampong Cham cadres, including the sector secretary, district secretaries and Phăn, were sent for education. They never returned. After that, the Southwest Zone cadres arrived.”<sup>622</sup> Witness SAMRIT Ân stated that, “Comrade Soem had been killed before the arrival of the Southwest group.”<sup>623</sup> Regarding the arrests of the former sector committees, witness NHEM Chen, AO An’s former bodyguard said that, “The arrests happened before the arrival of Ta An... They were all arrested before Ta An arrived. At that time, only unit chiefs remained.”<sup>624</sup> On this issue, AO An himself said, “Everyone had been gone except for KE Pauk.”<sup>625</sup>
215. Despite the arrival of the Southwest group in the Central Zone, arrests continued.<sup>626</sup> The waves of replacement by the Southwest group did not only occur in the Central Zone but also in the East and Northwest Zones.<sup>627</sup> In addition, witness NHEM Kol said that, “Soeun (secretary of Kampong Siem district) and Meng disappeared after PRĂK Yut arrived in Kampong Siem district for two or three weeks... I am sure of that before PRĂK Yut and her subordinates arrived in Kampong Siem district, there had been no arrests of cadres.”<sup>628</sup>
216. In the context of the DK regime, the phrase “orders from the upper echelon” squarely means orders given by the zone secretary.<sup>629</sup> Killings of people by truckloads were related to orders from the upper echelon.<sup>630</sup> The decision of the Party Standing Committee clearly states that only the zone had the authority to decide on arrests.<sup>631</sup> Statements from several witnesses show that the purges in the Central Zone were led and directly organized by Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk.<sup>632</sup>

217. However, KE Pauk himself used to pass the responsibility to his upper echelon. A witness said that, “KE Pauk said there were orders from the upper echelon. He said that when digging up grass, dig up all the roots.”<sup>633</sup> In general, whether it was the Southwest Zone or the Central Zone, only the zone secretary had the authority to order an arrest. Witness NUT Nov clearly stated that, “It was only the zone that had the right to call anyone to go to study.”<sup>634</sup>
218. Regarding arrests of ordinary people, some witnesses claimed that sometimes orders came from the zones and sometimes they came from the sectors. In principle, ordinary people were not subject of transfer to S-21 Security Centre.<sup>635</sup> Witness PECH Chim, Tram Kak district (District 105) former secretary, also responded regarding the order to kill given by KE Pauk that, “KE Pauk told me and instructed me to continue the purges. I said that I could not do it. It was too dark for me to see it with my eyes. Their parents were gone and how could I mistreat their wives and children? If you can, you do it.”<sup>636</sup>
219. Under the control of KOY Thuon alias Thuch, Zone Secretary, not many killings were seen. However, after KE Pauk became Zone Secretary replacing KOY Thuon, many people were seen to be killed.<sup>637</sup> One witness stated that, “Phim, Batheay district secretary... told me that thousands of people were arrested in the Central Zone in particular between 1977 and 1979... and the orders were given from the upper level to the zone level.”<sup>638</sup> At one point in time KE Pauk issued an order to stop the killings. KE Pauk’s niece recalled KE Pauk’s advice and order that, “All of us will stop killing people; anyone who kills them will be punished.”<sup>639</sup>
220. As a consequence of the implementation of the purge policy, only a few Central Zone cadres survived. Obviously, none of the Sector 43 Secretaries survived. At the district level, only a handful of district secretaries survived till today.

4.3. KE Pauk's Absence

221. In addition to his position of the Central Zone Secretary, KE Pauk also held a position of Chief of Staff of the Central Zone.<sup>640</sup> Witness CHHOUK Rin, former military cadre said that, "The zone level at the time had the authority over both the military and the civilians."<sup>641</sup> Moreover, KE Pauk also held another military position of deputy Commander-in-Chief to SON Sen in charge of the front line for the attack against Vietnam. He was also a member of the CPK Military Committee.<sup>642</sup> KE Pauk was the fourth most powerful cadre in the Centre in charge of the military.<sup>643</sup>
222. Regarding the presence of KE Pauk in the Central Zone, witness KUCH Ra stated that, "Sometimes KE Pauk had to go join the congress in Phnom Penh or chaired big meetings in various sectors, but I did not know how long he was absent."<sup>644</sup> Witness SUON Kanil claimed that, "As I know, KE Pauk did not leave for anywhere during the period of 3 years 8 months and 20 days. He was absent only when he went to battlefields, attended meetings in Phnom Penh or oversaw dam/dyke constructions for a short period of time."<sup>645</sup>
223. In contrast, only witness KE Un, KE Pauk's nephew and former driver, said that, "No one ever drove him (KE Pauk) to Phnom Penh. He (KE Pauk) communicated through telegrams because he wanted to keep the information secret."<sup>646</sup> This is consistent with CHHOUK Rin's testimony that, "This is the routine of Khmer Rouge leaders. Absence is rare."<sup>647</sup>
224. Witness LIM Sēng also said that, "As far as I remember, the longest time he was ever absent from the zone was 3 days only."<sup>648</sup> In fact, KE Pauk was not frequently absent from the Central Zone. He was absent from the zone for a short period of time only for about five to six days.<sup>649</sup>
225. Witness SARAY Hean claimed that, "At the zone level, the structure was the same, i.e. there was a zone secretary, and [the secretaries in] all sectors were automatically members of the Zone Committee in numerical order 1st member, 2nd member, and so on. Concerning work responsibility, I knew that when the zone secretary was absent, a zone committee member below the secretary would be in charge."<sup>650</sup> Despite all that, when the Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk was away, it was the chief of the Office of the Central Zone Committee who was in charge.<sup>651</sup>

226. Witness SUON Kanil, former chief of messenger group of the Central Zone Office, said in this regard that, “In case KE Pauk was absent, people came to meet with the chairperson of the Central Zone Office named Sau.”<sup>652</sup> Former chiefs of the Central Zone Office include Sau, Nhean, Sèn, and Moeun.<sup>653</sup> This is supported by the fact that other zone secretaries including the East Zone secretary assigned their office chiefs to attend meetings on their behalves.<sup>654</sup>
227. In the Central Zone, when Zone Secretary KE Pauk was away or on a mission outside the zone, who was in charge? One witness stated that, “The person who could replace him (KE Pauk) when he was absent was the office chief named Moeun who was KE Pauk’s nephew.”<sup>655</sup> Clearer than that, another witness provided a similar statement: “I remember only Moeun and Hèn who worked on behalf of KE Pauk when he carried out his duties somewhere else or was absent from the zone.”<sup>656</sup>
228. Furthermore, for the decisions that had to go through and decided right away by the Zone Secretary, the messenger would deliver those documents to KE Pauk in person immediately.<sup>657</sup> KE Pauk had more than 10 (ten) messengers for delivery of documents.<sup>658</sup> PECH Chim, Tram Kak district (District 105) former secretary and former chief of Andaung Rubber Plantation, clearly stated that, “I always sent my reports directly to KE Pauk. In case of urgencies, someone would send them to him immediately no matter where he was.”<sup>659</sup>

4.4. AO An’s Position

229. Regarding the position and duties of AO An at the zone level, in response to the investigator’s question: “Do you know which position AO An held at the zone level?” Witness SAT Phea, who had more information about AO An, replied that, “I don’t know.”<sup>660</sup>
230. In response to the Co-Investigating Judge’s question: “Did Ta An know about the transfer of people?” Witness ROTH Peou replied that, “It was the plan from the upper level and I did not know whether Ta An knew that. It became a convention that people spoke to one another that it was the order from the upper level.”<sup>661</sup> Another witness NHÈM Chen, AO An’s former bodyguard, said that, “KE Pauk received orders from Ta POL Pot called Ta SALOTH Sar alias Ta Number 1. Ta An received orders from KE Pauk, and KE Pauk received orders from POL Pot.<sup>662</sup>

4.5. Communication Structure in the Central Zone

231. The CPK Statute clearly stipulates the reporting regime that the Zone Committees shall examine, monitor and deliberate activities of their respective Zones.<sup>663</sup> Telegrams were transmitted and received following the chain of command – they were sent from the Central level down to the Zones,<sup>664</sup> and from the Zones down to the Sectors.<sup>665</sup> Witness SUON Kanil, former chief of messenger group of the Central Zone Office, said that, “Every telegram related to the Sectors which was sent to the Central Zone had to go through my place.”<sup>666</sup>
232. It was the CPK instruction that telegram communication between one zone to another had to go through the Central Committee of the CPK first – each zone was not allowed to communicate directly.<sup>667</sup> Each zone had its own telegram unit<sup>668</sup> comprising of telegram translator,<sup>669</sup> number coder,<sup>670</sup> transmitter,<sup>671</sup> receiver,<sup>672</sup> and typist<sup>673</sup> or MORSE operator.<sup>674</sup>
233. In general, the content of a telegram was not long – it contained brief information only. If a recipient could be reached by means of a motorcycle or vehicle, a messenger would deliver that message.<sup>675</sup> However, if the content of the delivery was long, it would be delivered by mail or a messenger.<sup>676</sup>
234. Every telegram sent from the Central Committee of the CPK had to follow the schedule set for the Central Committee of the CPK. The telegrams that were sent from the zones to the sectors had also to follow the existing schedule set for transmitting messages to the sectors.<sup>677</sup> Schedule setting was based on a simple reason – to avoid time overlapping in making reports and/or receiving instructions from the upper level.<sup>678</sup>
235. At the zone level, there were several modes of communication. However, telegraph was the only means for quick and safe delivery of information with the assurance of maintaining high secrecy in transmitting messages from the zones to the Central Committee of the CPK and the sectors.
236. Witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, claimed that, “At the zone level, we sent telegrams to the sectors.”<sup>679</sup> In some cases, “the zone received telegrams from the sectors.”<sup>680</sup> The witness also added that, “The outgoing and incoming telegrams to and from the Central Zone were mostly with the sectors under the zones. The telegrams to be sent out were brought to my group by KE Pauk’s messengers with KE Pauk’s signature. The reason I knew it was KE Pauk’s telegrams was because every outgoing and incoming telegram had to be delivered to KE Pauk.”<sup>681</sup>

237. The telegrams sent from the Central Zone to the Central Committee of the CPK had to contain KE Pauk’s signature.<sup>682</sup> The telegrams coming from the sectors were not on a regular basis.<sup>683</sup> They were sent only when there were important matters. Each day the zone received one telegram from one sector. However, the frequency of telegrams sent from the Central Committee of the CPK to various zones became more than usual as there were between two telegrams or more per day in 1978.<sup>684</sup> This is according to witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, who also said that, “The communication with the Centre increased more than usual in 1978.”<sup>685</sup>
238. The telegrams which were sent from the Central Zone Office were kept for only 3 (three) months, then they had to be destroyed.<sup>686</sup> However, 229 (two hundred and twenty-nine) telegrams<sup>687</sup> left in the case file. Witness SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, stated that, “The ability to manage of the zone secretary [The control of the Zone Committee] was different from one zone to another. That depended on the knowledge of each zone secretary [Zone Committee]. As for KE Pauk, he was a pure peasant, so he followed whatever instruction given to him.”<sup>688</sup>

239. Sector 41 was one of the 3 (three) sectors in the Central Zone. It geographically covered five districts:<sup>689</sup> Prey Chhor,<sup>690</sup> Kang Meas,<sup>691</sup> Cheung Prey,<sup>692</sup> Batheay<sup>693</sup> and Kampong Siem<sup>694</sup> (or District 88).<sup>695</sup> Its office was located near Prey Tortoeng market, Chrey Vien commune, Prey Chhor district, Kampong Cham province, Sector 41, the Central Zone.<sup>696</sup> Its first chief was Sang Dam alias Ām.<sup>697</sup> After Ām was arrested, Aun became Sector 41 Office Chief and was also Sector 41 Deputy Secretary.<sup>698</sup>

240. Witness SAT Phea stated about the death of Ta Ām that, “That happened after Ta An’s arrival. Ta Ām was detained and subjected to electric shock in Prey Torteung, but I do not know where he was killed. Ta An ordered Ta Ām’s arrest. I learned this from one of Ta Aun’s messengers, whose name I have forgotten.”<sup>699</sup> However, witness EM Pon said that, “Yeay Yut’s husband (Aun), who was Kampong Siem District Chairman, was arrested in my office. He was sent to Kampot province. Kampot personnel came and took him away.”<sup>700</sup>
241. Around 40 (forty) to 50 (fifty) people permanently lived in Sector 41 Office.<sup>701</sup> There were about 7 (seven) messengers in Sector 41 Office. Each of them had one motorbike to perform their work.<sup>702</sup> In 1975-1976, the first Sector 41 Secretary was CHOR Chhan alias Sreng<sup>703</sup> and Taing<sup>704</sup> was the Sector 41 Deputy Secretary. Based on the information on the cover page of S-21 Security Centre confession, Sreng was held on 17 February 1977<sup>705</sup> under the pretext that he was to be sent for study sessions.<sup>706</sup>
242. Then in 1977, CHUN Chhum alias Taing<sup>707</sup> replaced Sreng as the Sector 41 Secretary.<sup>708</sup> Sector 41 Secretary Taing was also arrested before the arrival of Southwestern cadres in the Central Zone.<sup>709</sup> The arrest of Sector 41 Secretary Taing was made around six or three-four months before the arrival of Southwestern cadres.<sup>710</sup> When AO An arrived in the Central Zone, KE Pauk appointed him as the Sector 41 Secretary to replace Taing.<sup>711</sup> There are inconsistencies between witnesses with regard to the time when AO An replaced Taing.
243. One witness stated that, “Ta Sreng, the former Secretary of Sector 41, was replaced by Ta An, who came from the Southwest Zone.”<sup>712</sup> The claim about AO An’s prompt replacement without going through Sector 41 Secretary Taing,<sup>713</sup> could lead to confusion as to how Sector 41 Secretary was replaced. Many witnesses stated clearly that Sector 41 Secretary Taing had been arrested before AO An’s replacement.<sup>714</sup>
244. Based on the evidence which was obtained perhaps after March or April 1977, AO An did not yet become Sector 41 Secretary even though a number of witnesses said that AO An had arrived there in the abovementioned period.<sup>715</sup> There are no official documents recording the appointment of AO An as the Sector 41 Secretary.<sup>716</sup> After AO An had become Sector 41 Secretary, the

245. One witness also confirmed that, “I was Kampong Siem District Secretary in the Central Zone and the fourth member of Sector 41.”<sup>724</sup> In general, the composition of Sector 41 was frequently changed. Therefore, there is no precise information indicating the specific period in which the position was held. As the Sector 41 Secretary, AO An had direct authority over chiefs of messengers of Sector 41 Office. For example, HONG Heng, a former messenger of Sector 41 Office, said that, “Ta An personally gave us assignments. We worked in shifts.”<sup>725</sup>
246. There were 2 (two) work arrangements in Sector 41 dealing respectively with administration and Party matters.<sup>726</sup> Sector 41 Secretary AO An was in charge of administration while Sim was responsible for Party matters.<sup>727</sup> The tasks involved in both cases were not different. However, when the Party made any decision on any matter, the administration had to comply with it.<sup>728</sup> The Sector Secretary in charge of administration had to respect decisions of the Party office.<sup>729</sup>
247. In Sector 41, a meeting was regularly held once a month,<sup>730</sup> like in other sectors.<sup>731</sup> Witness CHIN Sinal stated that, “We had to attend a monthly meeting at the Sector Office.”<sup>732</sup> Many witnesses gave similar testimonies that, as the Sector 41 Secretary, AO An advised people to engage in digging canals and building dams.<sup>733</sup> Many witnesses saw AO An visiting different locations in Sector 41: Anlong Chrey Dam,<sup>734</sup> Chub Rubber Plantation,<sup>735</sup> 1st January Dam,<sup>736</sup> 5th January Dam,<sup>737</sup> Met Sob Security Centre,<sup>738</sup> Wat Batheay Security Centre,<sup>739</sup> Chamkar Leu,<sup>740</sup> Skun,<sup>741</sup> Cheung Prey,<sup>742</sup> Phnom Pros Security Centre,<sup>743</sup> Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre,<sup>744</sup> Kampong Siem district,<sup>745</sup> Wat Ta Meak.<sup>746</sup>
248. One witness living in Kampong Siem district stated that, “I met Ta An only two times. I first met him in Angkuonh Dei village, when he was coming to visit the newly built communal kitchen. Later I saw him in Prey Chhor, when I was travelling to Kang Meas district.”<sup>747</sup> The aim of AO An’s visit to the base was to inspect canal digging, dam building and rice farming, which made AO An aware of issues regarding the rice harvest by the people at the base.<sup>748</sup>

249. The people at the base in the Sector stated almost the same thing that AO An was aware of the circumstances through his direct and regular engagement with them.<sup>749</sup> Moreover, they saw AO An and his wife Kan visiting rice fields on a regular basis so as to learn about the progress of the rice production. AO An sometimes assisted them in harvesting rice as well.<sup>750</sup>
250. One witness who saw [AO An] with his own eyes said that, “I saw him (AO An) drive to the west. Sometimes, he went with his messenger and sometimes with his wife and children. Sometimes I saw rice sheaves in his cargo bay. On one occasion, I was told that Ta An went to help transplant rice seedlings in Trapeang Touk cooperative with his messenger and family.”<sup>751</sup> Witness CHHIM Bunserey stated that, “During the meeting, Ta An told all of us to work hard carrying earth to build the dam. The meeting lasted the entire morning.”<sup>752</sup>
251. In late 1977, AO An provided policies training for the cadres in Sector 41.<sup>753</sup> The policies taught by AO An were related to daily routines, rice farming, rice production, and ways to improve work performance.<sup>754</sup> Moreover, as the Sector 41 Secretary, AO An was always present at Sector 41 – seldom did he go out.<sup>755</sup> This was the Khmer Rouge practice – rarely were they absent from their bases.<sup>756</sup>
252. Witness SUON Kanil testified with regard to this particular point that, “He (AO An) was Zone Deputy Secretary but he had his separate tasks in Sector 41. Only when affairs involved the Zone did he participate.”<sup>757</sup> For example, AO An did many things for Sector 41 where he was in charge of.<sup>758</sup> One former messenger in 1977 testified that, “I never saw [him] during the day, I only saw him (AO An) at night.”<sup>759</sup>
253. Sometimes AO An went to attend the meetings held at the district level.<sup>760</sup> One witness testified that, “I saw Ta An only once at a worksite of Sector (Sautip, Prey Char, Prey Chhor district). I saw Ta An carrying a plastic pouch of strong tobacco beneath his armpit when he was getting out of his Jeep.”<sup>761</sup> When coming to those meetings, AO An always came with around 5 (five) people – bodyguards and his drivers.<sup>762</sup> AO An had several drivers such as<sup>763</sup> Pon,<sup>764</sup> Huy,<sup>765</sup> Lay,<sup>766</sup> Meoun<sup>767</sup> and Hum.<sup>768</sup>

254. Chiefs of communes and villages were still changed even after the Southwest group arrived at the place. One witness indicated that, “The order must have come from Ta An because he was Sector Chairperson... I think the order came from the district and the district received the order from the Sector level. I did not hear it directly from PRAK Yut, but some former commune chiefs disappeared two days after she attended a Sector meeting with Ta An. Four days later, new commune chiefs were appointed to replace the old ones.”<sup>769</sup>
255. The Sector itself had no authority to arrest anyone in their jurisdiction unless there was an order from the Zone. For example, the former secretary of Kampong Siem district said, “I do not remember from which level the letter came, but by practice, the letter would come from the Zone, and would then be forwarded to the Sector level which would then send it to the district level.”<sup>770</sup> AO An reportedly went to meet PRAK Yut in Kampong Siem district<sup>771</sup> and Kampong Siem district former secretary PRAK Yut also went to meet AO An. A witness said that, “She (PRAK Yut) came to attend the meetings in Prey Chhor two or three times per month.”<sup>772</sup>
256. Witness SAMRIT Muy stated that, “In early 1977, they held a meeting at the Peam Stadium. All the villagers had to attend. The Sector Committee [Secretary] An and the District Committee [Secretary] Kan convened the meeting and told us to work hard for Angkar. Then they said that there were enemies among the people. After that meeting the arrests accelerated both night and day.”<sup>773</sup>
257. The person in charge of Sector 41 military was, right in the beginning, Ta Hum. Later, he was arrested; and Try replaced him. However, there was no clear timeline [for when the arrest was made].<sup>774</sup> The arrest of Sector military chief Hum was made because he committed a moral offence with AO An’s sister-in-law. In this regard, witness SO Saren said that, “I am not sure about the person who gave the order. However, if this adversely affected Ta An’s little sister-in-law, it would only have been Ta An who ordered the arrest.”<sup>775</sup>
258. For ordinary people, the commune level ordered arrests.<sup>776</sup> Witness SO Saren vaguely stated that, “In fact, he (AO An) did not kill [them] by himself. There were killings only in the districts and other grassroots. However, I did see one event involving the pregnant wife of someone in the sector military whose husband was arrested. The wife of this person in the military kept coming

- often to ask Ta An about her husband.”*<sup>777</sup> The witness claimed that Ta An ordered the military to take [her] to be killed.”<sup>778</sup>
259. Witness SAT Pheap mentioned that, “He (AO An) also likened them to cars whose old tires had to be removed and cut up to make shoes, meaning that these enemies had to be taken to be killed.”<sup>779</sup> He added, “The number of arrestees increased after Ta An’s arrival. I know this because they were smashing enemies. That was Ta An’s plan.”<sup>780</sup>
260. One witness said that, “An implemented a cool policy in seeking out enemies. Anyone who complained was arrested.*”<sup>781</sup> It was claimed that after the conclusion of the monthly meeting, AO An issued an order to arrest people.<sup>782</sup> This incident was additionally confirmed by the same witness that, “Actually, I received orders from Ta An but I am not sure if Ta An initiated the orders or he received the orders from the upper level or what.”<sup>783</sup> Moreover, the same witness added that, “Ta An did not order me to arrest those people.*”<sup>784</sup>
261. The abovementioned witnesses testified based on their assumptions that AO An was linked to the issuance of orders.<sup>785</sup> For example, witness SO Saren gave his testimony that, “Back that time, he (AO An) left Chamkar Leu and I heard that he (AO An) received the order to go to Kampong Siem, but I do not know where the order he received came from.”<sup>786</sup> However, for initiatives to issue orders to kill people, AO An had no authority to do so. One witness stated that, “Ta An received orders form the Zone.*”<sup>787</sup>
262. In a meeting, Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk gave an order to AO An, “An, observe and arrest all the enemies quickly in the Sector, according to plan, as the upper echelon forced [me to].*”<sup>788</sup> For example, AO An as the Sector 41 Secretary had attended the meeting with other cadres on arrests of enemies under instructions and orders from Zone Secretary KE Pauk.<sup>789</sup> In addition, one witness testified that it was the orders from the Zone Secretary, “The Batheay District Secretary was Phim, whose wife is currently living... He told me that... thousands of people had been arrested and killed in Kampong Siem district and that the orders had been given from the upper level to the zone level, then to sector and district level.”<sup>790</sup>

4.7. Sector 42

263. Sector 42 was situated in the Central Zone.<sup>791</sup> It administratively covered five districts:<sup>792</sup> Steung Trang district,<sup>793</sup> Chamkar Leu district,<sup>794</sup> Baray district,<sup>795</sup> Praek Prosob district,<sup>796</sup> and Taing Kork district.<sup>797</sup> The Sector 42 Office was opposite the current district hall of Chamkar Leu.<sup>798</sup> Ram was in charge of the Sector 42 Office.<sup>799</sup>
265. Since Oeun was Seoun's<sup>807</sup> younger brother, KE Pauk's wife, this relation made this Sector nearly receive no inspection from the upper echelon.<sup>808</sup> With regard to this issue, one witness stated clearly that, "I never saw upper echelon come down to inspect Sector 42 other than the sector secretary himself."<sup>809</sup>
266. In 1977, Sector 42 Secretary Oeun read the salvation document, "Don't be afraid. The Party has stopped smashing, stopped purging or killing."<sup>810</sup> A former messenger of the Kampong Siem district secretary said, "I heard from victims' relatives that they had been sent from various rubber plantations in Sector 42 as ordered by Ta KE Pauk."<sup>811</sup> Therefore, before this document existed in the framework of Sector 42, it was likely that the purges might have been carried out in a specific form, which made Sector 42 Secretary Oeun say so.
267. Chamkar Leu district former secretary SOU Soeun alias Soeun,<sup>812</sup> Sector 42 Secretary's sister, was highly active in leading local work in Chamkar Leu district. The Chamkar Leu district former deputy secretary claimed that, "I attended meetings with SOU Soeun. Mostly the contents of the meetings concerned work at the worksites, not purges or arrests."<sup>813</sup>
268. Besides being Chamkar Leu district secretary, SOU Soeun alias Soeun was also a member of Sector 42. Moreover, SOU Soeun alias Soeun who was also Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk's spouse was swiftly promoted to higher positions, one after the other, after 17 April 1975. First, she was a member of

Prek Prosob District Committee in charge of receiving the evacuees from Phnom Penh.<sup>814</sup> Having worked in Prek Prosob district for about half a year, SOU Soeun was transferred to Chamkar Leu District Committee.<sup>815</sup> As the Chamkar Leu district secretary, she always held meetings at her home with the commune chiefs to give orders and instructions for the communes to implement.<sup>816</sup>

4.8. Sector 43

269. Sector 43 covered 4 (four) districts:<sup>817</sup> Staung district,<sup>818</sup> Kampong Svay district,<sup>819</sup> Sandan district<sup>820</sup> and Sontuk district.<sup>821</sup> The Sector 43 Office was located in the centre of Kampong Thom.<sup>822</sup> The administrative structure of Sector 43 consisted of sector secretary, sector deputy secretary, and members of the Sector Committee as other sectors across the country.<sup>823</sup>
270. KOAM Chan alias Chorn was, in the beginning, Sector 43 Secretary.<sup>824</sup> After 1977, Sim<sup>825</sup> became Sector 43 Secretary, replacing the former Secretary Chorn who was arrested.<sup>826</sup> Later, Sim was also arrested, and Phaen ascended to the position.<sup>827</sup> But it was likely that another person named Ta Ngin might have held the position of Sector 43 Secretary as well.<sup>828</sup>
271. There were many worksites in Sector 43. But the most noticeable and biggest one was the 1st January Dam, which belonged to the Zone of which Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk took direct charge.<sup>829</sup>

5. Autonomous Sectors

272. The autonomous sectors were authorised to communicate directly with the Central Committee of the CPK as, in terms of their status, they were as equal as the zones.<sup>830</sup> For example, Sector 105 which was an autonomous sector was authorised to report directly to the Central Committee of the CPK.<sup>831</sup>
273. An autonomous sector secretary had the power to decide on arrests of people.<sup>832</sup> For instance, Sector 105 had the power to arrest people. One witness asserted that, “As a sector secretary (Sector 105), Ta Sarun had the power to decide on such arrests.”<sup>833</sup>

6. Sectors

274. The administrative structure at the sector level, generally, included “Sector Committee” or “Sector Com”. The Sector Committee consisted of sector secretary, sector deputy secretary and members of the Sector Committee.<sup>834</sup> The majority of the district secretaries in the sector were additionally members of the Sector Committee in numerical order 1st member, 2nd member, and next, depending on the practical situation of each sector. However, becoming a member of the Sector Committee did not happen generally and automatically.<sup>835</sup>

275. Witness PECH Chim, Tram Kam district (District 105) former secretary, mentioned that, “The district secretaries did not serve as the members of the Sector Committee except in a special case when the Sector assembly announced their assignment to a specific person to do it. For example, Koh Andet District Secretary Sieng was assigned and announced by the assembly to serve as a member of Sector 13.”<sup>836</sup> The sector secretaries were tasked with overall affairs in the entire sector including army.<sup>837</sup>
276. The CPK Statute provides that the organisation which has the highest authority in each sector is the “Sector Representational Conference”. During the time from one conference to another, the highest operational organization for that Sector is “Sector Committee”.<sup>838</sup> At the sector level, a meeting was held once a month,<sup>839</sup> sometimes twice a month in case of heavy workload.<sup>840</sup>

III. AO An’s Personal History, Role, and Participation

A. AO An’s Personal History

277. Ta An<sup>841</sup> or AOM An<sup>842</sup> or AOM An<sup>843</sup> or AO Yeourn<sup>844</sup> or AOM Yeourng<sup>845</sup> or AO An<sup>846</sup> was named AOM Yoeurng at birth.<sup>847</sup> The name AO An was officially called, following his initial appearance ordered by the International Co-Investigating Judge on 27 March 2015.<sup>848</sup> AO An categorically denied using the name “THO An” and any other names other than AOM An which was previously called AOM Yeourng.<sup>849</sup>
278. Whatever names were used, Ta An or AO An was identified as the only one person. Therefore, calling any name has no problem in identifying the Charged Person. However, for ease [of reference] and to avoid different interpretations, a consistent name should be used – the name “AO An” has been recognized previously and referred to in general, except when An or Ta An was quoted from witnesses’ statements.

279. AO An was born in 1933.<sup>850</sup> However, the birth certificate indicates that AO An was born in 1936.<sup>851</sup> As of now, the Charged Person AO An is 85<sup>852</sup> years old (by 2018). AO An was born in Taing Svay village, Peam commune, Sameakki Mean Chey district (former Kampong Tralach Leu district),<sup>853</sup> Kampong Chhnang province.<sup>854</sup>
280. AO An's father was HING Ao<sup>855</sup> who passed away when An was about 12 (twelve) years old.<sup>856</sup> AO An's mother was EK Nun<sup>857</sup> who passed away in 1979.<sup>858</sup> After his father's decease, An was brought up by his grandfather – his mother's father who later got An ordained as a Buddhist monk.<sup>859</sup>
281. In 1954, when he was 12 (twelve) years old, AO An was a novice for six months<sup>860</sup> at Taing Khmao pagoda<sup>861</sup> in Peam commune, Kampong Tralach district, Kampong Chhnang province.<sup>862</sup> In 1960, AO An left the monkhood due to illness.<sup>863</sup> From 1960 to 1963, AO An had been sick for 3 (three) years.<sup>864</sup> That was when AO An changed his name from AOM Yeourng to AOM An.<sup>865</sup> From 1963 to 1969, AO An was a farmer and lived with his mother.<sup>866</sup> AO An has 4 (four) siblings.<sup>867</sup> Until now, two of them passed away, and only two are still alive.
282. With regard to his married life, AO An has two wives.<sup>868</sup> In 1976, AO An married Ban Kou<sup>869</sup> alias Kan<sup>870</sup> in Kampot province.<sup>871</sup> In 1979, Kan passed away,<sup>872</sup> leaving behind one daughter.<sup>873</sup> In 1990, AO An married his second wife, Prum Ran, a widow with one child. His second wife passed away in 2014 at the age of 62 (sixty-two).<sup>874</sup> AO An has 2 (two) children.<sup>875</sup>
283. In 1970, AO An joined the resistance movement that liberated Samdech Ov<sup>876</sup> under the command of Ta 15<sup>877</sup> (Or Ta Mok)<sup>878</sup> and held various positions in districts and sectors of the Southwest Zone and Central Zone, after Angkar transferred him from the Southwest Zone to Central Zone in mid-1977.<sup>879</sup> His roles and positions were described supra (paragraphs 190, 191, and 242).
284. After the fall of the DK regime, AO An fled to the Cambodian-Thai border. Later, AO An fled to Anlung Veng district, Oddar Meanchey province.<sup>880</sup> In 1999, after the integration of Khmer Rouge into the Royal Government of Cambodia, AO An moved to the other location in western part of Cambodia.<sup>881</sup> AO An is now living in Ou Korki village, Odar commune,

B. AO An's Participation

285. Before describing AO An's participation, we would like to show the facts concerning the crimes the ICP alleged in the Introductory and Supplementary Submissions including: (1) purges in the Central Zone, (2) Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre, (3) Wat Batheay Security Centre, (4) Met Sop (Kor) Security Centre, (5) Wat Phnom Pros Security Centre, (6) Kok Pring Security Centre, (7) Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre, (8) Anglong Chrey Dam Forced Labour Site, (9) Genocide in Kampong Cham Province, (10) Wat Srange Security Centre, (11) Tuol Ta Phlong Prison and Execution Site, (12) Wat Kandal Security Centre, (13) Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre, (14) Forced Marriage in Kampong Siem and Prey Chhor districts, (15) Wat Ta Meak Security Centre, (16) Genocide of Cham people and Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre and (17) security centres and killing sites at Tuol Beng and Wat Angkuonh Dei. The National CIJ notes that there are 17 (seventeen) crime sites charged in the ICP's Introductory and Supplementary Submissions.<sup>885</sup>
286. The International Co-Investigating Judge (ICIJ) charged AO An in relation to 10 (ten) crime sites. Later on, the ICIJ, during the investigation, excluded 8 (eight) facts according to the Decision to reduce the scope [of judicial investigation]: Wat Kandal Security Centre, Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre, Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre, Wat Srange Security Centre, the arrests and executions of Cham in the Eastern Zone, torture at Tuol Beng/Wat Angkuonh Dei and imprisonment and persecution at Wat Phnom Pros, and Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre.<sup>886</sup> However, in the Introductory Submission, the ICP used the name "Tuol Ta Phlong Prison and Execution Site," which appears that the location had both the security centre and execution site.
287. As previously described, the National Co-Investigating Judge (NCIJ) does not agree with the charges. However, the NCIJ will consider the facts relevant to the charged 10 (ten) crime sites in detail in compliance with the required principles of evidence to consider whether or not AO An falls within the personal jurisdiction of the ECCC.

288. Charging the Charged Person is to let him know and prepare his defence against the facts of these crime sites and to ensure the right to be informed and the right to a defence pursuant to the law in the fair substantive trial. The NCIJ will also consider the information relevant to other facts which are not under the charges or collected from the investigation.

1. Crime Sites

1.1. Wat Phnom Pros Execution Site

289. Wat Phnom Pros Execution Site was located in Krala commune, Kampong Siem district, Kampong Cham province, Sector 41 of the Central Zone.<sup>887</sup> It was under the control of the Zone.<sup>888</sup> Choeun was responsible for the security at Phnom Pros.<sup>889</sup> The Phnom Pros Execution Site was located near Kampong Siem District Office.<sup>890</sup>
290. In general, prisoners who were taken to be executed at Phnom Pros were executed immediately without temporary imprisonment.<sup>891</sup> However, if they ran out of time, they took the prisoners to be detained at the Kampong Cham Provincial Prison, which was the Central Zone Office (now 7 Makara Hotel).<sup>892</sup> Furthermore, witness MORN Muth mentioned that, “In 1977 or 1978, many families in the village were told to pack their belongings and move to new houses, but as far as I know those people were transported by trucks to Phnom Pros.”<sup>893</sup>
291. Regarding the trucks for transporting people to Wat Phnom Pros at that time, a witness said that Zone lorries were used to transport detainees at Wat Ta Meak Security Centre for execution at Phnom Pros.<sup>894</sup> Moreover, witness NHEM Chen, AO An's former bodyguard, said that, “‘The Central Zone Truck’ was written on the plates.”<sup>895</sup> Meanwhile, another witness also made an observation on the trucks, saying that, “In regards to a Zone lorry, its bumper and cargo space had written across it ‘North Zone 304.’”<sup>896</sup>
292. Witness KE Pich Vannak testified that, “My father called Ta Vey Reap the new chairman of the division of the Central Zone in [and] he replied that brother An gave an order to transport those people to the new village. My father asked further where the new village was. Ta Reap replied that in the Phnom Pros Phnom Srey area. Then my father asked why he was not informed. Ta Reap replied that brother An gave an order to transport those people to be smashed there.<sup>897</sup>

293. But previously, witness VORNG Sokun said that, “I have no idea but as far as I know Ta Pauk was the secretary of the zone, so, I can suppose that he could be responsible for the arrests and execution of those people. Every time people were sent to Phnom Pros for execution, I always saw a stocky man coming along. I did not know his name, but later Choeun told me that he was Ta Pauk.”<sup>898</sup> Another witness, SA Nau, also gave testimony relevant to KE Pauk, saying that, “I saw a heavy-set large-build Khmer Rouge leader come to look at my work site. They told me that he was KE Pauk.”<sup>899</sup> Witness ORN Kim Eng, a former soldier stationed at Phnom Pros since early 1977 said that, “Yes, he was. KE Pauk was in charge of the Zone Security Office and killing site at Phnom Pros.”<sup>900</sup>
294. Wat Phnom Pros Execution Site was located near the Kampong Siem District Office, but the security centre was not under the authority of the sector because Phnom Pros was under the direct control of the Zone Committee of which KE Pauk was Zone Secretary.
295. In this regard, a witness testified that, “I heard that he (AO An) was Sector 41 Secretary. I did not see him at Phnom Pros.”<sup>901</sup> A former member of the guard unit of AO An said that, “I did not go to (Phnom Pros) because Ta An only controlled Kang Meas, Cheung Prey, Batheay and Chamkar Leu.”<sup>902</sup> Similarly, witness IM Pon said that he never drove Ta An to Phnom Pros.<sup>903</sup>
296. Phnom Pros Execution Site was regarded as a brutal execution site.<sup>904</sup> Obviously, the Phnom Pros area was controlled by the Khmer Rouge troops before 1975. Witness MORN Muth, former soldier, said that, “Perhaps in 1973, the place (Phnom Pros) was controlled by the Khmer Rouge troops. I think that it was under the direct control of the zone.”<sup>905</sup>
297. Around 10,000 (ten thousand) people died at Phnom Pros according to government documents, after the liberation, regarding the excavation and collection of the bones of victims around the Phnom Pros Execution Site in 1982.<sup>906</sup> However, there were also other figures which were based on witnesses’ estimation or documents from local authorities.<sup>907</sup>

1.2. Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre

298. Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre was located in Sambuor Meas village, Peam Chi Kang commune, Kang Meas district, Kampong Cham province, in Sector 41 of the Central Zone.<sup>908</sup> It was a district-level security centre.<sup>909</sup> It was created and became operational in 1976 before the Southwest cadres were transferred to the Central Zone.<sup>910</sup> At that time, it was fenced and enclosed with barbed wire.<sup>911</sup>
299. In the beginning, the Chief of Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre was Khun. Having been working for around 3 (three) months, Khun was arrested and taken to be killed.<sup>912</sup> Later on, Han<sup>913</sup> became Chief of this Security Centre and Botr was his deputy. Then, Botr was arrested under orders from Angkar and taken to be killed in late 1976 or in early 1977 due to a moral offence. Kuong replaced Botr.<sup>914</sup> Han was Chief of the Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre until the fall of DK.<sup>915</sup>
300. Big buildings around the Wat Au Trakuon compound including the temple were used as the security centre.<sup>916</sup> Prisoners at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre were detained in the temple after arrests. Male and female prisoners were partitioned off by a wooden wall in front of the Buddha statue.<sup>917</sup> Male prisoners' legs were shackled with a long bar in line.<sup>918</sup>
301. Arrests of people who were transported to the security centre were carried out by 2 (two) groups: Sub-district Militia and Long Swords, who had the authority to arrest people in the whole Kang Meas district.<sup>919</sup> The Sub-district Militia consisted of around 7 (seven) members. Samreth Muy was Chief from 1973 to 1979.<sup>920</sup> The Long Swords consisted of around 6 (six) members. Chay was Chief and Tay Kim Horn was his deputy while Kuong Moeun and Hun were members.<sup>921</sup> The Long Swords was created in 1977 with the aim of arresting people.<sup>922</sup> Han was Chief of the Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre and took direct charge of the Long Swords.<sup>923</sup>
302. Most of the prisoners at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre were people living in Kang Meas district.<sup>924</sup> In general, the [Wat] Au Trakuon Security Centre Chief had the authority to give the order to take people to the security centre.<sup>925</sup> The people who were arrested were transported almost every day to the security centre by horse carts or ox carts.<sup>926</sup> There were two ways of

- making arrests: (1). the Security Centre Chief and the Long Swords directly went to arrest people at the base, and (2). they tricked the people under suspicion into going to Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre by providing them with different pretexts.<sup>927</sup>
303. Prisoners were classified into 2 (two) categories: light and serious offenders.<sup>928</sup> They included new people, base people, and Cham people.<sup>929</sup> Light offenders were detained for a short time of about 1 (one) or 2 (two) months and would then be released,<sup>930</sup> while serious offenders were not released. They had to be killed.<sup>931</sup> During the interrogation, prisoners were excruciatingly tortured to solicit confessions.<sup>932</sup> For example, one witness who was Han's former bodyguard testified that, "The serious offenders were interrogated and then taken to be killed."<sup>933</sup> The prisoners were taken to be killed on a plot of land of around 3 (three) hectares east of the Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre fence.<sup>934</sup>
304. There were around 10 (ten) prisoners sent for execution each time.<sup>935</sup> Their hands were tied behind their backs, blindfolded, and then sent for execution, sometimes, in front of Wat Au Trakuon around 200 (two hundred) metres away where pits were already dug.<sup>936</sup> This witness said that, "A whole family who was my neighbour was taken to Wat Au Trakuon and killed there because they ate bananas and potato grown by themselves."<sup>937</sup>
305. Prisoners were killed with steel ox-cart axles.<sup>938</sup> Mostly, they were taken to be killed at night starting from 7 (seven) p.m. to midnight.<sup>939</sup> When there was a killing, loud music was played over loudspeakers.<sup>940</sup> The acts of genocide occurred dramatically in 1977 – most victims were new people. From September to October 1977, many Cham people were also killed.<sup>941</sup>
306. Regarding the execution of Cham people, witness SENG Srun mentioned that, "They rounded up 300 Cham, children and adults, and put them along the road in front of the pagoda entrance. At that time, they assigned two persons at the north end of the line and the other two to guard at the south end. They arrested the Cham people in 3 villages (Sambuor Meas Ka, Sambuor Meas Kha and Sach Sau). To conduct the arrest, the Long Swords were divided up into 3 teams, each consisted of four persons. After the arrest was completed, the Long Swords just disappeared, leaving my team of four persons to march the Cham to the security office in Au Trakuon pagoda. While walking them [to the pagoda], I wanted those Chams to escape, but they seemed unaware of the death [waiting for them]; so they didn't escape. This arrest of the Cham people took place following the order from the district secretary, who was Kan; and he was the one who gave the order."<sup>942</sup>

307. A former bodyguard of this security centre chief mentioned that, "I just knew that they had a plan to kill all Cham people."<sup>943</sup> At that time, the base level made a list of people who were going to be identified whether they were Khmer or Cham.<sup>944</sup> A witness who was a former village chief in mid-1978 said that, "I am sure that the commune chief did not assign [me] to make the list of Cham people. When I became the village chief, those Cham people had already been taken away earlier."<sup>945</sup> Another witness, MAO Saroeun, mentioned that, "During the Khmer Rouge regime, most of Cham people were taken to be killed at Wat Au Trakuon in Peam Chi Kang commune, Kang Meas district. Throughout Kang Meas district, almost all of Cham people were killed. Only one of them is alive – he is Ta Man."<sup>946</sup>
308. A witness mentioned that, "I met him (Ta An) two times. Once, I met him at Wat Au Trakuon when he came to a meeting. But to my understanding, that meeting was just to deceive people like asking people if they had enough to eat."<sup>947</sup> This witness added that, "The meeting lasted for about three hours. The speaker in the meeting was An. It was only Ta An who spoke at the meeting while others were just listening to him."<sup>948</sup>
309. Witness SENG Srun said that, "I saw An in a meeting in Wat Au Trakuon. During the meeting, An told the people that if any unit chairmen or village chairmen did not let the people have enough to eat, or did not let the people dig potatoes, he asked that the people report that to him. At that time three people in the village, Din, Heng and Ieng, reported to An that the village chairmen had not let them dig potatoes. After they reported to An, Din, Heng and Ieng were arrested and transported by horse cart to be killed in (Au Trakuon) pagoda."<sup>949</sup>
310. In 1977, the scale of the killing at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre increased. Cham people were also among them.<sup>950</sup> A witness mentioned that, "It was the chief of the security centre who held superior responsibility for ordering the human killings."<sup>951</sup> Another witness said that, "I knew that around 10,000 (ten thousand) people had been killed because after [the fall of] the Khmer Rouge regime in 1979, I went there and I saw many pits.<sup>952</sup>

311. After the fall of the DK regime, numerous skulls seen at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre were possibly as many as the ones at S-21 Security Centre.<sup>953</sup> After the liberation, according to officials of the State of Cambodia, the number of the victims who were killed at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre was around 30,000 (thirty thousand) people. Despite such a confirmed figure, it was just an estimate made by certain officials. No specific number or scientific research was officially recognized.<sup>954</sup>

1.3. Wat Batheay Security Centre

312. Wat Batheay Security Centre was located in Batheay village, Batheay commune, Batheay district, Kampong Cham province, in Sector 41 of the Central Zone.<sup>955</sup> It was a district-level facility<sup>956</sup> and was established in late 1976 and early 1977. It functioned until the fall of the DK regime.<sup>957</sup>
313. This security centre occupied approximately 2 (two) hectares.<sup>958</sup> Almost the whole area to the east of the pagoda was used to bury corpses.<sup>959</sup> There was no strong fence at this security centre, but there were guards to ensure the security there.<sup>960</sup> There were 4 (four) detention halls, 2 (two) of which located to the left were used for detaining female prisoners and the other two for detaining male prisoners.<sup>961</sup> One witness mentioned that, “In fact, Wat Batheay was not used as a security centre, but the security centre was located next to Wat Batheay.”<sup>962</sup>
314. The first chief of this security centre was Has.<sup>963</sup> Then, Sin came to replace Has for about 3 (three) months before he was arrested and taken to be killed by the upper echelon.<sup>964</sup> After then, Pov replaced him.<sup>965</sup> Lastly, KHUN Khim alias Khim came to replace Pov as chief until the fall of the regime.<sup>966</sup>
315. Who took people to be killed was Group Chief Rin, and Lim, Ty and Roeun were members.<sup>967</sup> The execution site of this security centre was located east of the pagoda gate around 30 (thirty) metres away.<sup>968</sup> Most killings took place during the daytime.<sup>969</sup> Those who were transferred from the East Zone were often detained overnight; and after their statistics were compiled, they were taken to be killed right away because if they were detained longer, the [security] centre would be over-crowded.<sup>970</sup>

316. Prisoners in this security centre were adult, senior and children.<sup>971</sup> Some local cadres such as commune chief, village chief and unit chief were also arrested and taken to be killed at Wat Batheay Security Centre.<sup>972</sup> Furthermore, Cham prisoners were also detained there.<sup>973</sup> Prisoners were taken from other areas throughout the whole Batheay District.<sup>974</sup> During imprisonment, the prisoners who were the new people were brutally tortured by tying their hands and hanging them. They were, in addition, shackled at night.<sup>975</sup>
317. In 1976, the number of killings at Wat Batheay Security Centre rose, targeting on those arrested from Prek Anchanh, Vihea Sour, Roka Koang, Prek Por, Svay Rompear, Anlong Leng, Prek Koy.<sup>976</sup> Two years later in 1978, Kim who was the security centre chief transported Cham people including children and adults along with other people from the East Zone to be killed at this security centre.<sup>977</sup> Witness THOU Leang asserted that, “I remember that the east people were brought in one evening in American made 4x4 trucks. One of the trucks pulled a carriage behind while the other one did not pull a carriage behind it. It was in the evening time. One of the trucks was driven by a person named Hat and other one by a person named Mam. The transportation took place for a period of over one month to carry people to kill in Batheay.”<sup>978</sup>
318. Prisoners were tortured during interrogation and sometimes were taken to be killed right after interrogation.<sup>979</sup> Some were kept for a while before being killed.<sup>980</sup> Most of them who were sent to Wat Batheay Security Centre were killed, and rarely did they survive.<sup>981</sup> They were beaten with their hands tied behind the backs before being walked to the pit to be killed. Certain witnesses noticed that some corpses showed signs of beating on their heads while others had their throats cut.<sup>982</sup>
319. A witness said that, “I saw new people being shackled by their ankles and they were made to crawl to raise the yam bed and to clear bushes while they were not given any food to eat; they received only water. There were groups of four people who were chained together. If one of them was very old and unable to work anymore, the Khmer Rouge told the other three to dig a pit and made that person sit on the edge of the pit. Then they hit him/her with the back of a hoe and pushed him/her into the pit to be buried there. They brought a new person in to replace him/her. If one person was removed from the chain, they brought in another person as a replacement. They did this all the time.”<sup>983</sup>

320. Furthermore, this witness added that, “Women’s bodies were cut open and their gallbladders were removed. Most nice-looking women were mistreated and their gallbladders were removed and hung, but I did not know where they would be taken to. Men were not mistreated so much; they were taken away and killed in different ways. There were many ways to kill, including striking them with ox-cart axles, bamboo clubs, hoes and many other ways such as starving and torturing them. At that place, when they were used they were not given any food. When they were absolutely exhausted and unable to work anymore, they were made to dig pits.”<sup>984</sup>
321. High level cadres were not seen visiting Wat Batheay Security Centre – just the district secretary who was always seen coming in and out of there.<sup>985</sup> Witness THOU Leang stated that, “I did not see anyone come. There was only Phim who was the district chief. Five or six Khmer Rouge soldiers came from Kampong Cham Province at the end of the year or in January. They came by Honda motorcycles to sweep clean prisoners in Batheay prison.”<sup>986</sup> Cham people were also killed at Wat Batheay Security Centre. The witness stated that, “10 (ten) out of 100 (one hundred) were Cham people.”<sup>987</sup> According to the witness’s observations, they could be identified as Cham people because when they were walked out of the trucks, they spoke Cham language.<sup>988</sup>
322. A witness said that, “It is hard to say that how many prisoners were in the security centre (Wat Batheay) because those brought in were killed immediately or the next day.”<sup>989</sup> If they were not taken to be killed right away, they would be put in a hall because the guards did not have enough time to kill them immediately.<sup>990</sup> It is estimated there were thousands or around 10,000 (ten thousand) victims killed at Wat Batheay Security Centre.<sup>991</sup>

1.4. Met Sop (Kor) Security Centre

323. Met Sop Security Centre<sup>992</sup> or Kor Security Centre<sup>993</sup> was located in Takeo village, Kor commune, Prey Chhor district, Kampong Cham province.<sup>994</sup> It was established in 1975.<sup>995</sup> It was a sector-level security centre.<sup>996</sup>
324. The perimeter of this security centre was surrounded by wooden and barbed wire fence.<sup>997</sup> Within its perimeter, there were many pits of corpses, but they are now a large area of paddy fields and palm plantation. At least 3 (three) ponds which were dug in that regime remain.<sup>998</sup>

325. Sop<sup>999</sup> was the first chief of Met Sop Security Centre. He was a former teacher at Trapeang Ampil School.<sup>1000</sup> He was born in Somrorng commune, Prey Chhor district, Kampong Cham province.<sup>1001</sup> Heng<sup>1002</sup> was deputy chief of the security centre.<sup>1003</sup> In 1977, Met Sop Security Centre Chief Sop was purged and Ngauv replaced him.<sup>1004</sup> Witness SAT Pheap mentioned that, “He (Comrade Sop) was arrested by the sector cadres.”<sup>1005</sup> At this security centre, there were around 10 (ten) to 20 (twenty) armed security guards and approximately two interrogators.<sup>1006</sup>
326. At Met Sop Security Centre, there were 3 (three) prison buildings and 2 (two) work buildings, a dining hall, a cattle shed and a rice barn.<sup>1007</sup> Male and female prisoners were detained separately and the majority were chiefs of communes and districts, soldiers and especially those who had a tendency to the LON Nol regime.<sup>1008</sup>
327. Prisoners at Met Sop Security Centre were always tortured<sup>1009</sup> during interrogations.<sup>1010</sup> After interrogations, some prisoners were released to work outside, growing vegetables, rearing pigs and farming.<sup>1011</sup> Pheng was responsible for rice fields.<sup>1012</sup> Prisoners were made to sleep on planks of wood, higher from the ground, and handcuffed and shackled in groups.<sup>1013</sup> Most of them were regularly given gruel in the morning and evening; however, they were sometimes given cooked rice as well.<sup>1014</sup>
328. In 1977, AO An went to Met Sop Security Centre for many times. Witness NHEM Chen, AO An’s former bodyguard, said that, “Once a month or once every two months, when there were orders from above, he (AO An) went.”<sup>1015</sup> However, AO An told his bodyguard the truth that what he did was the order from the upper echelon requiring him to obey. If not, he would die. The same witness clearly said that, “Yes, I was close to him, and I asked him whether or not he pitied the others. He told me, ‘If I do not obey orders, they will kill me too.’”<sup>1016</sup>
329. Witness SAT Pheap mentioned that, “Ta Ngauv reported to Ta An. I know this because Ta An was the Sector Secretary. I saw Ta Ngauv drive his car to Ta An’s office once every five days or once every week.”<sup>1017</sup> Another witness indicated the relationship between the upper echelon and lower level that had to carry out the orders.<sup>1018</sup>

330. Most prisoners at Met Sop Security Centre were killed with wooden or steel clubs.<sup>1019</sup> A witness who was AO An's former bodyguard said that, "He (AO An) ordered that whatever necessary had to be done in accordance with 1977 plans; they all had to be killed because from 1978 onward there would not be any killing. By 1978, the situation would improve, the killing would cease and there would be thick gruel for us to eat."<sup>1020</sup> For example, in 1978 the Central Committee of the CPK issued a directive stating that all those who participated in the activities of CIA, KGB or Vietnamese agents before July 1978 would be pardoned.<sup>1021</sup>
331. Corpses of victims were buried in different locations close to the security centre such as at Au Ta Kung, Tuol Krasang, Thnaot Chou and Tuol Ampil.<sup>1022</sup> Around 2,000 (two thousand) people were estimated to be killed or died of illness at Met Sop Security Centre.<sup>1023</sup> After the fall of DK, the remains of victims at Met Sop Security Centre were collected and taken to cremate at Tuol Krasang.<sup>1024</sup>

1.5. Kok Pring Execution Site

332. Kok Pring Security Centre was located on the edge of a big lake (Boeng Thom) near Kdei Boeng village, Vihear Thom commune, Kampong Siem district, Kampong Cham province.<sup>1025</sup> They started to kill people in Kok Pring since 1970.<sup>1026</sup> In 1977 after the arrival of the Southwest group, the purge policy continued to be implemented against the population.<sup>1027</sup> Their working condition became worse and worse compared to that before the arrival of the Southwest group at the Central Zone.<sup>1028</sup>
333. One witness said that, "The period when I saw people walking toward the lake was 1977. It was night time when people were walked away... The disappearances started intensively at the end of 1976 or early 1977."<sup>1029</sup> Every night, 20 (twenty) to 50 (fifty) people were taken away and killed at Boeng Thom – the majority were the 17 April people.<sup>1030</sup> The executioners at Kok Pring Security Centre included Kan, Ken, and Meas.<sup>1031</sup>
334. At Kok Pring Security Centre, before the execution, people were tortured and beaten with clubs and sometimes female victims were raped before having their throats slit.<sup>1032</sup> Normally, they were taken away and killed every other night and sometimes every night consecutively.<sup>1033</sup> The number of people killed at the security centre rose substantially in early 1977.<sup>1034</sup> Witness KAK Sreoun stated that, “Killings began in 1970 at the time of the coup... Large-scale killings were from early 1977.”<sup>1035</sup>

335. At Kok Pring Security Centre, there were at least 20 (twenty) pits with bodies along the banks of Boeng Thom and many other pits right in its vicinity.<sup>1036</sup> After 1979, over 70 (seventy) pits were found.<sup>1037</sup> Witness KAK Sreoun claimed that, “I remember 50 grave pits in Kouk Pring and 20 others along the banks of the Boeng Thom Lake. The total was about 70 grave pits.”<sup>1038</sup> Each pit was 1.5 x 3 x 1 metres.<sup>1039</sup>
336. According to a number of witnesses, there were over 1,000 (one thousand) victims who were executed at Kok Pring Security Centre.<sup>1040</sup> However, the Documentation Centre of Cambodia reported that from 5,000 (five thousand) to 7,000 (seven thousand) people were executed at Kok Pring Security Centre.<sup>1041</sup> Some other witnesses estimated that up to 25,000 (twenty-five thousand) people died there.<sup>1042</sup>

1.6. Anlong Chrey Dam Forced Labour Site

337. Anlong Chrey Dam was located in Prey Chhor district, Kampong Cham province.<sup>1043</sup> Anlong Chrey was the name of a bridge near the area where the dam was built. It was built in late 1977 and the construction was completed in May 1978.<sup>1044</sup> It was a sector-level worksite.<sup>1045</sup>
338. Witnesses have so far stated that they saw AO An come to inspect Anlong Chrey Dam.<sup>1046</sup> Witness PHAN Sophal, former worker at the dam mentioned that, “I saw Ta An around 1979 when he came to check the worksite. Ta An accused us of spying on them for the CIA agents and the Vietnamese.”<sup>1047</sup> AO An came to inspect the worksite probably before the DK regime was about to collapse.<sup>1048</sup> Anlong Chrey Dam was frequently visited by Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk. Witness CHIN Sinal stated, “I knew KE Pauk because he came to inspect the dam construction (Anlong Chrey Dam) many times.”<sup>1049</sup>
339. Ta Chhin was in charge of Anlong Chrey Dam.<sup>1050</sup> The people who were mobilized to build the dam were from five districts: Prey Chor district, Cheung Prey district, Kong Meas district, Chamkar Leu district and Kampong Siem district.<sup>1051</sup> It was estimated that around 1,000<sup>1052</sup> (one thousand) and 1,500<sup>1053</sup>

(one thousand and five hundred) people were gathered by Angkar to work at Anlong Chrey Dam.<sup>1054</sup>

1.7. Wat Ta Meak Security Centre

340. Wat Ta Meak Security Centre was located in Prey Totueng village, Chrey Vien commune (previously known as Khlaeng Poar commune),<sup>1055</sup> Prey Chor district, Kampong Cham province, Sector 41 of the Central Zone, near Sector 41 Office and other offices under Sector 41.<sup>1056</sup> Wat Ta Meak Security Centre covered three hectares of land.<sup>1057</sup> It was a sector-level security centre.<sup>1058</sup>
341. Initially, this security centre was a small, temporary detention site<sup>1059</sup> which detained prisoners a maximum of one week<sup>1060</sup> before being sent for execution at other places.<sup>1061</sup> Wat Ta Meak became an official security centre from April 1978 to the collapse of the DK regime.<sup>1062</sup> The temple of Wat Ta Meak was used as a meeting hall.<sup>1063</sup>
342. Aun was the deputy chief of Sector 41<sup>1064</sup> and also military chief of Sector 41,<sup>1065</sup> who had authority over the guards<sup>1066</sup> and managed work in Wat Ta Meak Security Centre.<sup>1067</sup> According to testimonies, Aun replaced Am as chief of Sector Office.<sup>1068</sup> The persons who went to arrest prisoners were Am and Aun – they executed the arrest order and brought them for detention in the security centre.<sup>1069</sup> In addition, Sok and his messenger also arrested prisoners by themselves.<sup>1070</sup> After prisoners were arrested, they were packed in bags and transported by ox-carts or trucks to the security centre.<sup>1071</sup> This security centre was heavily guarded by around 50 (fifty) to 60 (sixty) sector militiamen.<sup>1072</sup>
343. Prisoners in the security centre included new people, base people, males, females and children who were arrested from various cooperatives and villages. Most of them were people from Prey Chhor district, Kong Meas district and Cheung Prey district.<sup>1073</sup> Moreover, Wat Ta Meak Security Centre was used to house evacuees and prisoners, the majority of whom were evacuees from Phnom Penh in 1975.<sup>1074</sup>
344. Prisoners received watery gruel and did not have sufficient food to eat although they were given two meals per day.<sup>1075</sup> However, sometimes prisoners were also allowed to cook and could get little items for their daily use from their relatives.<sup>1076</sup>

345. Elderly prisoners were chained, handcuffed, shackled or their hands were tied behind their backs.<sup>1077</sup> While being interrogated, prisoners were excruciatingly tortured and beaten with whip or chain unconscious from time to time. Sometimes, they did not stop interrogating prisoners – they just splashed water on prisoners to regain consciousness and interrogated them further.<sup>1078</sup> For young prisoners, they were shackled every day and often beaten with whip.<sup>1079</sup>
346. At Wat Ta Meak Security Centre, prisoners were not allowed to go out of the centre. Moreover, they were not allowed to talk.<sup>1080</sup> Some prisoners were forced to dig earth or clear land within the perimeter of Wat Ta Meak in the morning and were sent back to the detention facility in the afternoon.<sup>1081</sup> Wat Ta Meak Security Centre was a field where people were gathered and killed mostly under the pretence that Angkar sent them for study sessions.<sup>1082</sup> For example, witness NHEM Chen said, “They just said they would take them for study sessions at Wat Ta Meak.”<sup>1083</sup> Another witness also mentioned that, “I heard from the older people. They informed me that Wat Ta Meak was a place to keep people.”<sup>1084</sup>
347. Prisoners were blindfolded and transported out of the security centre when filled to capacity.<sup>1085</sup> Between 5 (five) p.m. and 6 (six) p.m., prisoners were transported out for execution at Met Sop Security Centre,<sup>1086</sup> Wat Phnom Pros Security Centre,<sup>1087</sup> or other locations.<sup>1088</sup> New prisoners were transported in between 7 (seven) p.m. and 9 (nine) p.m. by zone or sector trucks.<sup>1089</sup>
348. One witness said that Ta An came to have meetings twice at Wat Ta Meak, calling in district coms and commune coms for the meetings.<sup>1090</sup> Another witness stated that Ta An also came to visit Wat Ta Meak but did not indicate when and what Ta An did.<sup>1091</sup> Another witness said that Ta An often received information about Wat Ta Meak Security Centre.<sup>1092</sup> Only one witness said that the killings were carried out under orders from Ta An.<sup>1093</sup> However, another witness said that Ta An did not have the power to decide any arrest of anyone by himself. He had to report to his superiors first.<sup>1094</sup>
349. In April 1978, POL Pot planned to smash the army and purge low-level cadres who arrested and killed people illegally – many of them were arrested and detained at Wat Ta Meak.<sup>1095</sup> No one knows the exact number of the prisoners at Wat Ta Meak although prisoners were arrested and transported into Wat Ta Meak every day.<sup>1096</sup> Witness SAMRITH An said, “I don’t know for sure. We placed only the human skulls in the stupa, but the exact number of the bodies was not known."<sup>1097</sup> Concerning Cham people, witness CHHEAN Heang responded to a question asked by an international investigator, "Were any Cham people detained at Wat Ta Meak?" The witness replied that, "It seems there were no Chams detained here."<sup>1098</sup>

1.8. Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre

350. Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre was located within the perimeter of Lycée Réasmei Saophaon in Trach village, Kampong Chen Cheung commune, Stung district, Kampong Thom province, Sector 43 of the Central Zone.<sup>1099</sup> Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre was a district-level security centre.<sup>1100</sup> At the outset, Run was chief of the security centre and Rem was the deputy chief and was the one who carried out the killings.<sup>1101</sup> The security centre had around 10 (ten) to 20 (twenty) staff and about 5 (five) guards.<sup>1102</sup>
351. Previously Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre was a school, but it was later turned into a prison in 1975 and functioned until the collapse of the regime.<sup>1103</sup> However, this security centre was said to exist before 1975. Witness Loem Yuy Hu stated that the place operated from 1970 to 1979 which was first used to detain arrested Lon Nol soldiers.<sup>1104</sup>
352. Hundreds of prisoners were arrested and placed in the classrooms of that school.<sup>1105</sup> They were detained in 5 (five) rows and in each one there were around 25 (twenty-five) prisoners. They were made to sleep on the ground and were not allowed to talk.<sup>1106</sup> The detention period was from 1 (one) to 3 (three) months.<sup>1107</sup> At Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre, there were male, female, and child prisoners. The majority were new people from Phnom Penh, Siem Reap and other places.<sup>1108</sup> They were divided into 2 (two) categories: serious and light prisoners. They were placed in separate cells.<sup>1109</sup>
353. Light prisoners were given a bowl of rice gruel mixed with morning glory each day.<sup>1110</sup> Serious prisoners were not given food or water. They were shackled 24 (twenty-four) hours a day and were not allowed to go out to relieve themselves.<sup>1111</sup> They were allowed to relieve themselves right at their locations.<sup>1112</sup>
354. Prisoners were interrogated, tortured. They were sometimes beaten with whip for confession.<sup>1113</sup> Light prisoners were forced to work in the security centre, i.e. burying bodies, cleaning things up, harvesting, and making compost fertilizers, and so on.<sup>1114</sup> Witness KAM Proek testified that, “Sometimes I was also assigned to bury dead bodies. What I also noticed was that the dead bodies were buried by being placed in opposite positions. Children’s bodies were placed on their mothers.”<sup>1115</sup>

355. 30 (thirty) to 40 (forty) prisoners were taken away and killed every night.<sup>1116</sup> From time to time, they were killed right in front of the school building and then transported by ox-carts and buried in the pits throughout Ta Phlong village or burned on the edge of the lake near the hill.<sup>1117</sup> Some prisoners were sent for execution at Tom Pich on the edge of the forest of Neak Ta Svay, about 8 (eight) kilometres away from Lycée Réasmei Saophaon.<sup>1118</sup> Before execution, prisoners always screamed wildly and moaned.<sup>1119</sup> A witness said that Ta Samrech ordered the killings of the prisoners and Rem was the one who carried out the killings.<sup>1120</sup>
356. There were 250 (two hundred and fifty) to 500 (five hundred) pits of dead bodies at Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre.<sup>1121</sup> Only a handful of prisoners at the security centre could survive, but they were forced to refashion themselves before being released on condition that they did not say anything about [Tuol] Ta Phlong Security Centre.<sup>1122</sup> For example, there were around three prisoners who were liberated from the security centre when the regime collapsed.<sup>1123</sup>
357. Some prisoners died with handcuffs and some others died of starvation or diseases.<sup>1124</sup> The number of execution at Tuol Ta Phlong Security Centre increased dramatically from 1977 to 1978, in particular, the execution of prisoners who were new people.<sup>1125</sup> Witness KAM Proek mentioned that, “Thousands of victims were killed there.”<sup>1126</sup>

1.9. Wat Kandal Security Centre

358. Wat Kandal Security Centre was located in Paun village, Chranieng commune, Baray district, Kampong Thom province, Sector 42 of the Central Zone.<sup>1127</sup> At was the first person in charge of Wat Kandal Security Centre. He was eventually arrested and killed in 1977.<sup>1128</sup> Then Phen replaced him as [chief of] Wat Kandal Security Centre.<sup>1129</sup> When the Southwest group arrived in the Central Zone, there were no more arrests of chiefs except for the arrest of At.

359. Prisoners at Wat Kandal Security Centre included base people and new people.<sup>1130</sup> They were shackled and detained in the pagoda.<sup>1131</sup> When they were sent out to work outside, they were unshackled.<sup>1132</sup> Those who were considered to have refashioned themselves were released to return to their villages and work as usual.<sup>1133</sup> For serious prisoners, they were transferred to the sector security centre at Thnol Bek.<sup>1134</sup>
360. Witness PRAK Yun said that, “People who were brought in and detained here were killed inside the pagoda compound as well as at the rice fields near the pagoda. Some were killed and tossed into wells and ponds in nearby villages.”<sup>1135</sup> Another witness who was a guard of Wat Kandal Security Centre also stated that, “When the Southwest people first arrived, there were some prisoners in the security centre, but by 1978 there were no more prisoners.”<sup>1136</sup> However, there was only one witness who testified in relevant part that, “I saw there were approximately 30 prisoners there (Wat Kandal Security Centre).”<sup>1137</sup>

1.10. Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre

361. Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre was located in Veal Ri Lech village, Svay Teab commune, Chamkar Leu district, Kampong Cham province, Sector 42 of the Central Zone.<sup>1138</sup> The security centre functioned, detaining and killing people,<sup>1139</sup> from 1975 until the collapse of the regime in 1979. The security centre was about two hundred metres west of Svay Teab School and sat on an area of approximately 4 (four) hectares surrounded by thick bamboo fence.<sup>1140</sup>
362. The security centre had two long, wooden halls for detaining people.<sup>1141</sup> Prisoners were shackled day and night without exception.<sup>1142</sup> They were accused by Angkar of being lazy, committing moral offenses, and in particular, being former officials of the previous regime.<sup>1143</sup> They included elderly people, adults and children.<sup>1144</sup> In general, there were 2 (two) types of prisoners: light and serious offenders.<sup>1145</sup> They were also classified as new people and base people.<sup>1146</sup>
363. The arrested prisoners were taken by ox-carts or trucks.<sup>1147</sup> When they were transported by trucks, the trucks were totally covered.<sup>1148</sup> When they were transported by ox-carts, the ox-cart unit chief would drive them and the young militiamen holding knives walked behind to prevent them from running away.<sup>1149</sup> Witness Ham Kim Sour, former ox-cart driver, said while he was driving people from Thnol Bek village to execution [site] around 40 (forty) metres away, another unit chief came to take over to Chamkar Svay Chanty.<sup>1150</sup>

364. One witness stated that, “I witnessed people from some villages such as Moha, Chin, Trapeang Beng, Veal Ri Lech, Srae Preal and Phum Proek being brought here by ox-carts. I saw them because I was then assigned to ride the ox-cart carrying firewood for the village’s collective dining hall. I also heard, but I did not witness the people from Veal Ri Keut, Svay Teab, Tang Krang, Thnol Bek Keut, Thnol Bek Lech and Pramat Dei villages being brought by ox-carts to be killed here.”<sup>1151</sup>
365. From 1975 to mid-1978, execution was carried out on a small scale.<sup>1152</sup> However, from June 1978, it increased almost every day at Chamkar Svay Chanty when people from 13 (thirteen) villages in Svay Teab commune were taken and killed at this security centre.<sup>1153</sup>
366. In 1977 while being detained for 7 (seven) days with other 35 (thirty-five) prisoners, witness KHEK Nhe managed to see, through a wall hole, people being killed every day.<sup>1154</sup> In 1978, KE Pauk gave the order to record names of educated people in Svay Teab commune for execution.<sup>1155</sup> Arrests were made promptly following an announcement made by unit chief Kheang.<sup>1156</sup> Many witnesses gave testimonies on the killings and persecution at Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre; however, they claimed that they had never heard of Ta An.<sup>1157</sup>
367. Yun was chief of Svay Teab commune and in charge of arrests and execution of people at Chamkar Svay Chanty.<sup>1158</sup> Militias at various villages in Svay Teab commune were under orders from Yun.<sup>1159</sup> Besides Yun’s militias, there were also security guards from district and sector levels who were also tasked with arresting people and smashing them at this security centre.<sup>1160</sup> Phal who was Yun’s younger brother-in-law was in charge of the guards and the executioners namely Sin, Pann Chheun and Phouk Ung Sao.<sup>1161</sup> Suon was also the one who gave the order to arrest and kill people.<sup>1162</sup> Moreover, unit chiefs, militias, and village chiefs also participated in execution at Chamkar Svay

Chanty.<sup>1163</sup> After the number of killings increased, Yun was arrested and killed under orders from KE Pauk because he acted beyond the order.<sup>1164</sup>

368. From time to time, prisoners were forced to dig pits for their own burial all through the night.<sup>1165</sup> They had their hands tied behind their backs and were walked to the edge of the pits. They were made to kneel down on the edge of the pits. Then they were killed by blows to the napes with bamboo clubs before being dropped into the pits. Some were killed first before their bodies were dumped into the pits and water wells.<sup>1166</sup> Bamboo clubs or iron axes were used to kill prisoners.<sup>1167</sup> While executing the prisoners, the executioners entertained themselves with music from loudspeakers and shouted at the prisoners referring to them as contemptible enemies while the prisoners screamed in pain.<sup>1168</sup>
369. Witnesses said that a few prisoners were released from Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre. They even said that this security centre was a detention facility and most people were brutally killed in Chamkar Leu district.<sup>1169</sup> Concerning the death toll, witnesses indicated different figures between 1,000<sup>1170</sup> (one thousand) and 2,000<sup>1171</sup> (two thousand) people. The Documentation Centre of Cambodia reported that the death toll was between 5,000 (five thousand) and 10,000 (ten thousand) people.<sup>1172</sup>

1.11. Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre

370. Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre was located in Baray Chan Dek pagoda in Tras village, Ballangk commune, Baray district, Kampong Thom province, Sector 42 of the Central Zone.<sup>1173</sup> Baray Chan Dek Security Centre was a district-level security centre.<sup>1174</sup>
371. The chief of the security centre was (1) Sen,<sup>1175</sup> then (2) Mang, (3) Mao<sup>1176</sup> and the last one (4) Soeun from the Southwest holding the position until the collapse of the regime.<sup>1177</sup> The temple of Baray Chan Dek pagoda was used as a detention facility of the arrested prisoners for torture and execution.<sup>1178</sup> This security centre was used to detain prisoners who were new people, base people and Cham people.<sup>1179</sup>
372. Prisoners were mistreated during the course of interrogation for confessions.<sup>1180</sup> The confessions were forwarded to the district level which was the direct upper level.<sup>1181</sup> A witness testified that, "Those confessions were sent to the district where the district chief would decide if they were to release or smash.”<sup>1182</sup> Witness UT Seng stated that, “There was another major killing site at Wat Baray Chan Dek; they played loudspeakers there while the people were being killed; they brought the people to the front of the pagoda and killed them right there.”<sup>1183</sup>

373. The security centre had between 20 (twenty) and 30 (thirty) prisoners.<sup>1184</sup> Prisoners were detained at the dining hall south of pagoda.<sup>1185</sup> Detainees were shackled in rows – there were between 7 (seven) and 8 (eight) of them in each row. They were shackled with a ring and a long iron bar the whole day.<sup>1186</sup> As for female prisoners, they were placed in a small cell without being shackled.<sup>1187</sup> This also applied to child prisoners.<sup>1188</sup>
374. Prisoners received 2 (two) meals per day – 2 (two) ladles of watery gruel each meal.<sup>1189</sup> When they needed to relieve themselves, they had to do it into a portable urinal bowl and then passed it on from one another until it reached a light prisoner whose shackles were removed for discharging the urine.<sup>1190</sup> They were allowed to take a bath once a week.<sup>1191</sup>
375. It is said that only those who were evacuated out of Phnom Penh were taken away and killed at this security centre, yet there were also Cham prisoners.<sup>1192</sup> Between 1976 and 1977, many people were arrested and sent for detention at Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre.<sup>1193</sup> When the Southwest group arrived, this pagoda was used as a security centre for around a fortnight before they moved to Sralau Toung Security Centre.<sup>1194</sup> In early 1978, the number of executions at Sralau Toung increased significantly.<sup>1195</sup> However, witness MEN Le stated that, “In 1978, I saw many people [being] sent to the pagoda (Wat Baray Chan Dek), but none survived.”<sup>1196</sup>
376. The number of the people who died at this security centre is not precisely known. One witness said that, “I cannot estimate how many people were killed but I saw a 4 square metre room full of skulls there.”<sup>1197</sup> Another witness asserted that nearly 1,000 (one thousand) prisoners were executed at Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre.<sup>1198</sup> However, according to a former guard of the security centre, the total number of the prisoners killed at the security centre was less than 1,000<sup>1199</sup> (one thousand) while another witness estimated that up to “5,000 (five thousand) people were executed in 1978.”<sup>1200</sup>

1.12. Wat Srange Security Centre

377. Wat Srange Security Centre was located in Srange village, Tbeng commune, Kampong Svay district, Kampong Thom province, Sector 43 of the Central Zone.<sup>1201</sup> It was a sector-level security centre.<sup>1202</sup> However, a former guard claimed that it was a district-level security centre.<sup>1203</sup> It occupied approximately 1 (one) hectares surrounded by bamboo fence.<sup>1204</sup>
378. Wat Srange Security Centre functioned in 1976 before the arrival of the Southwest group.<sup>1205</sup> However, this security centre is claimed to have started to function in 1974.<sup>1206</sup> Despite the presence of the Southwest group, its composition remained unchanged.<sup>1207</sup> It closed down in late 1978 right before the collapse of the regime<sup>1208</sup> for no apparent reason. However, it was transferred to Baing Kanh Chak located in Prey Preal village, Tro Pen Reussei commune, Kampong Svay district, Kampong Thom province.<sup>1209</sup>
379. The security centre consisted of Kin as chief, Lai as deputy chief, and Chheoung as member.<sup>1210</sup> Interrogators were Kin, Lai, Chun and Eng.<sup>1211</sup> There were around 6 (six) executioners: Sem, Chan, Yeoun, Thang, Ley, and Sork.<sup>1212</sup> There were at least 5 (five) guards: Khim as chief, Lai as deputy chief, Chheoung, Phat and Choeng as members.<sup>1213</sup>
380. Around 20 (twenty) standing soldiers took charge of the security issues at this security centre.<sup>1214</sup> Its workers were all base people.<sup>1215</sup> Most people who had a tendency towards the former Lon Nol regime, new people, base people, local cadres or bandits who were arrested from villages/communes in the sector were arrested and sent to the security centre.<sup>1216</sup>
381. Prisoners were arrested and sent to Wat Srange Security Centre sometimes almost every day and sometimes once every two to three days – each time two or three people and, from time to time, up to four or five ox-carts were brought in at night.<sup>1217</sup> One witness who was a former chief of economy in Srange village living close to the security centre stated that, “Sometimes I saw people being tied and walked in line towards the security centre.”<sup>1218</sup>
382. Most arrests were made in the form of invitation to meetings and then they were arrested.<sup>1219</sup> Prisoners were mostly adults and a few young children whose parents were arrested and they had to be brought along too. They were transported by horse carts or ox-carts<sup>1220</sup> and detained in the Wat Srange

- temple right away.<sup>1221</sup> One witness testified that there were between 40 (forty) and 100 (one hundred) prisoners in the temple.<sup>1222</sup>
383. Those prisoners were handcuffed and shackled to a long iron bar up to 5 rows – 20 (twenty) prisoners in each one.<sup>1223</sup> They were provided a ladle of watery gruel each meal, only two meals a day.<sup>1224</sup> While being detained, they were forced to perform hard labour.<sup>1225</sup> Female and male prisoners were detained separately.<sup>1226</sup>
384. Within the perimeter of the pagoda, there was a hall which was known as an interrogation place.<sup>1227</sup> During interrogation, prisoners were tortured, hit with nylon ropes, stabbed in their chests with wooden sticks, and poured water into their noses.<sup>1228</sup> After interrogation, the interrogators classified them as serious or light prisoners.<sup>1229</sup> Sometimes, they were taken away and killed right after interrogation.<sup>1230</sup> Serious prisoners were to be sent to the security centre in the centre of Kampong Thom province while light prisoners might have been released to live in their villages.<sup>1231</sup> While being detained, some light prisoners were made to serve meals to other detainees in this security centre.<sup>1232</sup>
385. At this security centre, there were 3 (three) big execution sites outside the perimeter of the pagoda: to the north and northwest of Wat Srange and along Prey Da Veng in Srange village.<sup>1233</sup> A former guard of the security centre stated that, “The decision to execute people was an order from the upper echelon, namely from the district and sector committees.”<sup>1234</sup> New people and base people were killed at this security centre.<sup>1235</sup> Prisoners often screamed in pain while being killed.<sup>1236</sup> In some cases, they died in the detention facility due to starvation.<sup>1237</sup> Their bodies were taken away and buried outside the security centre fence.<sup>1238</sup>
386. With regard to the death toll at Wat Srange Security Centre, no factual data was collected by experts’ research, but it was collected mostly based on inference. For example, witness HEANG Say stated that, “I did not know the exact number; however, there could have been thousands.”<sup>1239</sup> Some other sources estimated that about 3,500 (three thousand and five hundred) prisoners were executed at Wat Srange Security Centre.<sup>1240</sup>

1.13. Wat Angkuonh Dei Security Centre

387. Wat Angkuonh Dei Security Centre was located in Kdei Boeng village, Krala commune, Kampong Siem district, Kampong Cham province in Sector 41 of the Central Zone.<sup>1241</sup> Previously, this security centre was used as a killing site where few people were killed.<sup>1242</sup> It was a district-level security centre and generally used as a temporary detention facility for prisoners before they were sent for execution. However, some killings took place here.<sup>1243</sup> After the fall of the DK regime, pits with corpses were found at Angkuonh Dei.<sup>1244</sup>
388. The security centre was a shed with tiled roof without walls.<sup>1245</sup> Prisoners in the security centre were shackled in two rows.<sup>1246</sup> Detainees were always tortured during investigation.<sup>1247</sup> They were detained there for a very short time before being transferred to the sector level or to Tuol Beng Execution Site<sup>1248</sup> which was approximately 1.5 kilometre away west of Angkuonh Dei village on the left side of National Road 6 to Phnom Penh.<sup>1249</sup>
389. After the Southwest group was transferred to the Central Zone, Yeay Yut became secretary of Kampong Siem district (District 101 secretary), Ta Si was deputy secretary and Nân [chief of] Kampong Siem district committee.<sup>1250</sup> On the military side, Phon was in charged and chief of Kampong Siem district military.<sup>1251</sup> Ny was chief of Kampong Siem district security centre.<sup>1252</sup> In late November 1978, Yeay Yut was transferred by the upper echelon to work in Sector 5 of the Northwest Zone.<sup>1253</sup> At that time, Nân became secretary of Kampong Siem district while Ta Si was transferred elsewhere.<sup>1254</sup> Chea was in charge of Wat Angkuonh Dei Security Centre.<sup>1255</sup>
390. This security centre was used to detain Khmer and Cham people who were arrested from various communes in Kampong Siem district.<sup>1256</sup> Those holding the rank from village deputy chief to commune chief and former LON Nol soldiers were sent to the Sector Security Centre.<sup>1257</sup> Children were also detained at Wat Angkuonh Dei.<sup>1258</sup> When a child escaped even at night, the militia would search for him/her that night.<sup>1259</sup> Due to its less space, only over 10 (ten) prisoners could be detained.<sup>1260</sup> Witness NHEM Kol said that, “No Cham people were spared, except for Phea who was defended by Yut.”<sup>1261</sup>
391. Witness NHEM Kol said that, “I met Ta An... at Angkuonh Dei village when he was coming to visit the newly-built communal kitchen.”<sup>1262</sup> Witness AOK

Chanty said that, “I heard that Ta An came to attend a meeting at the district office located in Angkuonh Dei village, but I never saw him.”<sup>1263</sup>

1.14. Tuol Beng Execution Site

392. Tuol Beng Execution Site was located west of the pagoda in Tuol Beng village, Krala commune, Kampong Siem district, Kampong Cham province in Sector 41 of the Central Zone.<sup>1264</sup> It was approximately three to four kilometres away from Kampong Siem district office.<sup>1265</sup> It was a district-level security centre<sup>1266</sup> and now it turns into farms and land for agriculture.<sup>1267</sup>
393. Ny was in charge of Tuol Beng Security Centre.<sup>1268</sup> Rom who was transferred from the Southwest Zone was chief of Krala commune.<sup>1269</sup> Rom had at least four messengers including Hoeun, Long, Chek and Seng.<sup>1270</sup> Rom worked in the Krala commune office which was located opposite a road to Angkuonh Dei village.<sup>1271</sup> The Krala commune office was approximately 200 meters away from Kampong Siem district office.<sup>1272</sup>
394. Tuol Beng Security Centre had two long wooden buildings for housing prisoners, each building was approximately 7 (seven) metres by 20 (twenty) metres.<sup>1273</sup> There were approximately 200 detainees.<sup>1274</sup> Those who were to be taken for execution at Tuol Beng were detained in this centre.<sup>1275</sup> Tuol Beng was an execution site<sup>1276</sup> and the execution began even before the arrival of the Southwest group.<sup>1277</sup> Approximately 3 (three) days prior to the fall of the regime, the detainees at Tuol Beng Security Centre were transferred to Prey Totueng Prison where they were all killed with grenades thrown into the prison.<sup>1278</sup>
395. In 1978, the number of killings at Tuol Beng Security Centre rose dramatically that people found it difficult to walk past the area due to the stench.<sup>1279</sup> There were more than twenty pits, large and small, in Tuol Beng Execution Site.<sup>1280</sup> Phon, Keut, and Sun were in charge of arrests of people and their execution at Tuol Beng.<sup>1281</sup> Many Cham people were also sent for execution at Tuol Beng.<sup>1282</sup> According to a witness, thousands of victims were executed at Tuol Beng.<sup>1283</sup>
396. In response to the investigator’s question: “Did Yut know about the security centre and killing site at Tuol Beng?” Witness KHOEM Neary said that, “Definitely, it was under her management in which she was on the committee

[of Kampong Siem District].”<sup>1284</sup> In addition, several witnesses who lived in Kampong Siem district at that time said that they did not know Ta An.<sup>1285</sup>

1.15. Forced Marriage in Sector 41 (Kampong Siem and Prey Chhor Districts)

397. In Kampong Siem district, Kampong Cham province, Sector 41 of the Central Zone, there was a form of marriage which was arranged by Angkar in 1975 before the arrival of the Southwest group and until the collapse of the regime.<sup>1286</sup> Generally, Angkar arranged marriage on a large scale with many couples, particularly on the 17 April victory anniversary.<sup>1287</sup>
398. Marriage arranged by Angkar required men and women to have good backgrounds, depending on their classification: new people, base people or same element.<sup>1288</sup> At one time in Kampong Siem district office, AO An told PRAK Yut that, “When you comrades arrange marriage for them, you have to select them according to their elements/composition. But he did not give reasons.”<sup>1289</sup> One witness claimed that AO An’s statement covered new and base people.<sup>1290</sup> However, in reality, Angkar also arranged marriage for those who had different backgrounds.<sup>1291</sup>
399. Normally, women could not propose marriage, but men could. In particular, those who had been involved with the resistance could submit a request to the unit or village chief who would prepare their personal history before forwarding it to communes for deliberation and decisions.<sup>1292</sup> Marriage was mostly arranged at the Kampong Siem District Office, sometimes in the dining hall of the villages where couples sat face to face.<sup>1293</sup> Then the couples held hands and took a vow to love each other before the wedding meal started.<sup>1294</sup>
400. When the district secretary joined wedding ceremonies, the district would organize the event, and the village and commune chiefs would also be present.<sup>1295</sup> If the district did not attend, the commune chief would instead.<sup>1296</sup> Generally, parents did not attend wedding ceremonies; however, they did only for a few cases.<sup>1297</sup> After wedding ceremonies finished, communes would report them to district secretaries.<sup>1298</sup> PRAK Yut, Kampong Siem former district secretary, would always announce in meetings about the weddings over a loudspeaker that getting married was to help develop the nation and those who wished to do so should make a request to village chiefs.<sup>1299</sup>

401. In late 1977, a meeting about marriage was held at Wat Ta Meak. One witness stated that, "He (AO An) spoke about marriage planning. They planned to raise new forces to increase the population to 15 or 20 million in the next 15 or 20 years. This was the Asian plan, referring to Pol Pot's plan."<sup>1300</sup> Witness SAT Phea also said that, "I want to speak more about the 'Forces in Asia'. Their plans were to increase the number of people aged between 15 and 20 to 20 million and to fight for and retake Prey Nokor and Khmer Surin by 2001. Ta An said this but he said this only once."<sup>1301</sup>
402. Some witnesses said that it was rare for a person to request for a marriage. Most of the time, unit, village or commune chiefs would do.<sup>1302</sup> However, commune chiefs did not have authority to decide on this. They had to send requests to districts, and districts would further request sectors for decisions. It took about one to three months.<sup>1303</sup> In Sector 41, one witness said that Ta An delegated the authority to districts to organize wedding ceremonies by themselves. Ta An was always happy to approve them.<sup>1304</sup>
403. It was claimed that PRAK Yut sent the names of those who were to get married to the worksite.<sup>1305</sup> After a one-week notification, wedding ceremonies would be organized.<sup>1306</sup> There were many couples in each wedding under the pretence that the more couples the better.<sup>1307</sup>
404. Newlyweds were monitored especially at night to ensure consummation.<sup>1308</sup> Most of the time, husbands would come to complain that their wives did not agree to sleep with them. In this regard, village chiefs would call husbands and wives for re-education. If they did not get along with each other before commune chiefs, they would face starvation or would be taken away and disappeared.<sup>1309</sup> PRAK Yut, Kampong Siem former district secretary, told a witness that Ta An ordered newlyweds to consummate their marriages for national prosperity.<sup>1310</sup>
405. One witness testified that he never knew that women were forced to marry soldiers<sup>1311</sup> while another witness stated that, in a meeting, they talked about former disabled soldiers who had priority to pick any women for their marriage.<sup>1312</sup>
406. Those who were of age to get married, living in mobile units in Prey Chhor district were made to get married by Angkar.<sup>1313</sup> Wedding ceremonies would be organized at the commune hall by commune chiefs.<sup>1314</sup> No one dared to refuse such wedding arrangements because they were afraid that they would be taken away and killed.<sup>1315</sup>

407. At Prey Chhor district, Angkar each time organised wedding ceremonies for many couples, sometimes five couples and sometimes up to ten couples or even more depending on the number of people in villages who were to get married.<sup>1316</sup> One witness said that there were forced marriage on two occasions, the first one 32 (thirty-two) couples and the second one 15 (fifteen) couples.<sup>1317</sup>
408. Weddings at Prey Chhor district took place from the beginning of the DK regime until its collapse.<sup>1318</sup> Weddings organised for former disabled soldiers took place before and after the arrival of the Southwest group.<sup>1319</sup> Witness IENG Chham said that, “In that regime, they just matched people for the wedding; the office chairman asked us that ‘Do Comrades agree with the match arranged by Angkar?’ If we agreed, they arranged for us.”<sup>1320</sup> The witness added that, “We did not dare to reject and protest. The wedding was not voluntary; it was arranged by Angkar.”<sup>1321</sup>

1.16. Genocide of the Cham in Kampong Cham Province

409. Cham people were evacuated by Angkar from the villages where they had lived to certain districts in Kampong Cham province including Chamkar Leu.<sup>1322</sup> Moreover, in late 1978 there was a meeting attended by commune, district, and sector levels in the presence of KE Pauk as well. During the meeting, KE Pauk asked him how much percentage the Party’s plan had been implemented.<sup>1323</sup>
410. Witness PRAK Yut, former secretary of Kampong Siem district, mentioned that, “I received the order from Ta An to collect Cham people and former Lon Nol soldiers.”<sup>1324</sup> The order from Ta An was given in a monthly meeting. Ta An also gave orders to other district chiefs.<sup>1325</sup>
411. Moreover, witness PRAK Yut, former secretary of Kampong Siem district, described that, “One day Ta An came to see me and whispered to me that the Centre started to arrest Cham people and ordered me to list down the names of all Cham people in my district.”<sup>1326</sup> She also added that, “I used to attend meetings at the sector level in which a decision to arrest Cham people was taken."<sup>1327</sup>

412. A Kampong Siem district witness testified that, "I know that the commune chief asked the village chief to write down the names of all people in the village in two notebooks. The village chief was required to provide detailed information about them such as their race and biography. One notebook would be kept in the village [office] and the other in the commune [office]. I know that those people whose names were listed down were falsely told that they would be taken to work at the Rubber Plantation Union. But actually they were taken away and killed."<sup>1328</sup> The list was made under orders from the upper echelon to local levels.<sup>1329</sup> Witness POV Sarom who prepared the list said that, "He ordered me to make a detailed list of the population in Krala Commune such as males, females, young, old, ethnic groups, "new people" or former LON Nol soldiers."<sup>1330</sup>
413. The former secretary of Kampong Siem district said that she also received a name list of the people to be arrested from Ta An. However, she did not know their roles and positions as she was not interested. She thought that villages would send it to Ta An and Ta An would send it to her because the people in the name list were in her district.<sup>1331</sup> Meanwhile, witness SOK Horn, a Kampong Siem resident, testified that, "During the Pol Pot regime, the commune chief ordered to kill Cham people. The killers were sent from the commune."<sup>1332</sup>
414. For Cham people living in Kampong Siem district, most of them were arrested and killed right in this district. It was claimed that no Cham people were spared, except for Phea who was defended by Kampong Siem district former secretary Yut.<sup>1333</sup>
415. Witness PRAK Yut, former secretary of Kampong Siem district, also said that, "She received the order from Ta An to identify, search and arrest Cham people who lived in Kampong Siem district which was one of the big districts with 11 communes."<sup>1334</sup> She added that, "I received orders from the sector level to arrest and kill all of those Cham. The orders I received were very clear about killing those Cham. After that, I sent those orders on to the commune level and my deputies at the district level. I do not know how or where those Cham were killed. After the killings of the Cham people were completed, I received a report from my deputies or the militia chief about the number of Cham they had killed. Then, I sent that report to Ta An, who was at the sector level.”<sup>1335</sup> She mentioned that, “When the orders were fully carried out, all the commune chiefs reported personally to me. Then I discussed this with Grandfather Si and made a report to be sent to Grandfather An at the sector level.”<sup>1336</sup>

416. In my capacity as Kampong Siem district secretary, I sent the report to Ta An in which I described the names and reasons of the arrest, detention, release and execution.<sup>1337</sup> However, the same witness added that, “I did not know if Grandfather An gave the orders on his own or if he received the orders from the upper echelon. But I think he could not issue the orders on his own. He must have received them from the upper echelon.”<sup>1338</sup>
417. It is said that the decision to kill all those Cham was received from an echelon higher than Ta An. Ta An also received orders from above. I did not ask Ta An who had issued the orders to kill Cham people like that.<sup>1339</sup> Therefore, the execution of Cham people was under orders from the upper echelon and the lower levels had to follow.<sup>1340</sup>
418. Arrests of Cham people were made on a continual basis, but at the end of the regime, there was a plan to arrest more Cham people under orders from the upper echelon. One witness claimed that, “In that meeting, Ta An told us that we had to go to villages by ourselves to write down the names and make a name list.”<sup>1341</sup> However, the new name list was not yet prepared completely when the regime collapsed.<sup>1342</sup>

2. Number of Victims

419. Concerning the number of victims, the International Co-Prosecutor claimed that there were up to 400,000 (four hundred thousand) victims who died in the Central Zone. This claim is contestable because such a claim is not corroborated with any other evidence. The evidence collected shows that the number of victims was far less than this one. We will discuss further infra. First, the ICP failed to differentiate between the number of victims who died and who were executed in Sector 41.
420. The result of the investigation did not indicate an exact number of victims who died and who were killed. Some witnesses said the number of victims could be thousands or around ten thousand at Wat Batheay Security Centre and thousands at Wat Ta Phlong Security Centre. Moreover, they asserted that there were around 200-30,000 (two hundred to thirty thousand) victims at Wat Au Trakuon Security Centre, 2,000 (two thousand) victims at Met Sop Security Centre, 1,000 (one thousand) victims at Kok Pring Execution Site, 3,500 (three thousand and five hundred) victims at Wat Srange Security Centre, 5,000 (five thousand) victims at Wat Baray Chan Dek Security Centre, 1,000-1,500 (one thousand to one thousand and five hundred) victims at the forced labour worksite at Anlong Chrey Dam, and 1,000-10,000 (one thousand to ten thousand) victims at Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre. These numbers are uncorroborated.

IV. Applicable Law regarding Personal Jurisdiction at ECCC

421. The ECCC Agreement explicitly states, inter alia, that the ECCC was established to bring to trial senior leaders of Democratic Kampuchea and those who were most responsible for the crimes and serious violations of 1956 Cambodian penal law, international humanitarian law and custom, and international conventions recognized by Cambodia, that were committed during the period from 17 April 1975 to 6 January 1979.
422. Article 2 new of the ECCC Law states that, “Extraordinary Chambers shall be established in the existing court structure, namely the trial court and the supreme court to bring to trial senior leaders of Democratic Kampuchea and those who were most responsible for the crimes and serious violations of Cambodian laws related to crimes, international humanitarian law and custom, and international conventions recognized by Cambodia, that were committed during the period from 17 April 1975 to 6 January 1979. Senior leaders of Democratic Kampuchea and those who were most responsible for the above acts are hereinafter designated as Suspects.”<sup>1343</sup>
423. The Supreme Court Chamber (“SCC”) has interpreted the terms “senior leaders of Democratic Kampuchea and those who were most responsible” as referring to 2 (two) categories, namely, senior leaders of the Khmer Rouge who are among the most responsible, as well as non-senior leaders of the Khmer Rouge who are also among the most responsible. Both categories of persons must be Khmer Rouge officials and among the most responsible in order for the Court to properly exercise personal jurisdiction; the criteria are thus cumulative, not disjunctive.<sup>1344</sup>

424. Senior leaders refer to senior officials who participated in the making of policies, their implementation and monitoring.<sup>1345</sup> According to the discussion documents for the establishment of the ECCC, senior leaders refer to members of the CPK Standing Committee and the Central Committee of the DK.<sup>1346</sup> There are 2 (two) main elements in determining a person to be most responsible: (1) the gravity of the crimes charged and (2) the level of responsibility of the charged persons.<sup>1347</sup>
425. When assessing the first element, the Referral Bench of the International Criminal Tribunal for former Yugoslavia relied on factors such as (1) the number of victims, (2) the geographic and temporal scope and manner in which they were allegedly committed, as well as (3) the number of separate incidents.<sup>1348</sup> To assess the second element, the International Criminal Tribunal for former Yugoslavia has evaluated it on the basis of considerations such as (a) the level of participation in the crimes, (b) the hierarchical rank or position of the accused, including (c) the number of subordinates and hierarchical echelons above him or her, and the permanence of his position.<sup>1349</sup> The Pre-Trial Chamber of the International Criminal Court has evaluated similar factors.<sup>1350</sup>
426. The SCC also pronounced itself on the jurisdictional nature of Article 1 of the ECCC Law. In this regard, the SCC found that the question of whether an accused is a Khmer Rouge official “involves a question of historical fact that is intelligible, precise, and leaves little or no room for discretion of the Trial Chamber,” and is therefore a justiciable issue covered by the personal jurisdiction of the ECCC.<sup>1351</sup>
427. Conversely, with respect to the terms “senior leaders” and “most responsible”, the SCC found that these two categories were not jurisdictional criteria stricto sensu, but merely described the outlines of the prosecution and investigation policies to be employed by the Co-Prosecutors and, independently, by the OCIJ. It found them to be in principle unfettered by any strict rules of interpretation and in essence non-justiciable before the Trial Chamber or SCC, short of a showing of abuse of discretion through bad faith or unsound professional judgment.<sup>1352</sup>

428. In Cases 001 and 002, the Co-Prosecutors, the CIJs, the Trial Chamber and the SCC have so far failed to specify what criteria are considered to determine whether a person is a senior leader or among those who were most responsible. What may be accepted is the only conclusion that a senior leader may be among those who were most responsible. However, those who were most responsible may not be senior leaders. Therefore, if a person is a senior leader, it is not necessary to prove that he is also among those who were most responsible.<sup>1353</sup>
429. This interpretation implies that the CIJs have full discretion to consider and decide whether a person is a senior leader or among those who were most responsible, based on factual findings in the context of the ECCC Law. This means that consideration of criteria or factors is left to the CIJs' discretion. Therefore, even though determining whether a person is a senior leader or among those who were most responsible is at the CIJs' discretion, those legal arguments shall comply with the principle of the strict interpretation of the criminal law,<sup>1354</sup> favouring the accused in case of doubt concerning jurisdictional issues.<sup>1355</sup> The interpretation should, however, be consistent with the uniformity of jurisprudence and in accordance with the judicial context applicable in Cambodia.
430. Such an important threshold criterion, whatever its exact legal nature, cannot be interpreted without recourse to at least some pivotal considerations. Indeed, the very reference to an abuse of discretion based on bad faith or unsound professional judgment presupposes that there are parameters against which the exercise of the discretion can and must be measured, i.e. what constitutes the boundaries of good faith and sound professional judgment before the decision moves into the field of arbitrariness. The SCC cannot have had in mind an entirely free-wheeling selection policy approach by the OCP or OCIJ.
431. The CIJs also disagree in principle with the argument that comparisons to other persons are not appropriate or feasible.<sup>1356</sup> Against this background, it becomes a secondary question of terminology whether one calls the criterion a jurisdictional requirement or a policy guideline. In essence, it entails a wide but not entirely non-justiciable margin of appreciation for the OCP and OCIJ.
432. While the CIJs disagree with the SCC's classification of "personal jurisdiction" as a non-jurisdictional criterion, we feel bound, by reason of practical judicial deference to the court's supreme appellate body, to follow the substance of the SCC case law unless there are exceptional reasons for a disagreement and for taking an openly dissenting stance.

433. This is the case notwithstanding the fact that the only direct appellate panel for the decisions of the OCIJ is the PTC and that in a civil law system such as that of Cambodia there is no doctrine of stare decisis. It would nonetheless be undesirable from the point of view of clarity and uniformity of the law in a legal environment as closed as that of the ECCC for judges lower in the court hierarchy to disregard the SCC case law unless there were exceptional reasons other than the existing arguments.

A. The Position of the ECCC within the Cambodian Legal System – Personal, Temporal and Subject-matter Jurisdictions

434. The ECCC's personal jurisdiction criterion, however, gives rise to another potentially serious policy concern which needs to be addressed in this context in order to gauge the consequences of a finding of lack of personal jurisdiction, and what impact it should have on the exercise of the policy discretion by the CIJs when deciding to dismiss a case based on personal jurisdiction alone.
435. The matter in question is the absence of a residual jurisdiction for the ordinary Cambodian courts over crimes committed by those who do not fall under the categories of "senior leader" or "person most responsible". Upon a close study of the negotiation history preceding the establishment of the ECCC and the development since, especially as set out by the SCC, the CIJs are convinced that currently no other Cambodian court has jurisdiction over any person or course of events which are within the personal, temporal and subject-matter jurisdiction of the ECCC. An argument might therefore be made that we should counter the obvious effect of this view and exercise our discretion as broadly as possible in favour of a finding of personal jurisdiction in order to avoid an unwanted impunity gap. The CIJs disagree with that reasoning for the reasons set out below.
436. The SCC was aware, when expressing the above-mentioned principles, that unlike in other international(ised) jurisdictions which it cited in its argument, during the negotiation history between the UN and Cambodia the contours of the law on the ECCC [were settled] in the knowledge that there was no negotiated residual jurisdiction of the ordinary Cambodian courts or of an internationalised system as operated, for example, in Bosnia and Kosovo, or the military tribunals after WW II, for any of the perpetrators that would remain below the ECCC's envisaged responsibility threshold.

437. Indeed, the SCC explicitly acknowledged the unique position of the ECCC as compared, for example, to that of the ICTY by stating: “the ECCC exists within the Cambodian legal system in which it exercises exclusive jurisdiction and no referral to another court is possible.”<sup>1357</sup>
438. Similarly, the PTC had in 2011 already held that the Cambodian Government could have used its own ordinary courts to try the Khmer Rouge but instead it opted for the establishment of the ECCC: “The [...] Government was [...] free to prosecute such crimes [...] as a basic exercise of its jurisdiction [...]. However, rather than using its pre-existing court structure, the [...] Government [...] agreed with the United Nations to establish the ECCC [...] and delegated its jurisdiction to hear these cases.”<sup>1358</sup>
439. No attempts were ever made by either the Cambodian government or the United Nations to regulate the investigation and prosecution of those who would fall short of the personal jurisdiction threshold of the ECCC, because they were not among those most responsible. That stands to reason, because the goal of peace and reconciliation, which entails reintegration of the Khmer Rouge into society was another paramount motivation of the Cambodian government.<sup>1359</sup> This so-called “impunity gap” and its relationship to the reintegration policy was expressly acknowledged as a fact – and as an anomaly compared to other tribunals – as early as 2008, for example, by the former Head of the DSS, Rupert Skilbeck.<sup>1360</sup>
440. More specifically, unlike other courts or tribunals set up on the international level or as a hybrid (national) tribunal,<sup>1361</sup> neither the ECCC Agreement nor the ECCC Law contain a vertical ne bis in idem or primacy clause, i.e. a provision regulating the relationship between investigations, prosecutions and decisions at the national level in the ordinary courts and those at the level of the specialist court. The applicable law before the ECCC hence does a priori not envisage a situation where a conflict of jurisdictions could exist that would require such a regulation.

441. An unqualified comparison to the referral bench's case law, for example, of the ICTY under Rule 11 bis of the Rules of Procedure and Evidence in order to gauge comparable levels of seriousness and responsibility is therefore ultimately not helpful because the negotiated context in the case of the ECCC was knowingly different. The drafters of the law wanted to restrict personal jurisdiction to those with the greatest responsibility under the DK.
442. [...] fully aware that the total death toll, for example, was in the region of a conservatively estimated 1.7 million people<sup>1362</sup> at the time – incidentally about the same as the major modern conflicts, including all situations before the ICC to date, combined. They also knew that there were a large number<sup>1363</sup> of potential perpetrators who each alone could have been responsible for hundreds or thousands of deaths – scenarios in which the ICTY Appeals Chamber, for example, overturned a referral decision because it took into account, inter alia, that the offender was deemed responsible for the deaths of 140 (one hundred and forty) victims.<sup>1364</sup>
443. The sheer scale of the casualties in the Khmer Rouge period, the negotiation history set out by the SCC<sup>1365</sup> as well as the evidence from the investigation in Case 004/2 alone makes adopting a similar approach impossible, because measuring in such numerical categories would make many ordinary soldiers who routinely performed mass executions over periods of time, or their direct superior officers who ordered them, into persons most responsible, possibly leading to numerous new investigations under IR 55(4). That was clearly not something envisaged by the drafters of the law governing the ECCC, yet they were aware of the fact that this massive category of perpetrators existed and would not face justice.
444. The fact that, for example, the 2009 Penal Code contains provisions on genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes in Articles 183–198 and a general provision in Article 8 Penal Code declaring that “the Penal Code shall not constitute a condition for denial of justice for the victims of serious offences provided in a separate law in relation to violation of international humanitarian law, international practices, or international conventions recognized by the Kingdom of Cambodia,” does not allow the conclusion that there is jurisdiction for the ordinary courts. The reference above is to the ECCC Law, not to any law retrospectively authorising the ordinary courts.

445. Articles 3 and 10 of the 2009 Penal Code together embrace the rules of nullum crimen and of lex mitior i.e. that the most lenient law has to be applied if the law between the commission of the offence and the trial is amended. The 1956 Penal Code did not contain any provisions on the above-mentioned crimes, which would leave only domestic offences.
446. It is also far from clear whether Cambodian constitutional law would allow the direct application of offences recognised under international customary criminal law outside the remit of the ECCC Agreement and Law, because Article 31 of the 1993 Constitution only refers to human rights standards as possibly directly applicable. As the ICIJ explained in a different context, violations of human rights standards as such do not necessarily equate to criminal liability.<sup>1366</sup>
447. In sum, the effect of the ECCC Law on personal jurisdiction is in our view twofold: first it restricts the ECCC's own personal jurisdiction to those most responsible, and second it excludes any personal or subject-matter jurisdiction by the ordinary Cambodian courts over the events under the ECCC's temporal jurisdiction.
448. This doctrinal conclusion is also borne out by the empirical fact that there have been no investigations or prosecutions of such cases for lower-level perpetrators before any ordinary Cambodian court after the establishment of the ECCC, despite the fact that the DK period has left a major trauma in Cambodian society and there were numerous potential perpetrators still alive who had committed serious crimes, either directly or as superiors.
449. There is thus a massive impunity gap for crimes committed during the DK era. However, this finding must have no policy impact on the National CIJ's exercise of discretion regarding personal jurisdiction as we have other reasons.

B. Criminal Law Principles – Strict Construction, Selective Jurisdiction

450. For the exercise of discretion, there is a principle of strict construction of the criminal law. In some jurisdictions, the same effect would be achieved by the application of the principle of strict construction, for example, in Cambodian law<sup>1367</sup> and also at the ICC.<sup>1368</sup> Internal Rule 21(1) states that, "The applicable ECCC Law, Internal Rules, Practice Directions and Administrative Regulations shall be interpreted so as to always safeguard the interests of Suspects ... so as to ensure legal certainty and transparency of proceedings, in light of the inherent specificity of the ECCC.”<sup>1369</sup>

451. The application of strict construction is all the more crucial in systems where the law is often not fully settled, as is still the case in many areas of criminal law. Particularly, the instances of divergent interpretation of identical legal concepts in the ECCC and other courts, not least on the very issue of personal jurisdiction,<sup>1370</sup> are clear evidence of this.<sup>1371</sup> The case of a special court with a narrowly tailored personal, subject-matter and temporal jurisdiction, based on contentious negotiations between a national government and the international community in a post-conflict transitional scenario, which began operations for more than 20 (twenty) years after the events in question, is a prime example for the need of interpretational judicial restraint.
452. This is true not least because of the pressure exerted by the public’s expectations, by the media, on the grounds of concerns around the concept of impunity for mass atrocities, political agendas as well as previous historical research into the underlying events. In other words, in scenarios of this kind, the guilt of the suspects seems beyond debate ab initio and the judicial proceedings are not infrequently expected simply to attach the seal of official approval and confirmation to the pre-existing general view of history.
453. However, it is apposite to recall Robert H. Jackson’s words spoken at the conference of the American Society of International Law on 13 April 1945 on the contentious judicial approach to punishing the Nazi war criminals before the start of the Nuremberg trials: “That is one of the risks that are taken whenever trials are commenced. The ultimate principle is that you must put no man on trial under the forms of judicial proceedings if you are not willing to see him freed if not proven guilty.”<sup>1372</sup>
454. To disregard this banal, yet vital truth would be tantamount to subscribing to the odious statement by Benedict Carpzov from 1652, that “[i]t is well-known that in the cases of the most serious offences the boundaries of the law may be disregarded because of the enormity of the crime.”<sup>1373</sup>
455. The ECCC is quite clearly a court which exercises selective justice in the objective sense of the word, because only a certain small group of people will ever be prosecuted in the courts of Cambodia for the atrocities which occurred during the DK, namely those which fall under its own jurisdiction. That is to say no impunity enjoyed by any political leaders who caused the destruction to Cambodian society.

456. Signing the Agreement in the absence of a residual jurisdiction in the ordinary Cambodian courts was a conscious political choice during the negotiations, balancing the call for integration of the remaining Khmer Rouge into society against the desire for some form of judicial closure for the horrendous suffering of the victims, whether they are dead or still alive, their families and society as a whole.
457. In this context, the fact that the OCP itself had already on 8 September 2009<sup>1374</sup> and again on 26 November 2014<sup>1375</sup> publicly indicated that there would be no more new investigations initiated after Cases 003 and 004 needs to be mentioned. While no offender can under law claim that they are being treated unfairly because many others are not prosecuted who may be as responsible as they are, as long as they themselves receive a fair trial, selective prosecution in an already selective jurisdiction may present wider issues of moral fairness.<sup>1376</sup> This enhances the need for an acknowledgment of the fact that a rigorous and robust evaluation of the evidence against those few who are being investigated is required.
458. It is undoubtedly difficult from the point of view of general criminal policy for the public and the victims in the wider meaning of the term to accept, for example, that even the soldiers who routinely killed small children by bashing their heads against trees<sup>1377</sup> or who had competitions about who could kill the greatest number of people,<sup>1378</sup> should not face justice. The same applies to those who directly committed many gruesome and cruel barbarities such as, for example, eviscerating victims before executing them, collecting their gallbladders or livers and in some instances even cooking and eating them for consumption.<sup>1379</sup> In many domestic criminal justice systems such conduct would attract a whole life sentence without parole and in some countries possibly even the death penalty for each individual act of each individual offender.
459. This discrepancy, to iterate what was said above, was known during the negotiations by both the national and international sides. It is also a common feature of any international(ised) jurisdiction set up to bring judicial closure to post-conflict scenarios. The selective approach to jurisdiction with a de facto negotiated impunity for virtually the entirety of the former Khmer Rouge will appear unpalatable and indeed unfair to many. However, on the one hand the informed political decision of the drafters must be respected by the judges of the ECCC and, on the other hand, this state of affairs must not and cannot equate to a presumption of guilt or, more to the point, to an automatic presumption of senior responsibility for those few who are brought before the court by allegations of the OCP.

460. If at all, any such presumption must operate the other way. The fact that after such a long time some of the crucial evidence, through witnesses or otherwise, may have deteriorated to a point where reliable details, and indeed witnesses, may become difficult to come by, is not something which can ever be laid at the feet of any party or give rise to a lesser standard of proof for indictment or conviction, but based on a dispassionate evaluation of the evidence and interpretation of the law at all levels of the ECCC's judicial hierarchy, beginning with the Office of the Co-Investigating Judges.

C. Criteria for the Exercise of Discretion – Decision making in the DK Structures

461. The National CIJ noted that by adopting the definition laid out in its Appeal Judgment in Case 001, the SCC also implicitly held that there is no merit in any historical-political contention that the negotiations around the establishment of the ECCC led to a joint and binding understanding that only a certain finite number of (named) individuals were to be under the court's jurisdiction: The selection of persons to be investigated and indicted was and is purely a matter for the discretion of the OCP and OCIJ, and based entirely on the merits of each individual case.
462. In theory, a senior leader who had not been substantially involved in the criminal activities of the DK might fall outside the ambit of the court's jurisdictional reach as being not most responsible. Conversely, someone on the lower rungs of the hierarchy could be considered as one of the most responsible depending on their individual contribution to the atrocities. The relative gravity of the person's own actions and their effects are thus another valid point of reference, subject to what was said above with regard to the overall impact of mere numbers of victims. In that sense, the considerations to be employed for the question of personal jurisdiction are not entirely dissimilar to those one would use for sentencing purposes.

463. This should not detract from the obvious initial filtering effect that a person's formal position in the hierarchy has. One important, but not conclusive or exclusive, consideration in deciding who was among those most responsible is the degree to which the offender was able to contribute to or even determine policies and/or their implementation.
464. As our analysis of the evidence below will show, another general fact needs to be borne in mind, namely that despite the regular meetings held, decision-making in the Khmer Rouge hierarchy was not a formal democratic process with the possibility for egalitarian input from functionaries at any level and an ensuing discussion of the way forward. Decisions were made at the top and then implemented by the lower levels on pain of personal consequences at any level, but increasingly so the further down the chain of command one looks, if the orders were not adhered to. This does not contradict the fact that the policies were often couched in rather general terms by the top echelons and the lower cadres given some leeway regarding the details of the implementation of those policies which explicitly meant purging, smashing.
465. Nor does the increasing difficulty of maintaining organisational structures towards the end of the DK mandate a different point of view. Whether someone developed or had to develop their own initiative in these circumstances is not in and of itself a criterion that would elevate them into the category of those most responsible. The fact remains that at all time the ultimate definition of the content of policies and the means of their implementation rested with the top echelons who could interfere at will.
466. This was combined with the pervasive use of mostly vertical lines of communication in the chain of command and the accompanying intended secrecy which did generally not permit or at least not encourage or facilitate a free, egalitarian horizontal exchange of tactical and operational information on the levels below the top leadership. Indeed, openly discussing instructions from "Angkar" between, for example, regimental or battalion commanders could easily have been considered by the superior levels as the first step to insubordination, and no-one could be safe in the assumption that such conversations would not be reported in interested quarters with adverse effect upon themselves.

D. Historical Background of Searching for the Truth

467. After the liberation on 7 January 1979, although the judicial system in Cambodia was not operational, being willing to pursue the truth and justice for the victims, the Cambodian government established an official court to try Khmer Rouge leaders. Law Decree (Kret Chbab) No. 1 dated 15 July 1979 states that the jurisdiction is “to try the POL Pot – IENG Sary clique for the crime of genocide.”<sup>1380</sup> The leaders including IENG Sary and POL Pot were convicted in absentia on the crime of genocide and other crimes in August 1979.<sup>1381</sup>
468. In 1994, after the 1993 general election, former cadres of the DK regime did not participate [in the election] and continued to wage civil war. For the main purpose of national reconciliation, ending war and keeping the peace, the Royal Government adopted a law to outlaw the Democratic Kampuchea group.<sup>1382</sup> The law grants a stay of six months after coming into effect to those cadres who return to live under the control of the Royal Government. However, the stay does not apply to leaders of the Democratic Kampuchea group, and the condoned offences are only stipulated in the national law. Article 6 of the Law clearly states that, “For leaders of the Democratic Kampuchea group, the stay described in this law does not apply.”<sup>1383</sup> This indicates the intention of the Royal Government to pursue national reconciliation and at the same time pave the way for finding justice for the victims through the non-applicability of stay for leaders of the Democratic Kampuchea regime who could become a narrow target for a court which may be established in the future. Those who were the targets were the infamous senior leaders including IENG Sary, KHIEU Samphan and POL Pot.
469. In September 1996 in pursuit of peace, the King of the Kingdom of Cambodia issued a Royal Decree pardoning IENG Sary for the death sentence imposed by the 1979 default judgment and for the offences provided for in the 1994 Law to outlaw the Democratic Kampuchea group.<sup>1384</sup> The political will for the purpose of national reconciliation and ending war led to the end of armed conflict in 1998 and the Royal Government’s “win-win policy” led to the reintegration of Khmer Rouge soldiers in the Royal Armed Forces with the assurance that their property rights, ways of life and occupations are protected.

470. In 1997, the Royal Government of Cambodia contacted the United Nations for the purpose of establishing a tribunal to try those who were responsible for crimes committed during the Democratic Kampuchea regime.<sup>1385</sup> The Law on the Establishment of the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia for the prosecution of crimes committed during the period of Democratic Kampuchea was adopted in 2001 before an agreement between the Royal Government of Cambodia and the United Nations to prosecute under the Cambodia law the crimes that were committed during the period of Democratic Kampuchea was reached in June 2003. It took almost 10 (ten) years from 1997 for the ECCC to become fully operational in 2007 after the Internal Rules come into effect.
471. The negotiations of the agreement were conducted meticulously to ensure national reconciliation and finding justice as it went through hotly contested discussions on its content, in particular, on jurisdictional issues reflecting the ownership and integrity of Cambodia. Certain provisions which may contain constitutional uncertainties including capital punishment, time limit for prosecution and retroactivity of the law were submitted to the Constitutional Council of the Kingdom of Cambodia for examination. The Constitutional Council found that all Articles of the ECCC Law are compatible with the Constitution, except for Article 3 which refers to the 1956 Penal Code that carries capital punishment and thus is unconstitutional.<sup>1386</sup> As a result, there is no capital punishment for those crimes, otherwise it will contradict Article 38 of the 1993 Constitution of the Kingdom of Cambodia which abolishes capital punishment.
472. At the initial stage of the negotiation on the ECCC Agreement, the word “Leaders” was used, but later added with “Senior” to select only a very limited number of leaders who could fall under the jurisdiction of the ECCC. These refer merely to members of the Central Committee of the CPK and the Party Standing Committee. Even though there was no name list of those people, the working group was likely to refer specifically to top leaders such as POL Pot, NUON Chea, KHIEU Samphan, SON Sen, IENG Sary, Deputy Prime Minister in charge of the Foreign Affairs, KE Pauk, IENG Thirith, former Minister of Social Affairs, VANN Rith, former Minister of Commerce, Ta Mok<sup>1387</sup> who were all members of the Standing Committee and/or the Central Committee of the CPK.<sup>1388</sup>

473. During the negotiations, KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch, former Chief of S-21 Security Centre, was found alive and later detained in the military court facility.<sup>1389</sup> The phrase “those who were responsible” was therefore incorporated into Article 2 new of the ECCC Law. After rigorous discussions, both the United Nations and the Royal Government of Cambodia agreed to add the word “most” to “those who were responsible” forming the complete phrase “those who were most responsible.” Both sides took a similar view with respect to senior leaders who fell under the personal jurisdiction of the ECCC and Duch who was one of the cadres who were most responsible. Overall, it can be said that the phrase “those who were most responsible” was specifically included in reference to former S-21 Chief KAING Guek-Eav alias Duch. This means that had Duch not been found alive, the phrase would not exist in the ECCC law.
474. The inclusion of Duch means that those who were most responsible played a key role in committing crimes, close to the commission, under their autonomy and de facto authority. While both categories of persons are considered to fall under the jurisdiction of the ECCC, both “senior” and “most responsible” reflect that only a limited number of leaders may fall under the jurisdiction of the ECCC.
475. The issue of narrow jurisdiction was raised by the representative of the Royal Government of Cambodia during a National Assembly session to debate and pass the draft Law on the Establishment of the ECCC, on the specific ground that “the number of target persons must be limited and restricted to only senior leaders.”<sup>1390</sup> This stance was subsequently repeated.”<sup>1391</sup>
476. The ECCC Law provides that voting is required for decisions to be made by the Pre-Trial Chamber, Trial Chamber and Supreme Court Chamber as well as those of the investigative bodies including the Office of the Co-Prosecutors and the Office of the Co-Investigating Judges where officials in each section shall work together. Any decision made in these sections absolutely requires participation from the Cambodian side. At the Trial Chamber, it requires the affirmative vote of at least 4 (four) out of 5 (five) judges while at the Supreme Court Chamber, it requires at least 5 (five) out of 7 (seven) judges and at the Pre-Trial Chamber, it requires the affirmative vote of at least 4 (four) out of 5 (five) judges.<sup>1392</sup> This shows the structure of the Chambers in which the number of national judges is greater, which is different from other international tribunals, hence reflecting its name “Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia.”<sup>1393</sup>

477. A provision requires a work-together in the form of “Co-”. Not only does this mechanism provide an indirect sense of ownership, it also leaves room for disagreement between national and international judges concerning the proceedings, and solutions can be sought with appeals to the Pre-Trial Chamber. Based on the negotiation documents for the agreement, the issue of disagreement was actively debated and a solution mechanism via the Pre-Trial Chamber was adopted with the agreement as proposed by the national side that the national judges shall have a majority vote in each chamber where previously it was proposed that the international judges shall have the majority.<sup>1394</sup> This shows the intention of the national side to be the legislature. In general, the procedural system for decisions made by the Co-Prosecutors, the Co-Investigating Judges and Chambers provides an undeniable argument on the narrow jurisdiction in order to ensure national reconciliation and peace which is the main purpose of establishing the ECCC. The procedural system provided for in paragraph 476 highlights its feature distinct from other tribunals.
478. Finally, regarding the issue of any amnesty or pardon, the two sides agreed to include Article 40 new which vests the power in the Extraordinary Chambers to decide on any amnesty or pardon that may have been granted. This Article shows respect for the judiciary and may also indicate an intention not to let any suspects who are senior leaders such as IENG Sary get away with their responsibility. In addition, within its context, the prosecution of these senior leaders shall not extend to low-level cadres besides Duch whose name had already been considered by the legislature.
479. In March 1999, during the course of negotiation for the establishment of the ECCC, UNG Choeun alias Ta Mok was arrested in March 1999 on charges of committing criminal offence (genocide) in his position as a Khmer Rouge leader<sup>1395</sup> and Duch, former Tuol Sleng Prison chief, was arrested in May 1999 on charges of acting against the national security and committing crimes against humanity pursuant to the 2001 ECCC Law.<sup>1396</sup> During this period, in 2003, some former Khmer Rouge cadres including CHHOUK Rin was prosecuted by the national court on charges of terrorism for the execution of foreigners.<sup>1397</sup> The prosecution was held according to the national law and only for cadres who committed offences after 6 January 1979. This does not indicate an intention to deviate from a few target senior leaders who must be responsible for international crimes committed during the DK regime.

480. During the preparation of the negotiation on the ECCC Agreement, the Royal Government and the United Nations had a precise stance and commitment to emphasising and prioritising peace and national reconciliation as well as expressing concerns about possible insecurity resulting from prosecution during the proceedings of the ECCC that could affect the hard-attained national reconciliation.<sup>1398</sup>
481. The United Nations passed a resolution on 27 February 2003, recognising the legitimate concern of the Royal Government and the people of Cambodia in the pursuit of justice that could impact stability, national reconciliation and peace.<sup>1399</sup> On balance, the two purposes of “justice” and “national reconciliation” were therefore agreed upon and included in the Agreement.<sup>1400</sup>
482. In this regard, the purpose of the ECCC and the intention of the ECCC Agreement drafters were precise that the number of the persons who fall under the jurisdiction of the ECCC is limited, referring only to powerful senior leaders and those who were most responsible for participating actively in the commission of crimes or close to the commission through their de facto power and influence beyond their official authority.
483. Those target persons include NUON Chea, IENG Sary, KHIEU Samphan, IENG Thirith, Duch, and Ta Mok. Ta Mok who was a senior leader died in 2006; he was YIM Tith’s supervisor. Central Zone former secretary KE Pauk who died on 15 February 2002 was AO An’s supervisor. SON Sen and POL Pol passed away on 10 June 1997 and 15 April 1998, respectively.
484. In conclusion, after reviewing the history of searching for justice before establishing the ECCC, the positions of the parties during the course of drafting the ECCC Law and Agreement, the narrow interpretation of the criminal law, the selective jurisdiction, the actual meaning of the ECCC Law and the position of parties, in particular, the national side before the establishment of the ECCC where it focused on national reconciliation and searching for justice, it requires the need to make a balance by concentrating on few senior leaders as narrow targets. The representative of the Royal Government showed such a position during the National Assembly debate on the legislation.<sup>1401</sup> The National and International Co-Investigating Judges previously confirmed their respect for the spirit of the negotiating parties for the establishment of the ECCC.<sup>1402</sup>

V. Evidentiary Considerations

A. Statements other than Written Records of Interviews (WRIs) generated by the Co-Investigating Judges

485. The vast majority of the evidence relied on in Case 004/2 consists of WRIs generated by the OCIJ during the investigation, which are prepared under judicial supervision and subject to specific legal and procedural safeguards, and are thus entitled to a presumption of relevance and reliability.<sup>1403</sup> We consider that transcripts of trial proceedings from other ECCC cases, and placed on Case File 004/2 because of their relevance to the allegations, enjoy the same presumption.
486. Statements or other evidence collected without judicial supervision by entities external to the ECCC enjoy no such presumption.<sup>1404</sup> An exception to this rule is represented by statements prepared by DC-Cam, which the Trial Chamber has found to enjoy a rebuttable presumption of prima facie relevance and reliability.<sup>1405</sup> However, DC-Cam statements were generated without the judicial guarantees and formality that characterise WRIs.
487. Interviews conducted by the International Co-Prosecutor during his preliminary investigations, although prepared specifically for criminal proceedings, are not conducted under oath, and not signed and/or thumb-printed by the interviewees. They are prepared by the International Co-Prosecutor, a party with an inherent interest in the outcome of the case. Such statements are, however, collected for the purpose of a criminal trial and are therefore, in principle, afforded higher probative value than evidence not collected specifically for that purpose (including DC-Cam evidence).<sup>1406</sup>

488. Civil party applications enjoy no presumption of reliability and have been afforded little, if any, probative value if the circumstances in which they were recorded are not known.<sup>1407</sup> Civil party applications and victim complaints offering only general conclusions and therefore representing a “common narrative” as opposed to personal experiences have been treated as insufficient to establish relevant facts.<sup>1408</sup> Out-of-court statements by civil parties have been afforded low probative value.<sup>1409</sup>
489. In conclusion, and balancing these considerations, WRIs generated by the OCIJ and trial transcript enjoy a higher reliability presumption and have been afforded a higher probative value than statements prepared by other entities. With regard to the latter, a more cautious approach has been adopted in their assessment, and the information contained therein has been relied on only when corroborated by other sources.

B. Torture-tainted Evidence

490. Pursuant to Article 15 of the Convention against Torture, there is an absolute prohibition against relying on information contained in statements obtained under torture<sup>1410</sup> and in using such statements in the questioning of witnesses.<sup>1411</sup> Confessions of prisoners detained in the S-21 Security Centre are presumed to have been made under torture. This is a rebuttable presumption.<sup>1412</sup>
491. Information contained in S-21 confessions that originates from persons other than the torture victim, for example annotations made by the torturer, does not fall under this prohibition.<sup>1413</sup> Nor does Article 15 prohibit the use of information found in statements taken under torture during the DK to locate witnesses and possibly interview them.<sup>1414</sup> There is thus no prohibition against the use of evidence of witnesses identified in torture-tainted statements such as S-21 confessions and subsequently interviewed by the OCIJ.<sup>1415</sup>

VI. Findings and Conclusion on Personal Jurisdiction over AO An

492. Our findings that AO An does not fall within the ECCC’s personal jurisdiction are made taking into account AO An’s role and participation, the general characteristics of the DK regime and its policies, the genuine intent of the negotiators of the agreement to establish the ECCC – the Royal Government of Cambodia and the United Nations. Concerning AO An’s involvement in the regime, we will focus on the crime sites in relation to which AO An was charged through the ICP's Introductory and Supplementary Submissions even though eight facts have been excluded from the case by the OCIJ.

493. Based on the ICP's alleged factual findings, there were crime sites as security centres, detention centres and execution sites, district, sector or zone level worksites such as the purge in the Central Zone, Au Trakuon Security Centre, Baray Security Centre, Met Sop (Kor) Security Centre, Wat Phnom Pros Security Centre, Kok Pring Security Centre, Chamkar Svay Chanty Security Centre, Anlung Chrey Forced Labour Worksite, genocide in Kampong Cham Province, Wat Srange Security Centre, Tuol Ta Phlong Prison and Execution Site, Wat Kandal Security Centre, Baray Chan Dek Security Centre, Wat Ta Meak Security Centre, Kampong Siem Security Centre in Wat Angkuonh Dei, execution site in Tuol Beng Village, and forced marriage in Sector 41 (Kampong Siem and Prey Chhor districts). A number of crime sites were located in Sector 41 where AO An was Sector Secretary.

AO An's role and participation are not beyond the official authority over the implementation of [CPK] policies

494. The evidence found shows that AO An was a member of the Sector 25 Committee of the Southwest Zone after the liberation on 17 April 1975. Then AO An was transferred to Sector 35 of the Southwest Zone and held that position for a brief period. In mid-1977 AO An was transferred among the Southwest Zone cadres to the Central Zone in the framework of the implementation of the purge policy. Those cadres were deployed and occupied the positions of the Central Zone cadres who had been purged. A number of witnesses including KE Pauk asserted that, "In June 1977 the first stage of capturing was over. By that time, only me (KE Pauk) remained and the Central Zone had no cadres left. The upper brothers decided to transfer the Southwestern Zone to fill the unoccupied positions. They sent about 200 from that Zone."<sup>1416</sup>
495. Upon arrival at the Central Zone, AO An was appointed by Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk as the Sector 41 Secretary. After some time, Sreng, Zone Deputy Secretary, was purged and this position was vacant for a while, and AO An was also appointed as Deputy Secretary of the Central Zone. AO An acknowledges his role as Sector 41 Secretary. However, no official DK record corroborates this official appointment.

496. As the Sector 41 Secretary, AO An controlled administrative work and general management (Section II, 4.6). Sector 41 was not autonomous. Therefore, AO An had no right to report directly to the Central Committee of the CPK or Office 870. As for the role of Deputy Secretary of the Central Zone, there is no evidence confirming AO An was responsible for any particular work, either military, security, or economy. What is clear is that AO An had to work through KE Pauk and under orders from KE Pauk without fail. Witness NHEM Chen, former bodyguard of AO An, stated that, “I was close to Ta An, and I asked him whether or not he pitied the others. He told me, ‘If I do not obey orders, they will kill me too.’”<sup>1417</sup>
497. Evidence shows that AO An might also have been involved in giving orders to arrest and execute a small number of people. For example, the arrest of Ta Am (PRAK Yuth’s spouse) who was chief of Sector 41 Office, and the order to arrest a man named Hum for committing a moral offence with AO An’s younger sister-in-law. The witness who was AO An’s bodyguard stated that, “He (AO An) ordered that whatever necessary had to be done in accordance with 1977 plans; they all had to be killed because from 1978 onward there would not be any killing. By 1978 the situation would improve, the killing would cease, and there would be thick gruel for us to eat.”<sup>1418</sup> Similarly, as the Sector 41 Secretary, AO An chaired sector level meetings, laying out plans to visit worksites, security centres and held meetings to disseminate and strengthen the Party stance and hard work and not to conspire with enemies, etc.
498. Concerning the treatment of Cham people, evidence shows that AO An participated in leading the dissemination of the policy targeting on Cham people, continued implementing orders by instructing the district level to collect data on Cham people and to follow up work progress through the reporting regime, and received reports back from lower ranks. The treatment of Cham people occurred remarkably in the districts of Kang Meas and Kampong Siem of Sector 41 where there were more Cham people [than in other districts] and because of the Cham rebellion against DK policies. For this reason, Cham people were ruthlessly suppressed, for instances, the burning of the Koran Bible, the ban on Cham religious practices and language, [and] coercion [by Angkar] to consume pork and dog meat. (para.140)

499. The treatment was seen in a consistent form with the participation of the cadres of all levels in line with CPK policies. Witness SALES Ahmat said that, “The evacuation began since 1976 and continued until 1978 before the liberation. Such meeting was conducted to evaluate the implementation of Cham race cleansing plan in order to assess a degree of their outcomes.”<sup>1419</sup> Moreover, this witness added that, “By the end of 1978, there was a meeting participated by sub-district, district, and sector levels and in the presence of KE Pauk, with a question about how much percentage the party’s plan had been implemented.”<sup>1420</sup>
500. With regard to forced marriage, AO An participated in and coordinated forced marriages within Sector 41. Forced marriage was the official policy intended to increase the population so that it would not be too outnumbered by neighbouring countries. A witness stated that, “He (AO An) spoke about the marriage planning. They planned to raise new forces, to increase the population to 15 or 20 million in the next 15 or 20 years. This was the Asian plan, referring to POL Pot’s Plan.”<sup>1421</sup>
501. In brief, AO An’s participation in the treatment of the Cham in Kampong Cham province, in the suppression or general mistreatment of the people of the Central Zone or, in particular, the people in Sector 41, including forced marriage in Kampong Siem and Prey Chhor districts, was shared in line with the CPK’s top-down systematic policy. Arrests and executions of so-called enemies had occurred in the Central Zone before AO An and the Southwest Zone group arrived there.
502. There is minimal evidence showing that AO An participated in the commission of certain acts; however, those allegations appear to be unreliable given the fact that the witness statements were likely to incriminate AO An, for instance, witness PRAK Yuth alias Yeay Yuth, former secretary of Kampong Siem district, Sector 41 who used to work under AO An and the other witness named KE Pich Vanak, who is the son of Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk.

503. The OCIJ has questioned PRAK Yuth alias Yeay Yuth, former secretary of Kampong Siem district, 10 (ten)<sup>1422</sup> times. First, she said she did not know AO An. Later she asserted that she knew him since they worked in the Southwest Zone and were transferred to the Central Zone together. Concerning the suppression and the purge of the Cham people, this witness was directly involved in and actively participated [in these activities] as Kampong Siem district secretary. PRAK Yuth's statements given at a later stage appeared to lay the blame more and more squarely on AO An.
504. Remarkably, PRAK Yuth, former secretary of Kampong Siem district, gave statements with suffering and discontent with the DK regime. In her fourth and fifth interviews, PRAK Yuth clearly stated that, "Since the arrest of my husband, I lost confidence in the Revolution because I loved my husband. I could not speak out then, but inside myself I felt hopeless"<sup>1423</sup> and "I am not satisfied with the Revolution due to the arrest and removal of my husband from his position."<sup>1424</sup>
505. Witness KE Pich Vannak gave inculpatory statements concerning the order to kill people at Phnom Pros, claiming that according to the statement of TA Vey Reap, Central Zone Division Chairman, "Bang An was the one who ordered it." It was just hearsay and no corroborated testimony. In contrast, witness VORNG Sokun used to see KE Pauk standing and ordering to kill people. The presence of KE Pauk at Phnom Pros was supplemented by witness SA Nau and many other witnesses.<sup>1425</sup> It may be appropriate given the fact that Phnom Pros was a zone-level security centre under the supervision of KE Pauk who was Zone Secretary.<sup>1426</sup> KE Pauk's son named KE Pich Vannak may have given exculpatory statements in favour of his father. It is affirmed that the International Co-Investigating Judge removed Phnom Pros Security Centre from the Case File and ceased to continue investigation, and the International Co-Prosecutor did not contest.
506. To believe in any witness statement, either inculpatory or exculpatory AO An requires balancing several considerations, including the strict context of the Khmer Rouge regime, that is mind your own business and the fact that the events took place nearly 40 (forty) years ago, which may give rise to questions of memory. This does not include other matters that have not been taken into account through the scientific method. A witness noted that, "This thing happened 36 to 37 years ago; no one recorded this story. Since I was just a small leader of the soldiers, how am I supposed to have known about it? I just know that the events did actually happen."<sup>1427</sup> This casts doubt on evidence concerning the participation and role of AO An in the alleged crimes.

507. AO An was not a member or candidate member of the Central Committee of the CPK. According to the CPK's top-down hierarchy, AO An may have come fortieth in the zone level or seventieth as the sector secretary among the members of the Central Committee of the CPK, the Standing Committee, all zone secretaries and all autonomous sector secretaries. He had no more than 40 (forty) subordinates in the Sector 41 Office.
508. AO An's participation occurred in the context of purges in the Central Zone which were about to end. The statement of KHIEU Samphan alias Hem, the President of the State Presidium, about amnesty (stop the killings) clearly indicates the existence of the purges and arguably the number of arrests or executions actually decreased when AO An arrived at the Central Zone.
509. In addition, death rates still continued following the arrival of AO An at the Central Zone because at that time Cambodia faced a nationwide famine and starvation due to the implementation of DK policies, especially as the upper Angkar required people at the bases to produce "three tons [of rice] per hectare" in order to secure export markets, without providing sufficient nutrition to them and there were almost no healthcare services for them. This caused nationwide deaths from starvation and diseases, including in Sector 41 of the Central Zone where AO An served as the Sector Secretary.
510. AO An held the position of Sector 41 Secretary for about one year and Zone Deputy Secretary for a while before the collapse of the DK regime in early 1979. Many witnesses stated that they did not know AO An, his participation and responsibilities. While some witnesses said AO An just received orders from the upper echelon, which was referred to KE Pauk or the Central Committee of the CPK. In fact, Central Zone Secretary KE Pauk used to give the order to Sector 41 Secretary AO An that, "At that sector, An observed and arrested all the enemies quickly, according their plan. He was forced to do so by the upper echelon."<sup>1428</sup>

KE Pauk had the authority and power to control the whole Central Zone effectively even during his occasional absence

511. Although Sector Secretary AO An did participate in the commission of crimes, his participation was not beyond orders and was under the authority and control of Zone Secretary KE Pauk.
512. The existing evidence does not clearly show that AO An took control in lieu of KE Pauk as Acting Zone Deputy Secretary during periods when KE Pauk was occasionally absent. Evidence from many witnesses' statements directly stated that they never saw AO An at the Central Zone Office working on behalf of KE Pauk when [he was] absent, except when AO An had to attend zone-level meetings.
513. In those days, as Zone Secretary, KE Pauk was rarely absent from the Zone. Witness SUON Kanil stated that, "As I know, KE Pauk did not leave for anywhere during the period of 3 years, 8 months and 20 days. He was absent only when he went to battlefields, attended meetings in Phnom Penh or oversaw dam/dyke construction for a short period of time."<sup>1429</sup> KE Pauk might have been absent from the Zone Office only for three main tasks: (1) paying field visits to the Zone, (2) attending meetings in Phnom Penh, and (3) standing by in the East Zone to monitor the situation and fight against Vietnam along the border.
514. From time to time, KE Pauk had to attend meetings in Phnom Penh, and the one who replaced him was Zone Office Chief. SUON Kanil, former chief of telegram group at the Office of the Central Zone Committee, stated that, "In case KE Pauk was absent, people came to meet with the Chairperson of the Central Zone Office named Suor."<sup>1430</sup> No witnesses asserted that AO An came to replace KE Pauk when he was absent. Such work arrangements were also applied in the East Zone. SAO Phim, East Zone Secretary, assigned the East Zone Office Chief to act on his behalf when he was absent.<sup>1431</sup> Such a practice was an administrative norm applied in that regime. On the other hand, as a rule, each cadre had to take responsibility for his/her job.
515. KE Pauk had to move to the front line in the East Zone during the conflict with Vietnam. He would not be absent for long or not totally absent given that the Command Headquarters at which he was working was located in Ponhea Kraek of the East Zone. It was to the east of the Mekong River, which divided the Central Zone and the East Zone. It was about 20 (twenty) kilometres away from the Central Zone. It took him about 20 (twenty) minutes by car, enabling him to return to the Central Zone easily. For this reason, monitoring important tasks from the East Zone Command Headquarters was not difficult. In case of urgencies, the Office might have assigned a messenger to take documents to KE Pauk in person.

516. Many witnesses stated that KE Pauk strictly controlled and gave orders regarding all work in the Zone. All work was required to go through him. He was the only person who had the authority to chair Zone meetings. Moreover, the witness testimony of former chief of telegram group at the Central Zone Office clearly showed that, “Every outgoing and incoming telegram must be delivered to KE Pauk.”<sup>1432</sup> Therefore, when something needed an urgent decision-making, a messenger was assigned to send [reports] to him immediately.<sup>1433</sup>
517. There are 225<sup>1434</sup> (two hundred and twenty-five) pieces of corresponding documentary telegram evidence in total, with the upper echelon, in which there are up to 13<sup>1435</sup> (thirteen) telegrams containing the name of KE Pauk. In fact, there is only one telegram highlighted the name of An, Sector 41 Secretary, from KE Pauk addressed to Office 870 concerning the arrest of 2 (two) soldiers in Sector 41.<sup>1436</sup> In addition, no confessions from S-21 Security Centre contain AO An's annotations as Deputy Secretary of the Central Zone or Sector 41 Secretary. On the contrary, there are KE Pauk's annotations remaining on at least 4<sup>1437</sup> (four) among at least 160<sup>1438</sup> (one hundred and sixty) confessions at the S-21 Security Centre.
518. Many witnesses affirmed that Ta An only held the position of Zone Deputy Secretary but he had no authority to make decisions. All the decisions were made by KE Pauk alone at the zone level. In fact, Ta An only had the power to decide on the work within his Sector 41.<sup>1439</sup> KE Pauk received [orders] from POL Pot alias SALOTH Sar or Ta Ti Muoy, and Ta An received [orders] from KE Pauk.<sup>1440</sup>
519. Among the 7 (seven) zone secretaries of the DK regime, KE Pauk was the second highly influential Zone Secretary after Ta Mok, Secretary of the Southwest Zone. He was the most powerful and influential man in the Central Zone. Based on the power hierarchy in the Central Zone, AO An was under orders from KE Pauk who was Zone Secretary and Member of the CPK Central Committee. Moreover, KE Pauk also held the highest military rank and participated in leading the fight against Vietnam as well as purges in the East Zone in 1978. KE Pauk worked closely with the important leaders of the CPK Standing Committee, including SON Sen, Ta Mok, NUON Chea, and POL Pot.

520. Former President of the State Presidium of the DK regime KHIEU Samphan alias Hem stated that, “The Zone Chief was the lord.”<sup>1441</sup> Duch also stated that zone secretaries had the authority to arrest and order execution, based on the decision dated 30 March 1976, which reads: “The right to smash inside and outside the ranks, if in the base framework, to be decided by the Zone Standing [Committee].”<sup>1442</sup> Former S-21 Security Centre Chief KAING Guek Eav alias Duch clearly defined the phrase “the Zone Standing [Committee] as “the Zone Secretary”. Moreover, KE Pauk’s strong relationship with other senior leaders made him most influential and powerful in the Central Zone, in other word, “KE Pauk was the person to be feared of” and among the leaders of this Zone, KE Pauk was the only person who managed to escape the Central Zone purge.

The policy to suppress had to be implemented without fail, or otherwise the anti-policy cadres would be purged

521. To consider the jurisdiction, a number of factors will be examined at the judges’ discretion. The first factor is policies and the organizational structure where AO An was, especially with a view to knowing the level and influence of AO An. Policies and organizational structure are detailed in Section II above, Observation of Facts, and this section is only a summary.
522. After being in power on 17 April 1975, DK organized the military and civilian structure at national and sub-national levels. The civilian structure includes the Central Committee of the CPK; the Standing Committee of the Central Committee of the CPK; Zone; Sector; District, Cooperative. In addition, there were government, ministries and offices. DK had constitution, the judiciary and people’s representative assembly. However, both the judiciary and the assembly had no power and did not function at that time.

523. Based on the CPK Statute, the Central Committee of the CPK comprised 30 (thirty) members. It had more power, but as a matter of fact such power rested in the hands of the 7-member Standing Committee of the Central Committee of the CPK, namely, Ta Mok and SAO Phim, Zone Secretaries located at the base, POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, SON Sen, and VORN Vet, who worked in Phnom Penh. AO An was not a member of the Central Committee nor of the Standing Committee. The 5 (five) leaders who had the authority and power over the country were POL Pot, NUON Chea, IENG Sary, SON Sen, and VORN Vet.
524. The DK regime was led by the system of collective leadership, following socialism and prioritising agriculture. To achieve the main goals, certain policies had been implemented before the liberation in 1975, namely, policies of forced movement, forced marriage, suppression of enemies and specific ethnic groups, etc. The forced movement was carried out in three phases: Phase One – in 1975 expulsion from Phnom Penh to rural areas across the country; Phase Two – expulsion from Kandal and Takeo provinces to Battambang and Pursat provinces. Besides security reasons, the expulsion was intended to increase agricultural workforces at the bases, producing higher quantities of rice for export as set out by the policy to produce “three tons per hectare”. It also included the identification of traitorous elements among the population. This was used to support the expulsion in Phase Three, from the East Zone to the Northwest Zone in late 1977 or early 1978, in order to search for traitorous networks conspiring with Vietnam.
525. People were classified as base people and new people (17 April 1975 people) who entered the locality after the liberation in 1975. Vietnamese and Kampuchea Krom people were ruthlessly suppressed. Base people had certain privileges, but later all of them were treated by cadres in the same way such as forced labour, punishment and sometimes execution if they failed to perform in line with Angkar's policies or their relatives had been involved in groups the DK regime considered “enemies”.
526. Members of each family were separated to perform labour at worksites, near or far depending on the district or sector levels, which the Party had determined. Parents were separated from their children, and in some cases, the latter could not recognize the former, or called their mom auntie, thanks to the ideology leading them to treat themselves as the children of Angkar. Spouses were separated and they rarely met. If there was no permission to have family gathering, those who violated [the rule] would be punished. The food ration was provided two times a day in a communal eating hall. It would be reduced or deprived as punishment if they committed any wrongdoing. People did not have private property, and even vegetables or fruits cultivated around their houses were considered collective property. All the property was considered communal property. Banknotes and markets were not available throughout the country.

527. People had no right to choose their spouses. The Party organized and implemented the policy of forced marriage. Religious practice was prohibited since the Party considered it reactionary religion that obstructed the development of the country. Buddhist monks were disrobed and pagodas were destroyed or transformed into warehouses or detention centres. Muslims were forced to consume pork, and the Koran was burned.
528. Such circumstance made people fearful and traumatised and did not dare to speak out. Everyone minded only their own business, hid their identities, kept a secret, and did not dare to ask about other people's job for fear that the Angkar with the eyes of pineapples would find fault with them and take them away for execution. Every second people lived in fear and were on the edge of death. The Party utilized the system of surveillance of every single activity every time and everywhere, every unit with dissemination of policies and did background checks in order to find weaknesses for improvement. Everyone had to work hard. They did not dare to take a rest because they had to follow the Party's plan without complaining. When sick they did not dare to stop working for fear of being sent out for re-education. In the DK regime, there were not any hospitals and sufficient medication, and, in short, healthcare services were provided without quality. These made people overworked, sick, starved, and hundreds/thousands of people died.
529. People enjoyed no security and personal safety in the context of suppression policy which existed prior to 1975. As a matter of fact, after the liberation in 1975, former civil servants and LON Nol soldiers, intellectuals and their relatives were arrested, disappeared, and executed for being enemies of the revolution or the network of reactionary CIA, KGB, etc.

530. The suppression began with arrests of a large number of zone leaders to be executed at S-21 Security Centre, namely, KOY Thuon alias Thuch, Minister of Commerce and Secretary of the North Zone; SAO Phim, Member of the [CPK] Standing Committee and Secretary of the East Zone; VORN Vet, Member of the [CPK] Standing Committee; RUOS Nhim, Secretary of the Northwest Zone; and KANG Chab alias Se, Secretary of the New North Zone.
531. The suppression became widespread across the country, particularly in 1976, after the Central Committee of the CPK's decision dated 30 June 1976, and coincided with the word "enemies" whose meaning was broadened and utilized widely, including those who woke up late for work; applied the brakes and the cars did not stop; caused ploughshares to break when ploughing; caused hoe edges to deform; transplanted wrong rice seedlings; broke bowls and spoons. They would be accused of being enemies and executed without justice sought and judicial process.
532. No less than 196 (one hundred and ninety-six) security centres were created throughout the country to detain, temper, interrogate, torture and execute traitorous elements throughout the country including senior cadres, civilians and soldiers. More than 60 (sixty) senior cadres and nearly 2,000,000 (two million) people died and were executed during the period of 3 years, 8 months and 20 days, starting from 17 April 1975 to 6 January 1979.
533. The above-mentioned policies and treatment were organized by senior cadres and disseminated widely to all places, further down to the bases through dissemination meetings. The work plan and direction were implemented by cadres based on their roles without argument. In case of complaint or failure to fulfil their tasks, or being undisciplined, the cadres of all levels would be tempered, and in a serious case, they would be arrested and executed. AO An asserted that he had to comply absolutely [with all orders] and feared for his life if he did not.
534. The DK regime followed a specific leadership style, as reflected in the policy of persecution at the national level, implemented throughout the country in the collective leadership structure, which cadres at all levels had to respect and follow. Enemies or enemies of the revolution largely dominated their own population. The facts about starvation and execution policies were objective, which was publicly known. The context of treatment and the form of ruling in the DK regime were different from what happened in Yugoslavia, Rwanda, and Sierra Leone, which brought about the establishment of international criminal tribunals similar to the ECCC. This is different from the ethnic conflicts between Hutu and Tutsi, which led to genocide in Rwanda.<sup>1443</sup> This is different from genocide committed by Serbian nationalists, led by former President Slobodan Milosevic against Croats and Bosnians.<sup>1444</sup>

535. As the Co-Investigating Judges already confirmed in the Closing Order in Case 004/1, in this context, although a cadre initiated a work plan, it may not deviate far from the policy line and cannot show that that cadre was powerful. Whether someone developed or had to develop their own initiative in these circumstances is not in and of itself a criterion that would elevate them into the category of those most responsible.<sup>1445</sup>

Narrow personal jurisdiction showed during the negotiations to create the ECCC

536. In determining whether AO An was a senior leader or most responsible person besides examining participation activities, it is also necessary to examine the intent of the drafters of the ECCC Law and Agreement. It is appropriate when the contents of the Law and Agreement fail to define the terms “senior leaders” or “those most responsible”.
537. Before creating the ECCC, the government established a national tribunal in 1979 to prosecute Khmer Rouge leaders POL Pot and IENG Sary for crimes of genocide in pursuit of truth and justice. Following the Paris Peace Agreement signed in France in 1991, the 1993 Cambodian general election was held in the hope that the DK leaders would participate and bring peace, putting an end to the protracted civil war for more than 10 (ten) years since 1979. But this group did not participate in the election and denied its results and continued to attack Cambodian people. For the sake of peace, Cambodia outlawed the DK group in 1994. This Law gave low-ranking armed forces 6 (six) months to defect if they did not wish to be brought to trial. The purpose of this Law was to persuade Khmer Rouge soldiers to come and live in peace, but meanwhile, to try DK leaders in pursuit of justice for the victims of the crimes committed between 1975 and 1979. Article 40 new of the [ECCC] Law does not grant an amnesty for those leaders.

538. In 2003, the Cambodian court tried former low-ranking cadres CHHOUK Rin and NUON Paet for national crimes. This does not mean that Cambodia targeted on low-level cadres who had committed international crimes. With the aim of ending the war and national reconciliation, the King of the Kingdom of Cambodia signed a pardon for DK leaders in 1996, and Ta Mok, a senior leader, and Duch, generally known as S-21 Security Centre Chief (Tuol Sleng Prison) were arrested.
539. In June 1997, the Royal Government of Cambodia wrote a letter to the United Nations seeking assistance in the creation of the ECCC. The Royal Government was aware of the amnesty, but it remained willing to continue to seek justice. Leaders Duch and Ta Mok who were held in detention were also targeted.
540. The creation of the ECCC was not a coincidence, but it was the result of negotiations for more than 10 (ten) years from 1997 to 2007 between the Royal Government of Cambodia and the United Nations. The real purpose of establishing the ECCC was to end the culture of impunity for international crimes. However, this process should not affect peace. As a matter of fact, the negotiations on personal jurisdiction were so intense. The Royal Government's intent was to focus mainly on senior leaders. This reflects the word "senior" added to "leaders" on which the United Nations and the Royal Government of Cambodia agreed. This wording was clearly referred to Ta Mok who was held in detention and other leaders. The phrase "those most responsible" was included later in the jurisdictional provisions after knowing that Duch was still alive. Cambodia agreed on the case against Duch because he had been arrested and detained. The prosecution documents on these two individuals and their detention would explain the intention to send them for trial after the ECCC was established.<sup>1446</sup>
541. During the negotiations, both sides disagreed on the number of judges in each chamber and a dispute-resolution mechanism mainly proposed by the Cambodian side to guarantee sovereignty, and a compromise was finally reached. The Pre-Trial Chamber was created to resolve disagreement between co-investigating judges, etc. Each chamber is composed of Cambodian majority judges. For instance, the Pre-Trial Chamber consists of 3 (three) Cambodian judges and 2 (two) international judges. The structure of the special court and method of participation by national and international judges clearly reflects undeniable most narrow selective jurisdiction. Therefore, although there are facts concerning the Charged Person, based on the interpretation of the law, the Charged Person falls outside the ECCC's personal jurisdiction of "senior leaders" or "those most responsible". Finally, if Cambodia had no intention to bring to trial Khmer Rouge senior leaders, it was likely that Cambodia would not request any assistance in establishing the ECCC because Cambodia was well aware that IENG Sary had been granted a pardon. Article 40 new of the ECCC Law gives power to the Extraordinary Chambers to consider an amnesty or pardon. Eventually, during the discussion on the ECCC draft law, the Government representative clearly stated in the Cambodian National Assembly session that [the number of] target persons to be prosecuted by the ECCC had to be limited and restricted.<sup>1447</sup>

542. In summary, the activities and intention of the Cambodian side before and during the negotiations to create the ECCC illustrate narrow personal jurisdiction to find justice and maintain peace. Those target persons were senior leaders and Duch, the only most responsible person. In the Closing Order in Case 004/1, the Co-Investigating Judges asserted that the judges of the ECCC must respect political decision of the drafters.<sup>1448</sup>

AO An's participation in criminal acts was inactive, indirect unlike Duch's participation

543. In the Closing Order in Case 004/1, the Co-Investigating Judges asserted about comparability between the suspect and other suspects in order to determine whether or not they fall under the ECCC jurisdiction,<sup>1449</sup> and so did both the Co-Prosecutors and the Charged Person.<sup>1450</sup> Such comparison will also help uniformity of decision.
544. AO An, Deputy Secretary of Sector 41, was more senior than KAING Guek Eav alias Duch who was just S-21 Security Centre Chief among approximately 196 (one hundred and ninety-six)<sup>1451</sup> security centres across the country. However, the evidence collected, does not suggest the exact number of AO An's subordinates and his direct activities in exercising his own inclusive power.

545. Duch had about 200 (two hundred) staff members under his direct supervision for daily operation. AO An was designated as Deputy Secretary of the Central Zone for a brief period and Secretary of Sector 41 for only more than one year. [AO An] had around 40 (forty) subordinates and did not have any military role. AO An was in charge of disseminating policies and instructing people to work hard with regard to agricultural production, as opposed to KAING Guek Eav alias Duch, former Chief of S-21 Security Centre, who was in charge of security concerning arrests, interrogation and execution. Moreover, Duch held the position of [S-21 Security] Centre chief for almost the entire DK period.
546. He was an individual of high status, but he seemed to have less power and influence. In fact, as the evidence above shows, AO An was under KE Pauk. AO An had no autonomy and no de facto authority. AO An could not communicate with the upper echelon directly whereas KAING Guek Eav alias Duch whose position was not senior but important enjoyed work autonomy and real de facto authority. In addition, S-21 Security Centre, as the central prison, had the authority to arrest prisoners throughout the country, regardless of their positions – civilian and military. With the authority [vested in him], Duch directly communicated first with SON Sen, Member of the Standing Committee and last with NUON Chea, Member of the Standing Committee and Party Deputy Secretary.
547. Duch initiated, directly participated and planned the implementation of instructions and follow-up. For instance, Duch reported to the upper echelon about exaggerated quantity of rice with intent to receive appreciation, despite shortages [of rice] at S-21, which caused prisoners to starve. Duch clearly created or made up administrative management at the S-21 Security Centre, showing highly effective work. For instance, sometimes Duch directly led the commission of crimes with his subordinates. As a consequence, up to 20,000 (twenty thousand) people died over the course of operation at S-21 Security Centre where Duch was the chief during the DK regime. Duch's activism included torture, interrogation, analysis, annotation, [and] written reports addressed directly to the upper echelon in order to continue to dig up the grass, but in no way did AO An do such things.
548. Duch's participation was direct and highly active in nature and thus clearly reflects the acts of Duch who was a barbarous prison chief in the history of mankind in the late 20th century. This also reflects his key role which was just indispensable in the commission of crimes and his great eminence compared to other cadres who served as security centre chiefs like him or higher. To this end, the decision to hold him most responsible is absolutely correct and really appropriate, thus adding the phrase “those most responsible” to hold him responsible when he was known to be at large at that time.

549. AO An attended meetings on policies in the Central Zone, chaired meetings in Sector 41, and reached out to the labour worksites, disseminating policies and inspecting a number of the security centres. AO An played a rather more coordinating role, in relation to the treatment of Cham people and forced marriage. On the contrary, there is certainly very little evidence that shows orders to arrest and execute people were given by AO An.
550. An estimate drawn from the evidence shows that the number of victims from the crime sites where AO An is charged with is not as many as the ones raised by the International Co-Prosecutor, that is approximately 400,000 (four hundred thousand). The number of these victims was not those of direct acts of AO An. In addition, no forensic [evidence] suggests the death toll before or during periods when AO An took charge in the Central Zone, particularly in Sector 41. The number of the people who died from starvation and execution remains to be seen.
551. AO An's activities does not show the outstanding nature beyond the work routine compared to those who were Sector Secretaries or Zone Deputy Secretaries like AO An in accordance with the principle of selective jurisdiction of the ECCC.

Conclusion

552. Having presented AO An's role, authority, and participation, AO An's relation to KE Pauk and the authority KE Pauk had as the Zone Secretary, having compared Duch's authority, role and participation to AO An's, DK policies and authority structure and history and the intent of the parties to the Agreement and the ECCC Law, it is concluded that AO An's role was not officially appointed. The participation in the activities was shared according to the role and responsibility, without de facto authority. He acted upon orders from and instructions of KE Pauk, who led the Central Zone on a regular, direct or indirect basis, although he had missions in the East Zone occasionally or for a short period. KE Pauk had power and influence and was the only person at the zone level who survived in the context of the purges in the Central Zone.

553. AO An served as the Sector 41 Secretary of the Central Zone for a short period in the context of the Party purges in which cadres of all levels participated. Had [he] denied, [he] would not have escaped death. AO An's participation in the commission of crimes was non-autonomous, inactive, non-creative, and indirect, which is far different from Duch's active, direct and creative participation. Moreover, AO An did not participate in making CPK policies.

For the foregoing reasons, we hereby decide<sup>1452</sup>

554. The ECCC has no personal jurisdiction over AO An.
555. DISMISS the charges against AO An.

<sup>1371</sup> For example, at the ECCC, the Pre-Trial Chamber has previously held that customary international law during 1975-1979 required a nexus between the underlying acts of crimes against humanity and an armed conflict; D427/2/12, Criminal Case File No: 002/19-09-2007-ECCC/OCIJ (PTC145 & PTC146), Decision on IENG Thirith’s and NUON Chea’s Appeals against the Closing Order, 13 January 2011, Classification: Public, p. 6; D427/4/14, Criminal Case File No: 002/19-09-2007-ECCC/OCIJ (PTC104), Decision on KHIEU Samphan’s Appeal against the Closing Order, 13 January 2011, Classification: Public, p. 4; D427/1/26, Criminal Case File No: 002/19-09-2007-ECCC/OCIJ (PTC75), Decision on IENG Sary’s Appeal against the Closing Order, 13 January 2011, Classification: Public, pp. 4-5. However, the Trial Chamber later rejected the nexus requirement being part of the crimes against humanity definition during 1975-1979; see Case File No. 002-E95/8, Decision on Co-Prosecutors’ Request to Exclude Armed Conflict Nexus Requirement from the Definition of Crimes

<sup>1414</sup> One of the policy rationales underpinning Article 15 of the Convention against Torture is to remove any incentive for states to engage in torture. To avoid frustrating this policy rationale, in stating the legitimacy of using evidence located through information obtained under torture it is necessary to distinguish between the following two scenarios. Firstly, a situation where torture information is used by the torturing authorities to locate witnesses, suspects, fugitives or to otherwise further an ongoing investigation; and secondly, a situation where a judicial authority investigating the torturers seeks to use information elicited by the latter in order to identify possible sources of evidence against them. Allowing the use of torture information as investigative leads in the first scenario could incentivise the use of torture. So, for example, if an intelligence agency obtains a statement through torture, and subsequently uses names provided in that statement to locate a stash of documents or a person with information relevant to the investigation, those documents or the testimony of that person should not be admitted as evidence in any proceedings. In the second scenario, however, the judicial authority is neither directly nor indirectly connected to the torturing authorities, and would use possible leads to locate evidence against the torturers. In our view, evidence from witnesses located on the basis of statements obtained under torture can only be used in the second scenario.

<sup>1452</sup> The National Co-Investigating Judge wishes to recall that he does not recognize or accept as valid any documents created and/or filed by former International Reserve Co-Investigating Judge Laurent Kasper-Ansermet, and hence the Case File document numbering should run from the last document put on the Case File by former Co-Investigating Judge Siegfried Blunk and not count any documents filed by Judge Kasper-Ansermet. The National Co-Investigating Judge further notes that in the framework of practices by Cambodia and ..., the facts that failed to be notified or disclosed during the investigation are inadmissible for legal consideration in this Closing Order; however, given that this Closing Order dismisses the case on the mere ground of lack of personal jurisdiction, the criteria that are not applicable under the national law, the National Co-Investigating Judge recognizes that apart from describing the facts relating to the involvement of the accused and the gravity of the alleged crimes, it is necessary to give specific legal considerations to those facts at least to determine if they fall under the ECCC's jurisdiction, which may result in determining the gravity of the alleged crimes in the framework of personal jurisdiction.
